Chapter 131: Together forever.

Tess's POV:

"What the hell happened tonight, Tess?" Alexander asked me through the bars. He was still panting from his fight with Ethan. And I knew his body would be scarred by the blows he had taken. Fortunately, he had also managed to leave a few marks on Ethan.

"He found out, Alex. And he fooled us both!" I exclaimed to him. "I don't exactly know how, but

"I'm in jail because of him!"

"What do you mean by that? We had the most perfect plan!" Alex exclaimed to me.

"Well, if you think that this is perfection, you're really blind Alex. What I mean is that what happened to you and later to me... This is Ethan's doing! Somehow, he learned about what we did and took this revenge on us, and now, I am here, and I will have to face an accusation!" I exclaimed to him.

"Don't worry, honey. They only have circumstantial evidence," Alex told me dismissively. I didn't believe this man's phlegm. Desperation was taking over me more and more every second and he just thought I was trapped because of circumstantial evidence!

"And how am I not going to worry, Alex? I'm under arrest! I haven't even gotten the benefit of bail yet," I told him.

"You said it right, dear. You have not gotten bail YET. That doesn't mean you won't have it. Relax, babe. We'll figure it out, you can be sure of it," Alex told me.

This time, though, his words were not comforting me, and I had my doubts.

"Well, it's easy for you to say that, right, Alex? You're on the other side of these damn bars, honey!" I exclaimed.

"I say that not because it's easy for me to say, Tess. I said that because that's exactly how I'm going to proceed. I'm going to have my way and he's going to pay for what he's done. We're going to finish him off, but first, he's going to suffer like hell, I promise you!" Alex affirmed. He had a hard look in his eyes, and I knew he was dead serious about that.

"And how are we going to do that? I can't leave here, you know?" I asked him while I was gesturing to the cell that I was in.

"You don't have to worry about that for now, babe. I'm going to work to get you out of jail and to take Ethan down," Alex told me. He looked calmer and increasingly cold.

"You look like you already have a plan for this," I commented looking at his posture.

"I've been thinking about it for a few days now. I've had plenty of time for it when he decided to kick me out of my own company and you were worried about your marriage to him, honey. So, I can tell you by now, I have kind of formed a plan against him," Alex told me.

"And how are you going to do that?" I asked him in disbelief.

"First, I'm going to go after every single member of that damn board. And I'm going to convince them not only to change the votes that they cast to remove me from my own damn office, but also I'm going to show them documentation that I forged so they will understand that it was Ethan who defrauded the company and stole money through my part of the partnership. This way, they will reverse their last decision against me, and I could even convince them to give me Ethan's position at the conglomerate," Alex said.

"And why would they believe he's the one who stole the company when he's a billionaire who doesn't need to extort anything or anyone when he needs money?" I crossed my arms over my chest and asked him.

"That offended me, love. I'm also insanely rich, and apparently, I didn't have reasons to steal from my own company, if it wasn't for my gambling debt," Alexander told me. He probably was more delusional than I thought, because by my calculations, he didn't have as much money as he imagined to did.

"Still, you were removed from the office, weren't you?" I asked him incredulously.

"Well, if it's so important to you, it will happen because I'm also working on false evidence of gambling debts for Ethan. All I need is for him to be caught in the wrong place at the wrong time and everyone will believe he's embezzling money from the company to cover a debt he is ashamed to have. Then he will be kicked out of his own company," Alex explained to me.

"Well, that sounds like a plan at least," I muttered to him. I wasn't so sure about that, but a plan is better than no plan, and I didn't have the minimal resources to come up with a plan myself.

"See? I've got you covered, love," Alex told me absentmindedly. He couldn't be less worried even if he tried.

"So, what's left to put this plan into practice?" I demanded from him. "I don't want to stay here a minute more than necessary."

"Your patience, love. That is what it is going to take. I need a day or two to get everything up and running. I just didn't count on you being arrested. I thought that I would have all the time in the world to do this maneuver while you're on your honeymoon. So, when you guys got back from wherever the hell he was planning on taking you as a honeymoon, I'd hit him, and he wouldn't even see that coming," Alex told me.

"Damn it! I was sure I had him putty in my hands. Ethan really managed to surprise me. But that won't happen next time, I guarantee you," I told Alex.

"Honey, for what Ethan did to us, there shouldn't be a next time," Alex told me. He had a serious, final tone to his voice. I knew that he was dangerous, but at the moment, he was a man with nothing left to lose, which made him even more dangerous.

"Then we need to take him down as soon as possible. He and that insufferable woman of his. Oh, Alex, how I hate that slut, Hannah! She must have bewitched him, it's not possible that someone who didn't mean anything to him suddenly have so much relevance for him! Why would he drop someone like me to keep her? Hannah Brown is completely insipid!" I exclaimed. Ethan had to be crazy. I was like fire: alive, intense. Hannah was as dull as air. For a long time, Ethan didn't even want to know about his wife. It was only when she got pregnant that the game turned.

"I honestly don't know, love. You know I never liked being around her. And we exchanged insults all the time, remember?" Alex told me.

"Yes, I remember very well," I murmured to him.

"But the big problem with Hannah is the fact that she ran away, and we don't know where the hell she is hidden," I told him.

"Well, we don't know yet, do we? But with your accusation, she can go back to town as soon as she hears the news, can't she? And we'll be ready for her when she makes her triumphant return," Alex told me. I could hear a little sneer from him when he was speaking about Hannah's possible return.

"And did she already have that baby of hers?" I asked speculating.

Alex shrugged and said, "I have no idea, and if I knew, I would not care about that child either."

"Well, I do. When Ethan is destroyed, we might as well get Hannah out of the way and steal the child. You know damn well I can't get pregnant anymore. Their baby could be ours. We can start our little family. What do you think?" I suggested it to him.

Alex c*d his head as if he was studying me. His eyes narrowed as he looked intently at me.

"What is it?" I asked him.

"This might be your craziest idea, but the best one, Tess. And when they're nearly destroyed, we can tell them what plans we have for their child. If it doesn't make them lose their will to live, I will end their lives for them," Alex said.

"So, we have a plan after all. Now, it's just a matter of executing it, isn't it?" I asked him. I was excited for the first time since being taken away by the police from the hotel where the rehearsal dinner was taking place.

"Let's focus on one thing at a time, shall we?" Alex told me. "First, we need to get you out of jail."

"Yes, but I've already been told that the custody hearing is only a few days away, and even then, there's a high chance that I won't get a provisional release," I told him despondently.

Alex took my hands in a supportive gesture and murmured, "Nothing is impossible, sweetheart. And we'll go to hell if we have to so we can see Ethan pay for what he's done. You have my word on that."

"Oh, Alex, thank you for helping me and not leaving me alone at this very difficult time," I told him.

"Well, that just happened because of our true love, Tess. I'll set you free, we will take our revenge on them and we're going to be together forever," Alex told me.
