

THE DIVORCE PRESCRIPTION

Chapter 596

Pamela nodded. "Yes."

Hailey stood up. "Mrs. Zamora, I'll go find Declan right now. You have to hold on. I'll bring him back!"

Hailey quickly left the hospital and called Declan, but his phone was off and wouldn't connect.

Where could Declan be?

She immediately dialed James. "Dad, can you find out where Declan is? Please hurry!"

Sensing the urgency in her voice, James immediately got his people on it. Before long, he got back to her. "Hailey, Declan is at the mall, shopping with a woman."

That woman was undoubtedly Stella.

Declan was out shopping with her at this very moment.

Without hesitation, Hailey rushed to the mall.

...

In the mall, Declan was waiting for Stella, who was browsing clothes with the help of a sales assistant. For some reason, Declan felt uneasy, as if something bad was about to happen.

He took his phone out of his pocket.

Just then, Stella walked over. "Declan, no phone! Did you forget what you promised me? You're supposed to be with me. Turn it off!"

She had insisted he turn off his phone so he could give her his full attention.

Since that important figure was already on his way, nothing could go wrong. Declan went along with her wishes.

Declan smiled gently. "Okay, I'll do as you say."

"Miss, this dress would look stunning on you. Why don't you try it on?" the sales assistant suggested.

Stella beamed. "Okay! Declan, wait for me here."

She followed the assistant into the fitting room.

Declan remained where he was.

Just then, a familiar voice called out softly from behind him.

"Declan."

He turned and saw Hailey rushing toward him.

Declan froze, glancing at the closed

"Where to?"

Hailey looked him in the eye. "Declan, Mrs. Zamora doesn't have much time left."
