

The Divorce Prescription

Chapter 640

"Of course, there isn't. I checked from the beginning to the end, and Celine's name isn't on it!" Carly exclaimed.

Carly and Melody were certain they weren't wrong on this. The name "Celine" was an eyesore. If it were on the list, they would have known long ago.

Celine smiled. "Of course, my name isn't on the Billionaires List. It's because I used another name."

What did that mean?

Carly was stunned. "Another name? What name?"

Melody scoffed. "Celine, stop making things up. Just leave already. Stop embarrassing yourself."

Celine smirked. "I wonder who's really embarrassing themselves here."

At that moment, the event organizers stepped forward and stood beside Celine. "Ms. Celine is a distinguished guest of this year's Apex Gala. She's someone everyone has been eagerly anticipating. As the organizers, we will not allow anyone to humiliate Ms. Celine."

With that, a group of black-clad bodyguards emerged and stood behind Celine.

Carly's and Melody's expressions shifted at that. They looked at the organizers in disbelief. "Celine is a distinguished guest? Someone everyone has been anticipating? You must be mistaken!"

The organizers shook their heads. "We're not mistaken. You're just blind. Do you even know who Ms. Celine is?"

"Who is she?"

The organizers raised their voices. "Ms. Celine is none other than Linny, the financial powerhouse behind the largest pharmaceutical conglomerate!"

Celine was Linny?

Carly and Melody gasped sharply, their faces filled with shock. They looked between the organizers and Celine, unable to process what they had just heard.

Then, Carly blurted out, "Celine is Linny? How is that possible?"

Melody chimed in, "The financial mogul Linny has always been low-key and mysterious. No Opal has ever seen her true face. How could

Celine be Linny?"

Celine smiled. Slowly, she pulled out her identification badge—a small silver pin-and clipped it onto her black gown.

Carly and Melody stared at it. The golden-embossed letters on the pin read "Linny".

At that moment, Kaiya stepped forward. She had long lost patience with Carly and Melody, and now she declared, "This is our boss, oy. The two of you are truly blind!"

The entire room erupted into an uproar. Everyone stared at Celine in astonishment.

"Oh my gosh, she's Linny?"

"We all came here tonight just to catch a glimpse of Linny. I never imagined she'd be such a stunning beauty!"

"Ms. Hampton just accused Linny of sneaking in. That slap in the face must have stung!"

Carly and Melody instinctively took several steps back, acting as if they had been struck by lightning. Celine was actually Linny.

Three years ago, they had worked so hard to defeat Celine, forcing her to disappear completely.

And now, she had returned in triumph.

How could this be? Why was this happening?

Adam stepped forward, his gaze locked onto Celine.

So, his suspicions had been correct all along-Celine was truly the Linny he had once encountered years ago. She was Linny.

Adma didn't know how many more surprises Celine had in store for him. How could she be so extraordinary, so brilliant?

She always, held his attention so completely, making it impossible for him to look away. So it turned.

Out

their fates had been intertwined from the very beginning.
