

The Divorce Prescription

#Chapter 761 –

Read The Divorce Prescription Chapter 761

---- Chapter 761 Carly updated Anne on everything she had accomplished that day. Anne smiled in approval. "Good. With the Heartstring Venom, Adam won't be able to walk away from you." Carly looked relieved. "Ms. Warwick, the Heartstring Venom won't stop working unexpectedly, right? I've finally gotten a chance to be with Adam, and I'm scared of losing him." Anne chuckled. "Don't worry. This venom is powerful. Adam won't recover unless he stays with you forever." "Thank you so much, Ms.

Warwick." "You're welcome. Now, our true enemies are Celine and Fiona. I won't let that mother-daughter pair get away with this." Leo approached Adam quietly in the hospital room, speaking in a hushed tone. "Mr. Alvarez, Ms. Carly just stepped out to take a call. I overheard part of it-it sounded like she was talking to someone named Ms. Warwick." Ms. Warwick? Anne? Could Anne be the one pulling the strings behind all of this?

Adam pressed his lips together, a flash of uncertainty crossing his face. ---- He knew Anne-an orphan who had grown up depending entirely on Nigel. Could she really possess that much power? Was there something about her that Adam hadn't yet discovered? "Mr. Alvarez, what should we do next?" "I suspect Carly and Anne are working together," Adam replied. "But I'm not sure what they're planning yet. It's not a problem, though. I'll test Carly and find out." "Mr.

Alvarez, how do you plan to test Ms. Carly?" Adam's lips curved into a sly smile. "By making them turn on each other, of course!" Leo couldn't shake the unease settling in him as he watched Adam's unwavering confidence. The way Carly had taken a shot at Adam seemed incredibly reckless. At that moment, the door to the hospital room opened, and Carly stepped in. "Hey, Adam," she said. Adam turned his gaze toward her. "You just took a call.

Who was it?" Carly smiled sweetly, already prepared with an answer. "It was my mom." Adam smirked. "And what did she say?" "She asked about how things are going between us. The ---- Alvarez and Hampton families have always been close, and my mom and Mrs. Alvarez are best friends. Of course, she hopes I'll marry you sooner rather than later." Carly looked at Adam expectantly, a hint of anticipation in her eyes.

Instead of addressing her implication directly, Adam smiled and said, "Carly, I truly appreciate you staying by my side. How about this? I'm free tomorrow. Let me take you out to dinner." Carly's eyes sparkled with excitement. "Really, Adam? I can't wait for tomorrow!" "See you then." As Carly stepped into the Hampton residence, Nigel and Fiona immediately noticed her arrival. Fiona quickly approached , her voice tinged with concern. "Carly, where have you been?" "Twent to see Adam, Mom.

I've been with him this entire time. Fiona's expression froze. "What? You were with Mr. Alvarez? Carly, the last time he was here, he made things clear. Your father and I just want you to find someone who genuinely loves you and will make you happy. It's time to let go of Mr. Alvarez-" "Mom, Adam invited me to dinner tomorrow," Carly interrupted her. ---- Fiona was taken aback, momentarily speechless. "Mr. Alvarez invited you to dinner? What's he playing at?" Nigel's brows furrowed in concern.

"Carly, why would Adam suddenly ask you out?" A confident smile spread across Carly's face. She couldn't care less if her parents didn't support her-she still had Anne, and with her help, she would win Adam over. "Mom, Dad, Adam has always had feelings for me. If he's inviting me to dinner, it can only mean one thing -he wants to be with me."

---- Chapter 762 Fiona hesitated. "But-" "alright, Mom and Dad, I'm exhausted. I'm going to my room to get some rest. I need to be well-prepared for the perfect date with Adam tomorrow." With that, Carly turned and walked toward her room. Fiona's expression tensed up. "What is Adam playing at? He came to the Hampton residence not long ago to call off the engagement, and now he's involved with Carly again. What's his game?" "I'm calling Adam!" Nigel declared.

He pulled out his phone and dialed Adam's number. On the other end, the melodic ringtone echoed briefly before the call connected. Adam's deep, magnetic voice came through clearly. "Hello, Mr. Hampton. How are you?" Nigel's voice was sharp and cutting. "Adam, what exactly are you trying to do?" "I'm not sure what you mean, Mr.

Hampton." "Carly just came home and told us you invited her to dinner tomorrow." "That's correct." "Adam, you came to our house to end the engagement, saying ---- you wanted to be with Celine. We respected that decision. But now, you're getting involved with Carly again, bouncing between two women. What exactly are you trying to do? Do you think this is fair to Celine?" Fiona was equally upset. "Mr. Alvarez, Celine is a wonderful young woman.

If you truly care about her, be with her wholeheartedly. Stop leading Carly on. This isn't fair to any of you." Adam remained silent, listening to their accusations. "Mr. Hampton, do you know what kind of person Anne is?" he suddenly asked. Nigel was taken aback. "Why are you bringing up Anne?" "Mr. Hampton, I can't explain it all in a few words. But I have my reasons. Come tomorrow, and you'll understand the truth. With that, Adam ended the call. Fiona turned to Nigel. "What does Mr.

Alvarez mean by that?" "We'll find out tomorrow." Carly had a refreshing sleep and woke up early to get ready. It had been a while since she and Adam had gone on a date, and she was determined to look her best, hoping to outshine Celine. She slipped into a couture dress and spun in front of the mirror, pleased with how it looked on her. --

-- After a moment of admiration , she picked up her phone and dialed Adam's number. The melodic ringtone echoed through, but no one answered.

Adam wasn't picking up. Why wasn't he answering? Had he changed his mind? Panic immediately gripped Carly, though she couldn't bring herself to believe that Adam would back out. Determined, she quickly dialed his number several more times. Just as she was about to give up, the phone finally connected. Adam's calm, laid-back voice came through the line. "Hello, Carly." The sound of his voice immediately eased her racing heart." Adam, I've called you so many times! Why didn't you answer?

I was so worried!" Adam chuckled. "Carly, why are you so anxious?" "Adam, you promised we'd have dinner today. I was afraid you'd cancel on me." "Not at all. I haven't forgotten our dinner plans." "Then come pick me up! I'm all set." "I'm at the office for a meeting right now. Carly, you can go ahead first."

---- Chapter 763 Adam had just told Carly to go ahead on her own. Carly was momentarily caught off guard. She had hoped Adam. would pick her up-it would have made their date feel more special and romantic. "Adam, can't you come pick me up? I-" "Carly, I've already secured the reservation at Freeman Restaurant. I have an important meeting to attend, so it's best if you head over first. Be good," Adam cut her off.

The way he emphasized the last two words was commanding, leaving no room for protest. Carly, who was captivated by strong personalities, felt a thrill run through her. She quickly agreed, "Alright, Adam. I'll head over first, but make sure you get here soon!" "Of course." Carly left and instructed the driver to take her to the restaurant. When she arrived, the waiter greeted her with a warm smile." Welcome, Ms. Carly. Your table is ready.

Please follow me to the VIP section." With that, the waiter led her to a VIP table by the window. The stunning view outside immediately caught her attention, leaving her feeling pleased. ---- "Ms. Hampton, what would you like to drink?" "Just a coffee for now. I'll wait for Mr. Alvarez before ordering. anything else." "Of course. [hope you and Mr. Alvarez enjoy your time here," the waiter replied with a polite smile. Carly smiled back, feeling content.

Soon, her coffee arrived, and she gracefully took her first sip. Just then, a familiar voice echoed through the air. "Carly, is that you?" It was Hailey. She had also arrived at Freeman Restaurant and spotted Carly. Carly looked up and met Hailey's gaze. With a mischievous smile, she said, "Well, well, if it isn't Ms. Hailey. What a coincidence!

We always seem to run into each other wherever we go!" Hailey had planned to come to the restaurant with Aileen, but since Aileen hadn't arrived yet, Hailey had entered alone. The day before, Adam and Celine had made plans to go to city hall for their marriage certificate, but Adam had stood her up. Later, Celine walked in on Adam and Carly together at the hospital, and Hailey took her home afterward.

Celine had been busy at the hospital this morning, so Hailey decided to go out for a meal with Aileen instead. "Carly, do you honestly think I want to be anywhere near you? ---- People like you-who steal identities and deliberately ruin relationships -are the absolute scum. If I were in your shoes, I'd crawl into a hole and never show my face again." Hailey's words were as biting as Celine's, leaving Carly visibly frustrated.

With a sly smile, Carly responded, "Hailey, if Celine couldn't keep her man, that's on her. Let me set the record straight - I'm here because Adam invited me to dinner." "What?" Hailey's face tensed up in disbelief. "You're telling me Adam invited you to dinner?" "Yes, Hailey, you heard me right. Adam asked me out," Carly replied. Hailey's fury bubbled over as she mentally cursed Adam. How could he treat Celine like this? "You're lying, Carly. There's no way Adam would invite you to dinner.

You're just trying to mess with me, but I'm not buying it!" When she saw Hailey's expression, Carly couldn't help but feel even more smug. "Hailey, I wasn't lying. If you don't believe me, then sit across from us and watch how Adam will prove you wrong when he shows up!" Deep down, Hailey refused to believe that Adam could be the kind of man who would act so fickle. Without hesitation, she accepted the challenge. "Alright, Carly.

Let's see who ends up proven wrong today." ---- Hailey then took a seat at the table across from Carly, her gaze fixed firmly on her. Carly couldn't hide the grin spreading across her face, eager for the moment when Hailey would be completely disproven. Hailey quickly pulled out her phone and sent a message to Celine. "Celine, are you there?" At that moment, Celine had just finished a surgery at the hospital and was on her way back to Hailey's house to grab her bag.

Her phone buzzed, and she noticed a WhatsApp message from. Hailey.

---- Chapter 764 Celine quickly responded, "Hailey, I'm at your house. What's going on?" "Celine, this is urgent! I just saw Carly at Freeman Restaurant! " The moment Celine saw "Carly" on her screen, her fingers froze. Her thoughts immediately turned to Adam. Before she could even reply, Hailey's next message popped up. "Celine, Carly said Adam invited her to Freeman Restaurant for dinner!" Celine's heart skipped a beat. Adam invited Carly to dinner?

Just yesterday , Adam had asked her to go to the city hall to register their marriage , yet today, he was dining at Freeman Restaurant with Carly. What was he trying to do? "Celine, are you listening? What do you think Adam is up to? If he actually goes through with this dinner , I swear I'll cut him off. I can't have someone like him as my cousin." Celine could feel the anger in Hailey's words.

"Hailey, just go ahead and eat for now." With that, Celine put down her phone, her mind racing with thoughts of Adam. She, too, was baffled by his intentions. At that moment, the doorbell rang. Who could be at the door? Celine walked toward the door and opened i ---- At Freeman Restaurant , Carly had already finished three cups of coffee.

The waiter approached and politely asked, "Ms. Carly, would you like another cup of coffee?" Carly's expression grew darker with each passing minute.

She had been waiting for over an hour, yet Adam was nowhere to be found. There wasn't even the slightest sign of him. 'The waiter suggested, "Ms. Carly, perhaps you should call Mr. Alvarez to check if he's on his way." Just then, Hailey's mocking laughter echoed from across the table. Hailey had been waiting as well, and she, too, had yet to see Adam. "Carly, didn't you say Adam invited you to dinner? So why hasn't he shown up?

You've been waiting here for over an hour now," she said sarcastically. Carly's face drained of color. Initially , she had been certain Adam would show up, eagerly anticipating the moment she could prove Hailey wrong. But as the minutes stretched on, Adam still hadn't arrived . The atmosphere between her and Hailey had shifted. Hailey was clearly waiting for Carly to break. It was infuriating. Carly's irritation deepened as she shot a sharp glare at the ---- waiter. "What do you mean by that?

You think Mr. Alvarez isn't coming, don't you?" The waiter started to sweat nervously, quickly backpedaling. Ms. Carly, I didn't mean it like that." Carly's patience was already wearing thin, and she snapped, " Oh really? Because that's exactly what it sounds like to me!" "Alright , Carly!" Hailey interjected with a mocking smile." Don't make it harder for the waiter. He didn't say anything wrong.

If you're so confident , why don't you just call Adam and have him come here right now?" Carly gritted her teeth. Adam had promised her the night before that he'd meet her. With the Heartstring Venom binding him, there was no way he could stay away from her. She refused to believe he wouldn't show up. "Fine, Hailey. Watch carefully. I'll call Adam right now and bring him here!" Carly declared.