

The Divorce Prescription

#Chapter 781 –

The Divorce Prescription Chapter 781

---- Chapter 781 Celine felt truly moved. She hadn't expected Nigel and Fiona to want to take her in as their goddaughter. The truth was, she really liked Nigel and Fiona- watching how much they doted on Carly had always made her envious. Not having a mom or dad had always been the biggest regret of her life. And now, Nigel and Fiona wanted to fill that void. Celine began to tear up. "I'd love that! Mr. Hampton, Ms. Jakeman, I'd love to be your daughter!" Nigel and Fiona exchanged a glance, both overjoyed. Fiona pulled Celine into a hug. "That's wonderful, Celine.

From now on, you're our daughter." Celine nodded. "When I didn't say anything just now, it wasn't because I didn't want to. I just couldn't believe it. I'm really happy to become your daughter, Mr. Hampton, Ms. Jakeman!" Nigel said, "Celine, you can't call us Mr. Hampton and Ms. Jakeman anymore. You need to change that." ---- Fiona laughed. "Celine, you should start calling us Mom and Dad." Celine looked at the two of them, and tears rolled down her cheeks. "Dad! Mom!" "My dear daughter, Celine!" All three of them laughed.

Nigel said, "Celine, now that you're our daughter, we won't treat you lightly. I plan to throw a grand and formal celebration, invite all the high society families, and publicly announce you're our daughter!" Fiona nodded. "We're going to tell the whole world that we're your parents!" Celine wasn't too fond of big parties. "I..." "Celine, it's settled. Just listen to us." Upon seeing how firm Nigel and Fiona were, Celine agreed. "Okay." At that moment, Celine remembered Adam's existence. What about Adam?" Nigel's face turned serious. "Adam's still unconscious. He hasn't woken up yet.

The Heartstring Venom in his ---- system can only be cured by Anne!" The Heartstring Venom in Adam's body was extremely troublesome. Celine threw off the covers and got out of bed. "I'm going to see Adam." Celine walked into the room next door. Adam lay on the bed, his handsome face looking deathly pale. She reached out and touched his face, her heart aching for him. Just then, Adam moved slightly and slowly opened his eyes. He was awake. Celine beamed. "Adam, you're awake?" He sat up. "How long was I out?" "You've been out for hours.

I was so worried about you." While looking at her delicate, small face, he reached out and gently pinched her soft cheek. "Now you're worried about me? You're not planning to run off with Bella again, are you?" Celine wrapped her arms around Adam's strong waist and pressed her face against his chest. She listened to the steady, powerful beat of his heart -it made her feel safe. ---- She nuzzled against him. "Adam, I just want you to be okay." She was gentle and tender like a kitten, and it made Adam feel as though his heart would melt. He wrapped his arms around her. "Silly girl."

"I'm fine now. Don't worry." Celine looked up, her clear, wet eyes shimmering as she gazed at him. Adam was caught in her gaze, and he couldn't help but lean down to kiss her. She didn't shy away. She waited for his kiss to land, but it never did. A sharp pain shot through Adam's head, and he clutched his head. Celine's expression changed. "Adam, is the Heartstring Venom acting up again?" His face twisted in pain, but he didn't want her to worry. "I'm fine..." She stood up. "Every time I get close to you, it hurts. I have to stay far away. That way, you'll be okay."

"I'm leaving now." Even though Celine was terribly worried about Adam and ---- wanted nothing more than to stay by his side, she had to go.

---- Chapter 782 If Celine stayed, she would only cause Adam more pain. She turned and walked away. "Celine, don't go!" Adam threw off the covers and got out of bed, wrapping his arms around Celine from behind. He buried his face into Celine's long hair, his voice hoarse as he pleaded, "Celine, don't go. Please don't leave me." Celine knew Adam was in pain right now, and she was hurting too. "Adam, let go. If this keeps up, the pain's going to kill you." But he didn't let go. Instead, he held her even tighter. "Then let it kill me."

"Celine, just don't leave me!" But the very next second, a wave of searing pain hit him. Adam's vision went black, and his tall, lean frame collapsed again. Celine caught him just in time. "Adam!" When Adam woke up again, it was already nighttime. Nigel and Fiona were sitting by his bedside. "Adam, you're awake?" Nigel asked. ---- Their eyes were full of concern. They quickly reached out to help Adam sit up. Adam looked around but didn't see Celine anywhere. "Mr. Hampton, Mrs. Hampton, where's Celine? Where did she go?" Nigel hesitated.

"Celine, she..." "She's taking Bella and leaving me, isn't she? No. I have to find her!" Adam threw off the covers and got out of bed. Fiona quickly stopped him. "Mr. Alvarez, Celine didn't leave. She's just in the room next door." Adam asked, "Really? You're not lying to me?" "We're not lying, Mr. Alvarez. Celine's really worried about you. But she can't get close to you right now. If she does, your Heartstring Venom will flare up again. So she has no choice but to stay in the room next door." Nigel and Fiona were feeling incredibly guilty.

Anne and Carly had administered the Heartstring Venom together, and they couldn't avoid responsibility for it. Still, Adam wasn't reassured. "No. I'm going to see her!" "Mr. Alvarez!" ---- At that moment, Celine was indeed in the room next door. After giving Adam acupuncture treatment, she came back out. As much as she worried about him, she didn't dare get close. She had to stay far away. Was he awake now? Was he feeling any better? Was he still in pain? Celine was full of worry. Then, she heard Nigel's and Fiona's voices outside the room. "Adam, your body's weak right now."

You need bed rest!" "I need to see Celine!" Ceilne blinked lightly. She had heard Adam's voice -he was here to see her. The very next second, there was a soft knock at the door. Adam's low, raspy voice came through. "Celine? Celine, are you in there?" Celine trembled. She quickly got up and went to the door. Her hand reached for the doorknob, ready to open it. But then she remembered the Heartstring Venom in his system, and her hand froze in place. Right now, she was like slow-acting poison to him. She couldn't open the door. Celine withdrew her hand.

"Adam, I'm here." ---- Now, the two of them stood on opposite sides of the door, talking through the wooden barrier between them. When he heard her voice, Adam's anxious heart finally settled. He curved his thin lips into a slight smile. "Celine, I thought you left when I didn't see you earlier. I thought you took our daughter and walked out on me."