Chapter 1091

There was a red palm mark on Rosaria's face. Her chest was rising and falling quickly. Immediately, she became nervous. She had never been able to understand his mind.

Luke seemed to feel pitiful for her. He stroked her face in a very gentle and tender manner. It seemed that he was talking to her or it seemed not, "The first time I asked 'what do you think of him?' you answered like this too."

Rosaria sat still, daring not to move. He had always been like this, some times he would give her a hard slap, but sometimes she was very dear to him.

"Look. I've bought you a lot of new clothes again today. Try them on and see if you like them." He said in a soft voice.

Rosaria did as he told and went into the room. She was from a poor family. Luke paid her college fees and financed her to study overseas.

In addition, Luke also had her receive plastic surgeries on her eyes, mouth, and nose.

When she was talking to him, he would say she shouldn't talk or smile this way. He gave her a videotape and told her to learn from it, including the way of talking, smiling and behaving.

He was making her imitate another woman, but he never slept with her.

But he doted on her too, bringing her what was considered the best and the most beautiful, as if she was the person that he loved most in the world.

For Luke, he indeed loved Zora very much, but he also felt guilty about her.

Back then when Kingsley and Zora left the Wright family and started to live a hard life, Luke went to see Zora and promised her a better life as long as she would break up with Kingsley.

Zora was so insistent that she refused him.

Luke got furious. Since Luke could do nothing about Zora, he then took advantage of Kingsley's parents. Kingsley was suppressed at that time and had to work at the construction site, carrying bricks and cement.

Luke had a reporter take a lot of pictures of Kingsley and show them to Kingsley's parents. Kingsley was born with the silver spoon, but then in the picture, he looked like a migrant worker, who was wearing a vest, full of mud and dirt, and looked very wretched.

Kingsley's father was still angry with Kingsley and he cared little about how hard Kingsley was struggling with his life unless Kingsley came back home and begged him to forgive him.

But women had always been soft-hearted. Kingsley's mother could not bear to see her son suffering like this anymore, and then she took the money to the house Kingsley and Zora rented.

Kingsley's mother said that seeing Kingsley suffering, Zora wasn't as insistent as before. Zora couldn't bear to see his man do labor work and suffer either. She burst into tears.

Luke was delighted when he heard it from Kingsley's mother. But he never expected that the money Kingsley's mother left here had attracted the attention of a wicked man.

That night, a robber broke into their house, took away the money, raped Zora, and dumped her body in the field.

In the end, that robber was arrested, who turned out to be one of the servants who worked for the Wright family. Tempted by the money and considering that place was backward without surveillance cameras, the servant committed the crime.

Luke thought that it was he who indirectly killed Zora, and if Kingsley's mother had not gone over with money, those things would not have happened to Zora.

But Kingsley was largely to be blamed for Zora's death, who had left her alone in such a dangerous place like that and hadn't returned that night.

So, he doted on Rosaria, showing all his guilt and his love to her.

The phone rang and it was Luke's son who called.

Luke answered the call in a soft and compassionate voice. He loved his son.

But when his son said he would give the phone to his mommy, Luke quickly hung up the phone.

Luke got married due to a mistake he made. After Zora died, he got wasted. Luke's wife was Merlin's classmate, who had have a crush on Luke since long before. After hearing the news, Merlin's classmate came over to comfort Luke.

Then Luke slept with her. After that, the woman never appeared in front of Luke again. It was in the hospital when Luke met her again, who was then holding a newborn baby in her arms and was checking out with Merlin.

In addition, the woman had a bad leg. In other words, she was crippled.

Chapter 1092

The boy hung up the phone, looked back at the woman painting in the light, and said, "Mom, Dad said he was busy and would call you later when he had time."

This was obviously his excuse. He had always been very understanding and did not want his mother to be sad.

The woman looked pretty. Unfortunately, she walked with a limp. She nodded and asked, "Do you want some milk?"

The boy nodded, so the woman walked slowly to the table and poured milk. She had gotten used to the fact that he would only call his son, not her. She was okay with that.

Kingsley didn't go to the company often, only once or twice on occasion. Only when there was a major meeting would he go over.

During that time, Rosaria called and the secretary who answered the phone gave her Lee's number.

Since then, she had never seen Kingsley again.

With her belly getting bigger and bigger, Sherman couldn't do anything well, so Kingsley advised

Sherman to take maternity leave, and she agreed.

When she went to the manager's office, Billy was there. But she didn't shy away from explaining her intentions to the manager.

The manager had to agree.

When she walked out of the office, Billy also walked out and stood behind her. For a long time, they had never been so peaceful together.

He was a little overwhelmed and didn't know what to say. After a long time of silence, he said, "Are you in good health?"

"Yes." Sherman's attitude was casual, lifting her wrist to check the time, and said insincerely, "She's also pregnant for more than a month, right?"

Billy felt upset, and his heart seemed to be punched. The veins on his head were twitching.

He didn't want to mention Natalie at all, which reminded him of his failure as Sherman's husband and the baby in Natalie's belly, which might not be his baby. How could he talk about these things?

"My boyfriend is coming to pick me up. Bye." Sherman said. She didn't turn around and walked happily out of the company.

Billy wanted to stop her, but he did not know what to say and could not find a reason to ask her to stay. So he could only watch Sherman leave.

He saw Sherman nestling into Kingsley's arms and saw Kingsley treating her with tenderness and affection. What a loving couple!

Billy was in pain. Now, even if he died of pain and agony, she would not turn back.

His heart kept pounding. Billy leaned against the wall.

When Sherman loved him, he did not know how to cherish it and thought that no matter how he hurt Sherman, she would never leave. Until one day, she suddenly decided to give up their relationship. Then they began to quarrel. In the end, Billy realized that he and Sherman were both badly hurt in their relationship.

If he hadn't treated Sherman the way he did, now he and Sherman would have their baby. He could have bragged to his friends that he had become a father.

But it was a beautiful dream that could never become a reality. He had lost Sherman and their baby forever.

Sherman couldn't refuse the idea that Kingsley wanted to go on vacation, so they decided to go to Sanctum Isles for a vacation. Kingsley said that they were going to relax and stay in a good mood. She thought it was a good idea.

They set off for Sanctum Isles that night. Sanctum Isles enjoyed a mild climate year-round because of the season wind, which was the ideal place for a vacation.

Compared with their comfort, Natalie felt stressed all day.

Seeing the days passing by, she was getting increasingly worried because she was going to do the test.

Chapter 1093

She was afraid that if the baby turned out to be not Billy's, then she would be finished! When the baby got four months old, she had to go to the hospital to take a paternity test.

Now with less than a month to go, there wasn't much time left.

Now she lived in fear every day, and she lived on her own money, and also she was despised by Billy and Moriah. It was much worse than when she was single and living alone.

But she would not give up her position in the Day family. Even if she had to give it up in the end, she would find another man.

She didn't have much money left in hand. She had to do everything she could to get some money from Billy. Otherwise, she would have to find another man.

Her life was getting more and more miserable now. She was like living in hell. Billy never came into her room anymore. She was alone all the time...

No, she could foresee her life in the future would not be easy. She was counting the days before she went to take the paternity test.

She had to gather some of Billy's hair to prepare for the test.

During the recent days, Billy slept in the bedroom next door every night. Today, no one was home. It was so perfect for her.

Billy had gone to work and Moriah had gone out shopping with some of her friends, all wealthy ladies. Only she and the maids were in the house.

For her, this was a rare opportunity.

Natalie opened the door of Billy's bedroom and went in. There were strands of hair that scattered on the sheets. She didn't need too many. Just a few strands would be enough.

Natalie gathered the hair and put them in the drawer of the dresser. She heard from bivia that Sherman and Kingsley had gone on a trip to the Sanctum Isles.

Natalie felt jealous, and she resented it so much. Why was Sherman so lucky? Not only did she meet an excellent man, but most importantly, that man was rich. It was a true prominent wealthy family. And that man loved her so much. Damn the woman! They were both women, but how their fates were so different!

She went through so much and schemed so many plots. Eventually, she married Billy as she wished, and married into the Day family. But what about now?

Now, Billy hated her so much. He might kick her out of the house at any time. There was not a scrap of affection or love between them.

Her life got even worse than before she got married. How tenderly he treated her before! There was no conflict or dispute between them. He gave her a credit card. But now, she couldn't get a penny from him!

Becoming his wife, it used to make her happy. Now, she was still his wife. But it made her miserable.

She resented fate was so unfair to her!

With grief and anger in her chest, Natalie went shopping. She entered a world-famous boutique. It was fine if Billy wouldn't give her any money! She wouldn't ask him for money! It would not be too much for her to buy some clothes. The well-known CEO of Day Corporation could afford to buy his wife a few clothes.

She only chose the most expensive clothes. If the item was not a global limited edition, she would not even lay her eyes on it. After just a while, she had picked out quite a few, which were about three million dollars.

Billy was looking through a pile of files when he got the call from Natalie. When he heard Natalie's request, he furrowed his eyebrows. But then he agreed, and he granted her to sign his name.

She couldn't get a penny of Billy's money. As for such expenses, how many times would he tolerate her?

It was no problem for Billy to support a woman's expense, but his tolerance got a limit!

When she was his woman, he would give her the best o f everything. But in Natalie's case, he wouldn't spend another penny for her.

Natalie had achieved her goal and she was content. The next day, she went on another shopping spree at the mall. But when she was about to pay, she couldn't get through to Billy's phone. Without Billy's confirmation, the payment could not proceed.

Chapter 1094

Many people were waiting in line. Some of them stared at her with strange eyes.

Natalie couldn't bear it and directly sneered, "I'm Billy's wife. Isn't it okay for m e to sign my husband's name when shopping?"

"Sorry. We have rules. If the other party doesn't agree, the signature won't be valid." The shop assistant said politely and firmly.

Since many people kept urging her, Natalie had to put those things back in place angrily.

Billy has gone too far!'

The scenery of Sanctum Isles was very beautiful. There were beaches, blue sea, blue sky and coconut trees. Everything was pleasant.

Sherman's belly was bulging, so she couldn't wear a bathing suit or swim. She could only stay on the beach.

There were sea motorboats. Changing his clothes, Kingsley wanted to ride one of them. Sherman told him to be careful, and then she waited for him on the beach.

Nodding, Kingsley cupped her face with his big hands, kissed her, and walked towards the motorboat.

He was tall and strong. His sturdy figure, especially his pectoral muscles, was revealed because he was in a black straitjacket.

When he passed by, he drew many people's attention. Wherever he went, he was always dazzling and attractive.

He rode the motorboat so fast that he disappeared from sight instantly, which stirred up many waves.

The place where the motorboat passed by was full of waves. Sitting on the motorboat, he looked handsome and charming.

Sherman hadn't seen what he looked like when he was young. But she thought that he must have been energetic and spirited.

A young man passed by Sherman. He suddenly stopped and greeted her warmly. Sherman smiled lightly and greeted him.

The man was very handsome and talkative. He was very humorous, and he always made people laugh. Sherman felt a little bored, so she chatted with him.

After a while, Kingsley returned. His clothes were wet, which clung to his body.

There were water beads on his face.

Sherman wiped his face with her sleeve and said, "Why are you back so quick?"

"I'm afraid you'll feel lonely here..." Kingsley wrapped his big hand around her waist and looked at the man in front of him with his deep eyes.

After freezing for a moment, the man came back to his senses and said angrily, "Why didn't you tell me that you were waiting for someone?"

"You didn't ask me about it." Sherman replied. It was he who came over to talk to Sherman, so it was none of her business.

With a stern face, the man became depressed. But he didn't dare to lose his temper.

"Why are you so petty? It doesn't seem to be a loss to you to chat with me, does it?"

Sherman had thought he was quite nice, but now she thought he was impolite.

Kingsley smiled lightly, put his hand on her belly, and said, "Is our baby well behaved?"

Sherman also smiled, "Yes. Let's go. We should go to other scenic spots."

The man froze, 'Why didn't I see her bulging belly just now?'

Chapter 1095

As Sherman walked forward, she proudly said that since she came to Sanctum Isles, she had been hit on several times, which showed that she was very charming.

Hearing this, Kingsley let out a long and helpless sigh. He held her even more tightly, pressed his head against her forehead and said, "From now on, I must follow you everywhere..."

Sherman giggled and reached out to pat his chest. "So you must always have a sense of crisis."

"Actually, I always have a sense of crisis in my heart..." He replied.

She slightly raised her head in confusion.

Kingsley continued, "I'm seven years older than you, so I have to have a sense of crisis."

Sherman blinked. He continued, "Compared with your age, am I a little older?"

"No, you are in your prime. If you were there, you would attract a group of women."

"I like older men. Don't worry. You are not old! When a man is at this age, he is at his most charming time." Sherman chuckled and held his waist. "You are only 34 years old, and I love you so much."

Kingsley chuckled. He liked her sweet words. He held her in arms and kissed her softly with deep affection.

Sherman accepted his kiss happily. Then, her chest rose and fell and she couldn't help gasping. "Your enthusiasm is higher than that of an 18-year-old one!" "I will always be enthusiastic to you..." His voice was low and hoarse, with a rough feeling.

Sherman narrowed her eyes. "Don't be so enthusiastic. If you continue to be like this,

I guess you will ignite yourself."

He kissed her mouth with warm breath and said helplessly, "Baby, what you said is right. I think I need to go to the bathroom now..."

Sherman didn't know what to say.

Anyway, she had already asked for leave, so she would stay there for a long time.

Sherman felt that this kind of life was the happiest.

The two of them watched the sunrise and sunset together every day. During the day, they visited many places on a whim and enjoyed the delicious food and beautiful scenery. Every day, they were very happy.

No matter when she fell asleep or woke up, she could not help but smile happily.

Now she led a happy life...

He bought her a lot of clothes and nutritional supplements. Sherman glared at him and protested that she hadn't finished all the nutritional supplements at home yet!

He seemed to have developed a habit now. Every time he went to a place, he would first find nutritional supplements and then buy a lot. Sherman's protest was of no use to him.

Luke asked Rosaria how she had developed with Kingsley recently. According to the employees in the company, it seemed that Kingsley had been in Sanctum Isle to take a trip for ten days.

"He took a trip with Sherman?" Luke frowned and scowled.

At this time, Rosaria didn't dare to make a sound. She kept in silence and had no idea of what he was thinking.

Since she didn't know, why should she ask for trouble?

After a while, Luke said, "You can't go on like this in front of him."

However, Rosaria did not understand his words.

Luke smiled and said, "You must make him absent-minded and let him miss you by virtue of your words and appearance. Do you understand?"

Chapter 1096

Rosaria nodded but didn't say anything. She should listen to him on everything. This was their agreement.

He spoiled her and gave her the best things. But he drew the line, which she should not cross.

"Where's the video tape of her birthday?" Luke turned on the video player, turned around, and looked at Rosaria, who was sitting on the corner of the sofa.

Rosaria said, "I'll go look for it."

Then she went to the bedroom. After searching in the whole bedroom, she didn't find it.

She thought, It might be lost. If Luke knows about it, he will definitely lose his temper.'

Biting her lips slightly, Rosaria walked out of the bedroom and said in a low voice, "It's lost."

Sure enough, Luke instantly slapped her in the face in anger and said angrily, "What?"

Rosaria covered her face, not daring to say anything.

Then Luke slapped her in the face with force again. A red palm mark was left on her face. He said, "If you lose her things again, I won't let you go! "

He was in a bad mood now. Sometimes, he was moody. Especially when he mentioned that woman, he was in a particularly bad mood.

Luke left, so Rosaria was left in the room alone.

Soon, Natalie was two months pregnant. It was time for Natalie to have a fetal test.

Natalie was scared. Her heart kept pounding.

After washing up in the morning, she planned to go to the hospital.

She hesitated whether to go to a big hospital or a small clinic. She worried about the medical skill in the small clinic, but no one would notice her if she went there for the test. The medical skill in the big hospital was excellent and secure, but she would draw more attention if she went there.

After thinking about it, she decided to go to a big hospital. Anyway, her health was the most important. If something happened to her, she would definitely regret it.

Bostabaca was very close to Santabaca. If she took the bus, she could get to Bostabaca quickly. So she decided to go to the hospital a little farther away.

The doctor said that paternity test wasn't good for the fetus now, which was very dangerous. So he didn't recommend it. If Natalie did the paternity test with amniotic fluid when she was four months pregnant, it would have little effect on the baby.

But anyway, she had already decided to do it. She came over today just to do the test. It was impossible for her to give it up!

Since she insisted on doing the paternity test, the doctor agreed helplessly.

It didn't take her a long time to have an operation. After making sure that the doctor wouldn't expose the patient's information, she immediately left Bostabaca by bus and returned to Santabaca.

She would get the result of the test in a week. Now she had to wait for it.

Sherman and Kingsley also returned to Santabaca. After staying outside for more than half a month, Sherman felt that she was tanned.

Lee went to the airport to pick them up.

Seeing that Mr. Wright had bought a lot of nutritional supplements, he twitched his eyebrows.

When they returned to the apartment, Sherman hurriedly lay down on the bed to sleep. She was too tired these days.

Kingsley whispered helplessly, "I have to attend an important meeting in the company."

The meeting lasted for a long time. He had just started the company, so he had to deal with many things.

Chapter 1097

After the meeting, Rosaria caught up with Kingsley. Her face was a little pale and she gave him the money.

Kingsley felt helpless and took the money.

"I didn't give it to Lee because I think it's more polite to give it to you. I think first impressions are very important." She said with a smile.

Kingsley seemed to have heard these words before. He moved his eyes slightly and said, "Maybe."

Rosaria looked uncomfortable. The next second, she staggered and fell to the ground.

Taking two steps forward, Kingsley took her to the lounge and called the manager to get a doctor.

When the doctor and manager arrived, he asked them to notify Rosaria's family or friends, and then he left.

He did what he could do for a colleague in the department. He didn't offend Rosario or treat her indifferently. He neither cared too much about Rosaria nor ignored her.

Sherman's belly was getting bigger and bigger. Early in the morning, Kingsley drove Sherman to the hospital and accompanied her to do the checkup.

A lot of people did fetal tests in the morning, so it took a long time to come to Sherman's turn. The baby's gender could be known, but Sherman did not want to know that. Nor did Kingsley.

He stroked her hair gently and said, "There is no difference between boys and girls. Let's wait for the baby's birth and save a surprise."

The doctor couldn't help but look at this calm and elegant man. Kingsley was so outstanding that the doctor noticed him the moment he came in.

He was more patient than expected. While waiting, he whispered to Sherman from time to time and smiled all the time.

Sherman loved surprises too. Whether it was a baby boy or a baby girl, she would love it. She lost a baby before, so this time she would love this baby even more.

When Sherman had the ultrasound, they could see the baby in her belly. Kingsley felt amazing. He had never thought of life as a miracle before.

He was so absorbed and fascinated that he didn't come back to his senses until Sherman called him several times. His eyes still rested on the machine and he said, "The baby is as naughty as you are."

Sherman couldn't help but laugh, "The baby hasn't been born yet. How do you know the baby is as naughty as I am? Besides, I'm not naughty."

Kingsley showed a charming smile and asked the doctor for the ultrasound images, which he planned to have a good look at before mailing them to his mother and grandpa.

Sherman felt a little embarrassed. These were just ultrasound images. Why did he show them off?

Kingsley was in a good mood and walked out of the ultrasound room with a smile on his face.

When they walked out of the hospital, they saw Billy and Moriah. Moriah's arm was injured, so she came to the hospital.

Sherman did not greet Billy but greeted Moriah, "Moriah."

Seeing Kingsley, Moriah looked at Sherman's belly and asked, "Are you coming to the hospital for a checkup?"

"Yes." She smiled, "I hope you'll get well soon. Please take care of your health.

Goodbye."

Kingsley's big hands fell on Sherman's waist. He smiled and looked at Sherman gently.

Billy stood rooted to the spot, looking at the back of Sherman and Kingsley. He was stunned and didn't move.

All Billy felt now was heartbroken, lonely, sad, helpless, and miserable.

He always thought that she would only be pregnant with his baby, but now she was carrying another man's baby and smiled happily.

Billy was pierced to the heart with guilt, and he suddenly felt very weepy.

Moriah called him and said,

"Let's go. You did not accompany Sherman when she was pregnant. When she was five months pregnant, she showed the ultrasound images to me. She was full of joy when she told me about the fetus. I asked her if she had told you. She said you were busy and tired, and would soon fall asleep at night. Sometimes you even fall asleep in your study. She didn't wake you up for fear of disturbing you. She said that when the baby is born, you may feel fresh and interesting, and then you may be more concerned about the baby and her. But you didn't wait until then."

Moriah's words made Billy feel even more guilty. His legs were so weak that he could hardly stand, and he said, "Mom, leave me alone..."

Moriah patted him on the back and left.

Billy consorted with Natalie around that time. When he came home to face

Sherman, he was always bored and impatient.

When Sherman said she had something to tell him, he always said he was tired. Then she let him lie down, and she massaged him.

'She has done so much for me. What have I done? Damn you, Billy!'

Billy could hardly walk and did not want to, so he sat on the bench. He buried her head between his legs, and tears poured down his cheeks. He lost Sherman, after all.

The doctor called Natalie and asked her to take the paternity test report, but Natalie could hardly wait to know the result, "Please tell me the result now. I will take it in the afternoon."

The doctor answered, "It doesn't match with the owner of the hair. Please remember to take it in the afternoon, Ms. Moore."

Natalie was stunned. The phone fell heavily on the ground, like hitting her heart...

She was so agitated that she ran around like a headless chicken in her room.

Not only her heart but her temples were pounding, and even her blood vessels were almost bursting. She grabbed her hair and screamed!

"Why? Why? How could it be such a coincidence? My god, why are you doing this? Why are you torturing me like this?"

She had sex with Billy before she had sex with Leonel. Either of them could be the baby's father. Why Leonel?

If the baby was Billy's, they certainly would not divorce. In addition, she would get some money. That was exactly what she wanted.

Unfortunately, that was not the case. The baby was Leonel's! She was in a most helpless plight.

No one could help her. It was something she could not discuss with anyone, not even Livia, with whom she was on best terms. She was racked with a terrible headache and was inconsolable!

The test report could not be omitted. Natalie had to take a bus to Bostabaca at once. When she took the test report, she double-checked its accuracy with the doctor.

And the doctor answered in affirmative, there was no mistake in the test report.

It was late when she got back to the Day family's villa. The test report was in her bag. She went to her room and read it carefully.

The result was clear that the baby was not Billy's but Leonel's.

She was so upset that she could not help complaining about the motility of Billy's sperms.

Her sixth sense told her that she could not keep the test report or she would get in trouble if it was found out.

She could not tear it to pieces because scraps of paper could be eye-catching. There was no better way than to burn it.

She found a lighter and a glass bottle, then lit the test report. The glass bottle blew out black smoke, and the smell was offensive.

Then she dumped the ashes into the toilet and pressed the button for the water to flush them down.

After that, she washed her face and went out of the bathroom. Her heart skipped a beat when she opened the door and saw Billy standing there.

Chapter 1099

Natalie took a deep breath and her heart rate steadied. "Will you go to sleep in our bedroom tonight?" She asked happily, and her tone full of expectation.

"I'm here to get some files...." Billy said frostily. Then he frowned. There was a smell of burning. "What did you burn in the bedroom?"

Natalie's heart lurched, and she said, "Just some waste paper."

Billy kept silent and gave Natalie a blank stare that flustered her. She looked away and quickly moved on to something else, "What files are you looking for? I'll get them for you." "No need!" Billy looked away, took the files out of the drawer, and left.

Natalie's knees buckled. She was eaten up by regrets! 'God! Why should I bring back the test report sheet? I should have thrown it outside!'

But she would still be worried if she threw it outside. Billy was a big cheese in the Santabaca. She would be trouble if the test report was found, so she might as well take it back and burn it!

'He can't conjecture anything just by the burning smell.' Natalie felt relieved at the thought, but only for the time being.

At dinner time, Natalie was alone in the Day family's villa. The servant said Billy had gone to the club and Moriah had gone to play poker.

She thought it was nice to be alone at home, relaxed and at ease.

When she was ready for dinner, Leonel and Sarah came to the villa.

The relationship between Sarah and Natalie turned sour after that incident, and they did not even say hello to each other.

It was dinner time, so of course, they ate together. Sarah did not see Moriah and left the Day family's villa after learning from the servant that Moriah had gone to play poker.

Only Leonel and Natalie were left in the dining room.

They ate and said not a word, so the room was silent. After a while, Natalie decided to sound him out, "What would you do if another woman had your baby?"

It took Leonel a moment to realize that Natalie was asking him, and he shrugged, "Tell her to get an abortion." "What if she refuses?" Natalie thought he was really a callous man.

"She will not fare well in the Santabaca, given the status of the Day family and the Gorton family." Leonel added, "Sarah is no good to provoke."

Natalie weighed up this matter and prepared for the worst. If Billy found the baby was not his but Leonel's, she already knew what would happen to her.

Divorce was inevitable, and judging by Billy's attitude to her, she would not get much money after it.

Leonel had no sense of responsibility and had been controlled by his father and Sarah.

His father would not allow him to turn against the Day family for a woman, and Leonel would obey his father even for money.

Therefore, this man would never give a woman his undivided attention. Natalie would not be so daft as to threaten Leonel with this baby.

"I'm pregnant with your baby." Natalie lowered her voice.

Leonel thought it was impossible. He thought she was joking.

Natalie showed Leonel the photo of the test report she had taken.

Chapter 1100 "Why didn't you take the pill?" Leonel did not take it seriously until he saw the report.

"I dream of having Billy's baby. And I had sex with Billy before you set me up. How could I be on the pill?" Natalie growled through clenched teeth, even wanting to kill him.

Leonel was flustered, "What should we do? It must not be known to the Day family, or we'll go to hell together!"

"Ha! Do you think I don't know that? I haven't decided yet. I'll call you when I figure out what to do. Don't call me in the meantime in case they perceive something.

Leonel agreed. He came to repent his recklessness. 'God, what have I done! What did I get myself into?'

When Moriah and Sarah came in, Leonel and Natalie ate quietly without a word.

Natalie thought a lot in her room alone. She thought it would be wise to take some money from Leonel first. She would think about other things later.

It happened that Leonel was alone in the living room when Natalie went downstairs to get some water. "Six million dollars." She left a word as she passed.

Leonel's eyebrows knitted together in a little frown.

"Don't tell me you can't afford it. You just remember that you did this, Leonel, okay? Or we're all going down together. Give it to me by 6 p.m. in five days." With that, she left. She did not believe that the young master of the Garton family did not have six million!

Of course, Leonel could afford it. He also wanted to let it rest, so he said yes.

Natalie did not give him the bank account number. She planned to go to the bank to set up a new bank card. But she could not be the owner of the account in case someone else found out.

Her grandma would come to the Santabaca shortly. She intended to ask her younger cousin to take her grandma to apply for a bank card.

She carefully worked out these plans in great detail.

Billy came home late, drunk, still saying Sherman's name.

Moriah really wanted to throw a pail of water over him so that would sober him up.

Billy awoke the next morning in Moriah's room with a severe headache. He did not remember how he slept there last night.

Moriah came in with a bowl of hangovercure soup, "I heard from the doctor that the result of the paternity test with two-month-old fetus' villi is also reliable."

"Really?" Billy drank the soup.

"You are the one to decide," Moriah said no more.

There was something indefinable in Billy's eyes. And no one could figure out what he was thinking.

Natalie was surprised when Billy did not go to the company and instead stayed at the Day family's villa.

She had also asked for leave because her younger cousin was taking her grandma to get a new bank card that day, and she was still waiting for them.

She could not go out because Billy was at home, and she did not want to arouse his suspicions.

"I'm going to get milk. Would you like some water?" Natalie asked Billy, who was sitting on the sofa.
