

THE PRINCESS CONSORT HAS A LETHAL DESTINY

Chapter 466: Killed Someone

Zhao Xuzhi was the son of a concubine. Naturally, he was also the son of the Princess. There was nothing wrong with that.

“Xuzhi?” The Princess was a little confused, “Master, have you seen Xuzhi? What’s wrong with him? Could it be that... he also touched something that he shouldn’t have?”

The Princess was still a little worried at that moment.

Although she did not like the son of a concubine, she knew that her husband had done a lot for her.

As a Prince, he was only willing to take in concubines when he was 40 and had no children. It was the deepest love he could show.

Furthermore, other than the concubine and the son, there was no one else in the residence. Even after giving birth to a child, the Prince did not favor that woman again.

Just because of that, as long as the son of the concubine did not harm her son, she would be able to treat Zhao Xuzhi generously.

Other than the position of Young Heir that belonged to her son, she would try her best to satisfy whatever the b*stard wanted.

For instance, the master he hired for his fief, the dignity that he valued, it could be said that no other b*stards in the royal family had a more comfortable life than Zhao Xuzhi.

At the very least, the b*stards of other families were not allowed to enter the palace.

As for her, every time there was a banquet in the palace, she had always intended to praise Zhao Xuzhi.

The Princess was still a little upset about the golden top incident, but when she thought about how the b*stard had done it unintentionally, she could only forget it since he was punished or scolded.

She also found out that the dirty things in her son's room had nothing to do with Zhao Xuzhi.

It was a small toy that a steward in the residence had bought at a low price from someone else to reward her son.

The Princess looked at Xie Qiao with concern.

Xie Qiao said, "This time, I'm here for a commoner."

The Princess was puzzled.

"A few months ago, when your family entered the capital, Zhao Xuzhi helped a woman and punished her husband. Are you aware of that?" Xie Qiao asked.

The Princess nodded, "I know. At that time, this child was kind enough to do a good deed. His father was quite pleased when he saw that, so he didn't stop him. After that, this matter even spread in the capital. Everyone said that this child was kind and benevolent."

At that moment, the ghoul beside Xie Qiao became more agitated.

His eyes were red with tears of blood.

Kind and benevolent. Due to his benevolence, his son was gone!

If he had not been locked up by this nobleman, his son would not have been helpless, bullied, and despised. He would not have killed himself!

Moreover...

When he quarreled with his wife, he had already thought of divorcing her. After all, that woman had taken his son's education fund. He could not bear it and was not going to continue living with that woman!

Initially, as long as he divorced his wife and took care of his son wholeheartedly in the future, everything would be fine!

It was because of that noble's so-called kindness that he lost everything!

The more he thought about it, the more resentful he became.

Xie Qiao took a look and hurriedly took out a slightly bigger copper bell from her Taoist robe. She shook it at the ghoulish and chanted some incantations before the ghoulish calmed down a little.

"Zhao Xuzhi indirectly killed that man and his son. Today, I'm here to seek an explanation for that man," Xie Qiao said bluntly.

That was why she liked her identity as a Taoist master.

She did not have to hide when she worked.

If she were Xie Qiao now, she would not be able to do it.

When the Princess heard that, she was extremely shocked, “Killed someone? How could it be? Wasn’t Xuzhi there to do good deeds?”

“Yes, but he didn’t investigate properly. The woman who was insulted in the street actually stole the family’s silver to help her gambling brother. After the man was caught, his son committed suicide. When he went back, he was criticized by others, so he followed in his son’s footsteps. However, he had resentment and couldn’t be reincarnated, so this poor master wanted to seek an explanation for him in order for him to reincarnate in peace.”
