

THE PRINCESS CONSORT HAS A LETHAL DESTINY

Chapter 483: Husband and Wife

Xie Mangshan walked out of Fortune Pavilion in a daze. His tired eyes were filled with determination.

He could not die. He had not lived long enough. He absolutely could not die!

When he returned home, his wife was waiting for him.

“Where have you been the past few days? The children and I have been worried to death. Also, my Mother has come to question you again today. They asked if you’re done with the wedding invitation. The happy event should be held soon,” Ms. Jia said unhappily.

The earlier she got her niece to marry Xie Pinggang, the earlier she would get the benefits!

She did not care about the betrothal gift anymore. In the future, when Huan’er married Xie Pinggang and gave birth to a child, she would be able to make up for it!

Ms. Jia could imagine herself counting the money. At that moment, there were sparks in her eyes.

Xie Mangshan’s face was gloomy. When he heard that, he immediately glared at Ms. Jia, “What are you rushing me for?!”

“You...” Ms. Jia was shocked.

“It’s no wonder Xie Pinggang looks down on her. She’s a 17 or 18-year-old lady, and she’s rushing to enter someone’s room. She can’t wait for even a moment. How is she a virgin? Even the ladies at the brothel aren’t as impatient as her!” Xie Mangshan was currently upset, and all sorts of unpleasant words came out.

Ms. Jia only heard the word “brothel” .

Baring her fangs and brandishing her claws, she pounced forward, “You went to the brothel, didn’t you?! You went to see those b*tches again! What did you promise me? You have no conscience. Now that you’re wealthy, you don’t even see me as your official wife anymore! Don’t you remember who was by your side when you suffered in the countryside back then?!”

“You sure are one to say. When I was suffering in the countryside back then, you were even poorer than I was. If you weren’t with me, could you have married a government official? If it weren’t for me, you wouldn’t have what you have today!” Xie Mangshan snorted.

Ms. Jia choked. She did not know how to respond.

After thinking for a while, she said with tears on her face, “How can I compare to those people out there? Whether you’re wealthy or poor, I will be with you. Those people out there only covet our family’s wealth!”

Having said that, Xie Mangshan just went with the topic.

“Are you saying that you don’t covet my money?” Xie Mangshan said.

“Of course, we’re a married couple!” Jia felt really wronged.

This man of hers must have drunk so much out there today that he was throwing a tantrum at home now!

However, she did not dare to provoke her man. He was wealthy, he had money. He said that he could get himself a concubine. If she did not have any children, he would have abandoned his wife long ago!

“Okay, give me the title deed and the jewelry you kept in the box one by one. Put them in a box for me to see,” Xie Mangshan said.

Ms. Jia did not think too much about it.

No one loved money more than her man.

Besides, the man kept the money of the family. The money she hid was not much.

“Give me the private money you saved! Also, give me the children’s money as well. I’ll count how much there is,” Xie Mangshan added.

When he said that, Ms. Jia was puzzled, “What do you want the children’s money for?”

“I know a person who wants to start a big business. The money in his hands may not be enough. We’ll give all the money and divide it when they make money in the future! Remember, take out as much as you can. The more you give now, the more you will get in the future,” Xie Mangshan added.

He also felt sorry for the money, but he thought that his second brother was actually not too shabby.

After he went through with the calamity, his second brother would definitely return the money to him. He might even subsidize him a little bit more. In this way, it was the same as doing business. Only by investing first could there be a big return.
