

DEAR PRISCHELLE

Chapter 19 No.19

Dear Prischelle,

Today is the cheerdance competition. I want to go but my family needs me right now. We are actually going to move into another house. My parents discussed it already and we're now slowly packing for we're leaving tomorrow.

Did you watch the competition? If so, then take care, okay? I heard the event will be finish late at night. Are you with someone? I don't want you to go home alone. It's dangerous. Maybe you should call your Dad and tell him to fetch you if you decided to go home.

I still have to pack more things so I'm going to cut this letter now. I promise to write again for you later.

Take care.

Dear Prischelle,

Moving is really tiring. I'm now in my new room. My bed is now here but some other furnitures are still on the way. I choose to place my study table at the window so I could look at the peaceful road any time.

I like the place already. I feel like we'll start beautiful here. I can even see my Mom talking to someone. I see that she already made friends. That fast.

I was admiring the place when my eyes landed to my neighbor's window on the second floor. The curtains were moved to the side so I can clearly see who's inside. And I don't know if I'm just imagining things but I actually see you.

You are facing the road through your window as well and writing. I bit my lips to stop myself from smiling but I can't help it.

I can't believe that we're neighbors! Life is really beautiful, isn't it? I feel so lucky. Dang.

I love how destiny works sometimes.
