I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1731—When Alba heard that voice, her eyes lit up.

She was very familiar with that voice.

Indeed, that man never disappointed her.

The person who called out the price was, of course, David.

He was too focused on the system just now, so he did not notice the bidding had started for the Hammer of Thunder.

This was the God of Thunder Hammer, one of the top three Ancient Weapons, so David had to get it.

How could he allow Archimedes to snatch it away from him?

He would not care even if he had to expose himself and allow Archimedes to recognize him.

If he got the hammer, with a little more time, David could quickly become a partial Saint.

Would he still be scared of Archimedes then?

Of course, partial Saints were not invincible. After all, the Lightfoot family had a few True Saint ancestors. He could only say he was not scared of Archimedes and his protector Bernard, not the entire Lightfoot family.

If he wanted to achieve that, he still needed Alba's help.

Once David yelled the price, everyone turned their eyes to him.

They wanted to see who was so fearless to not show the first-in-line heir of the Lightfoot family any respect.

‘This is going to be good.’

After Archimedes just asked Alba to announce the result since no one dared to bid anymore, someone called out 600 billion.

It was 100 billion more than his bid.

Wasn't this a blatant slap across his face?

He was even doing it in front of so many people.

How could Archimedes endure such a grievance?

He stood up with a dark face and turned to look at David.

However, David had put on a disguise, so Archimedes did not recognize him.

“700 billion!” Archimedes continued to bid.

He also raised it by 100 billion.

Since the other party increased 100 billion, he could not lose.

Which one of the forces out there was richer than his family?

“800 billion!” David did not show any weakness.

“You!” Archimedes spat through gritted teeth.

He finally recognized David. A sinister glow shot out from his eyes, shooting straight at David.

This kid was the one who humiliated him in the tavern!

He was here again.

Combining his new and old grievances, Archimedes wanted so badly to tear David into pieces so that he would never make a comeback.

“It’s me.” David removed his disguise.

Since Archimedes recognized him, he should just admit it magnanimously.

“How do you want to die, kid?” Archimedes asked, a fire burning in his chest.

“You need to have the ability to kill me. I think you’re just a parasite. You’re riding roughshod over people because of your family. What would you be like if you didn’t have your family? You won’t even be qualified to kiss my shoe!” David answered disdainfully.

After he said that, everyone at the auction widened their eyes, their jaws also dropped to the floor.

‘W-Who is this kid?

‘He’s so bold!

'What a savage.

'How dare he scold the first-in-line heir of the Lightfoot family?

'Is he not scared of retribution?

Judging from Archimedes' character, how would he spare this kid after suffering such an insult?'

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 1732

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1732—When they saw how fearless David was, they started to wonder if this kid had a stronger background than Archimedes.

'Is his family even more powerful than the Lightfoot family?

'If not, how could he show such a fearless expression after yelling at Archimedes?'

Would the two direct descendants' argument bring out a confrontation between two big families?

With the Saint Association around, it had been a long time since a huge battle happened in Star Kingdom.

A lot of people looked forward to a huge battle.

Only Alba was not alarmed by what David said.

This reaction was only fitting for a disciple who had a Sacred Saint master.

If David was timid in front of someone like Archimedes, then Alba would start to doubt his identity.

At this moment, Archimedes was fuming. His eyes were red, and his anger was about to drown out his rationality.

He only had one thought in his head, and it was to kill that scoundrel.

However, before Archimedes killed David, Archimedes wanted to torture David so that he would regret.

offending him.

“Bernard, get him. I want to pull out his tendons and skin him alive. I want him to wish he’s dead,” Archimedes spat.

“Master, we’re at Treasure Trove’s auction, so it’s inappropriate for us to do that. Let’s wait until after this ends,” Bernard advised.

He knew his master was seeing red.

However, they would offend the Fellowes family if they acted at the auction.

Even if the Fellowes family was in dire straits, they would also not spare the two.

If the Fellowes family decided to look into this, this would directly affect Master Archi taking over the position of head of the family.

To put it nicely, Archimedes was acting in a blind rage, but to put it bluntly, he had no regard for the general situation and could not see the bigger picture.

The Lightfoot seniors would not be happy about this.

“I said, go get him! Didn’t you hear me?” Archimedes repeated.

He was already blinded by rage.

‘To hell with this auction and the Hammer of Thunder. They’re not important anymore.’

Right now, Archimedes only wanted the kid in front of him to know what it was like to suffer a fate worse than death.

“But Master Archi...”

“No buts, Uncle Bernard. You’ve been with me for so many years and you know how I am. I don’t want to repeat myself.”

“Master, I’m your protector. Not only do I have to protect your safety, but I also have to teach you. If you take action today, even if you catch that kid and vent the anger in your heart, so what? Have you ever thought of the consequences? The seniors will be disappointed in you when the Fellowes family looks into this. They will wonder how a person who can’t see the bigger picture could be the head of the family. Will he lead the family into a decline? If you think you can accept this consequence, then I’ll get him right now.”

When Bernard said this, he blocked out his surroundings.

The outsiders could not hear what he said.

Archimedes was on the brink of an outburst, but he was brought back to his senses after Bernard said this.

The gains would not make up for the losses if he lost the seniors' confidence in him because of a temporary bliss just like Bernard said.

Archimedes' ultimate goal was not to be the head of the family.

He had even bigger and wilder dreams.

However, he had to become the head of the family and get a hold of the family's resources to do what he wanted to do next.

"Hiss... Huff..."

Archimedes took a deep breath before exhaling.

"Thank you, Uncle Bernard. I was blinded by rage just now. If you were not here, I might not have been able to turn back time if I took action today."

"It's good if you understand. You have to consider the general situation no matter what. I'll keep an eye on that kid. We can act after the auction."

Bernard let out a sigh of relief.

He was worried that Archimedes would insist on taking action because he could not get over it.

At the end of the day, if the family decided to look into this, as Archimedes' protector, Bernard would suffer as well if he did not stop Archimedes but instead helped him.

"I got it, Uncle Bernard."
