

I'm A Quadrillionaire

Chapter 1802

• • •

Chapter 1802

“David, how are you?” Amadi smiled and said the moment he saw David.

“Amadi, long time no see,” David also answered.

“David, you’re the one the Lightfoot family is looking for, right?” Amadi asked, going straight to the point.

“Will you believe me if I say it’s not me?”

“No.” Amadi shook his head.

“Well then.”

“I didn’t expect this. How long has it been since you came to Star Kingdom? You’ve become so popular now. I’m so envious of you,” Amadi lamented.

“I don’t mind giving you this kind of popularity,” David said.

“No, thank you! I am not worthy of this. I like to be more low profile,” Amadi quickly rejected.

What a joke. If the person the Light foot family was looking for did not have any strength or background, could they still survive in Star Kingdom?

Even Amadi would be ruined even if he managed to survive the ordeal.

Star Mansion would probably bring him to the Lightfoot family to apologize in person.

“To be honest, I don’t want this to happen either, but I had no choice. I can only brace myself and do it since it’s escalated to this point,” David said helplessly.

“I’m curious. Archimedes was the first-in-line heir of the Lightfoot family and he’s about to break through to Sovereign Rank.

You’re just a Ruler Ranker, so how are you related to his death?”

“Amadi, I can’t explain this to you in just a few words. I’ll tell you everything when we have a chance to meet. However, I am indeed related to Archimedes’ death under some weird coincidence. The Lightfoot family’s warrant is not wrong,” David explained.

It was not just related.

He was the murderer.

However, David knew Amadi would not believe him even if he told him this.

David just broke through to Eternal Realm the moment he arrived at Star Kingdom.

How long had it been, and he already had the strength to kill Archimedes, a partial Sovereign Ranker?

No one would believe him, let alone Amadi.

Even the best genius could not cross so many realms in such a short time.

If David let Amadi know he was already a partial True Saint, what expression would Amadi have on his face?

“What are you going to do then? The Lightfoot family is not weak. After they issue the warrant, you will have a very difficult time in Star Kingdom. Everyone wants the reward and also the favors from the Lightfoot family. This alone can realize a lot of people’s dreams.”

“I had no choice! I can only take one step at a time and hide for the time being. I’ll decide after this whole thing dies down. I don’t think the Lightfoot family will exhaust their family power looking for me, right

“This is related to the death of the two heirs. If they don’t find the murderer, they won’t stop. However, there will eventually come a time when their surveillance relaxes once enough time has passed. When that happens, you can leave Star Kingdom in secret and then go back to the Milky Way to be a local tyrant. I don’t think the Lightfoot family will find you when you’re so far away,”

Amadi suggested.

“That’s what I was thinking. There are too many powerhouses in Star Kingdom, and I am too weak. It’s better to go back to the Milky Way,” David continued.

“David, I know you won’t be willing to go back like this, but you have to know that Ms. Celeste is in the ice cavern. Even if she comes out in a hundred years, she’ll be different. The ice cavern is no joke. Plus, her authority in the Iridescent Sect will also be reduced. Going back will be your best option. You can come back to Star Kingdom the day you become a Saint.”

“I got it. Thank you for your concern, Amadi. Right, can't you save Celeste with Star Mansion's connection to the Iridescent Sect?”

Amadi shook his head and replied. “I can't. The person who punished Ms. Celeste this time is her teacher, Reputable Elder Eira, so Star Mansion can't do anything. When that happened, my mother pleaded with my father as well, but my father said there will only be a chance if Star Manion's True Saint grandmaster does something about this. However, the grandmaster won't owe Eira a favor over such a trivial matter.”

David understood.

At the end of the day, Eira's True Strength Rank strength was too intimidating.

She would not show respect to anyone unless they were on the same level as her.

However, how would a True Saint owe Eira a favor for Celeste's sake?

Of course, he was the exception.

He would be a True Saint soon, but it was still not enough.

What if Eira still refused?

However, David did not want to beg Eira. He wanted to pressure her with his strength so that she would let Celeste out and apologize to Celeste.

-
-
-