I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1968-She wanted to tell the grandmaster everything, but he did not give her a chance.

Valerio was also a little timid at this time.

When David made this suggestion, he actually expected this reaction.

The family sent the direct descendants who were used to keep the Fellowes family name alive out with great difficulty, but now they were sent back again.

If there was no appropriate explanation for this, the seniors of the family would definitely accuse the two of them of treason and vk]jew them as traitors.

Valerio hesitated.

The reason why he would agree was that he was sure that the two True Saints of the Palmore family and Anders died at the hands of Master David.

From the moment Anders and his gang died, David and his master were already mortal enemies with the Palmore family.

Judging from this, he could determine that David would not harm the Fellowes family.

Otherwise, his master would not kill the True Saint of the Palmore family.

That was why in the end, Valerio chose to believe David.

“Grandmaster, you should still remember the doomsday scene not long ago, right?” Valerio asked.

“Of course, I remember! But what does this have to do with your return?” Cedar asked with a sullen face.

“Grandmaster, you have no idea. Not only does it have everything to do with our return, but it also plays a huge role.”

“Why is that? Tell me!”

“Do you know who the dead Saints are this time?”

“I don’t know! Someone seemed to have blocked the news and it hasn’t been released yet, but according to our guess, it should have been done by Zenon, but we don’t know who the victim is.” Cedar shook his head.

Then, he seemed to suddenly think of something.

His gaze was turned Valerio suddenly and he asked, "Do you know?"

"Grandmaster, not only did I know, but I also saw them before they died."

'Who?'

"The Saints who died this time were the two True Saints sent by the Palmore family to join Anders in purge of the direct descendants of the family," Valerio replied excitedly.

He was ecstatic about the deaths of the two True Saints of the Palmore family.

He could not even wait for all the Saints of the Palmore family to die.

'What? Seriously?' Cedar stood up abruptly and asked loudly. He was a little out of breath.

Not only him, but the other two True Saint grandmasters of the Fellowes family also stood up in shock, looking straight at Valerio.

They were calm just now, but now, they were a little dizzy from the shock of Valerio's news.

When the doomsday scene occurred, the three had a discussion.

They concluded that the dead Saint was most likely a member of the Saints Association.

Naturally, Zenon, the newly appointed head of the Saints Association, was the one who killed them.

In order to take control of the Saints Association as soon as possible, he had to make this person an example for others.

The possibility of such a thing occurring was very high and there was no doubt that Zenon would do such a thing.

After he took full control of the Saints Association, he would have time to free his hands and deal with the Fellowes family.

However, he got a completely different answer from Valerio.

'The dead Saints turned out to be from the Palmore family?'

'Moreover, it's two True Saints?'

The news exploded in the minds of Cedar and the other two grandmasters like a bomb.
