

I'm A Quadrillionaire

Chapter 2044

Chapter 2044

Although the cold pool was filled with smoke and the situation inside could not be seen clearly, one could smell the strong smell of blood and a monstrous hatred as soon as one approached.

This was what was left after dozens of Saints died.

One must know that Saints had been recognized by the Heavens, so they could live as long as heaven and the earth, and shine together with the sun and the moon.

When the seniors of the Iridescent Sect had just broken through to Saint Realm, they were high-spirited and ready to show their talents, but in the end, they became sacrifices for Azul's awakening.

The sect that had cultivated them carefully had an ulterior motive.

One could only imagine how much hatred and resentment everyone had in their hearts when they were on the verge of death.

Eira and her sisters did not feel guilty for the deaths of the Iridescent Sect's disciples at all.

In order to wake up their master, they would even give up their own lives, let alone others.

Time was ticking.

The four sisters had countless things to tell their master, but they also knew that now was not the time.

They could reminisce slowly after their master woke up.

The most important thing now was to restore his body and complete the last step of the task.

Just as the four of them were about to get up and go into seclusion, a voice sounded in the karst cave.

"Masters, what are you doing?"

Eira and her sisters were startled.

This was the most forbidden part of the forbidden area, and no one was allowed to enter.

So why did they hear another person's voice here?

The four looked at the voice at the same time and saw a beautiful figure standing at the entrance.

It was Lorraine, who had parted ways with them not long ago.

At this time, Lorraine was wearing a green gauze dress and her tantalizing figure could be vaguely made out underneath.

Coupled with the special energy emitted by the alluring body after it matured, normal man would be infatuated with her after seeing her.

Lorraine's sudden appearance was the four sisters' expectations.

For a moment, they all froze.

They were already feeling guilty, and now they ran into the person involved, so they were lost for a while.

After a while, Marin came to her senses and asked with an unnatural expression, "L-Lori w-why are you here?"

"Masters, you have sacrificed so much for me, so I was concerned about your safety. Now that I am in better control of my skyrocketing strength, I wanted to see how you were doing. At the same time, I wanted to come and thank you for your hard work," Lorraine replied calmly.

The sisters could not hear anything amiss from her expression and tone.

The four who came back to their senses were also temporarily relieved.

'So what if Lorraine is here?

'With this girl's knowledge, it is impossible for her to know the secret of the Nine Heavenly Dragon Array, not to mention our task.'

All four sisters collectively believed that Lorraine had indeed come to visit them.

After all, this girl had always given them the impression that she was not cunning at all.

She was the kind that would help her abductor count the ransom money after she was abducted.

The sisters would not take such a person seriously at all.

"Lori, it's very nice of you to care about our safety. We didn't pay such a high price for you in vain, but don't worry, we are fine. Since we choose to do that, we're pretty confident in ourselves. It's just that we're a little weak, but we will fully recover after a period of rest," Eira comforted.

'That's good! If you suffer huge physical injuries for my sake, how could I rest easy? I'm afraid I might even live in guilt forever,' Lorraine said solemnly.
