I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2234-Weir, a large city about two months away from Sole.

A mature woman who could make countless men lose control just by looking at her back was standing on the tallest tower in Wier, looking down at the bustling street below. It was unknown what she was thinking about.

At this time, an Elf woman with pointed ears and a beautiful face came behind the mature woman. She put her hands together, knelt on one knee, and said respectfully,

“Your Majesty, we have searched almost every city around Wier but there is still no trace of the princess.”

“No? Then change your target! Stop searching the surrounding cities. Evie likes to have fun in places with nice scenery. Start from this aspect and see if you get any results. If not, expand the scope again. In short, you must find Evie and you can’t let anything happen to her,” the woman turned around and ordered.

Her voice was very alluring and it was very nice to listen to. At the same time, it also sounded decisive.

David would be surprised if he was here.

This woman looked exactly the same as Princess Evie whom he rescued.

The only difference was that this woman was a bit more mature than Evie. She was also more voluptuous and shapely.

If Evie was a green apple, this woman was a fresh ripe peach.

Anyone who saw her would be unable to stop themselves from drooling.

She was none other than the Elven Queen, Isa.

She was also the mother of Princess Evie and the most powerful woman among the Elves.

“Yes, your Majesty! But if we expand the search area, we may not have enough manpower.”

“Then contact the elders of the clan and tell them to send some more people. Tell them it’s my order.”

“Yes, your Majesty.”

“Okay, you may leave! Do as I say as soon as possible.”

After the Elven Queen Isa finished speaking, she turned and faced the outside of the tower.

The young Elf women stood up, backed away slowly, and finally disappeared.

The disappearance of Evie made the Elven Queen enter The Spirit Cage herself to search for her, which shows her status among the Elves.

One must know that the Elves would only cultivate a princess who would inherit the queen’s throne.

If something unexpected happened to this princess, then another would be chosen for cultivation.

It was unlike the extended family of humans.

After the first-in-line heir, there would be a second-in-line and a third-in-line.

No one knew who would end up being the head of the family until the very end.

There were several first-in-line heirs who got into trouble.

The reason the Elven Queen Isa was still calm was that she had a special connection with her daughter.

Isa knew her daughter was not in danger now.

Otherwise, as a mother, she might have gone berserk long ago if something happened to Evie.

The Elves were not strong in The Spirit Cage.

For a major race like humans, the strength of the Elves was not even comparable to the power of some big human families. Yet for some small families, the Elves were still a behemoth.

The Elves would not pay attention to these forces in the first- tier city of The Spirit Cage.

The forces they were scared of were in the eight main cities of The Spirit Cage.

So, when the Elven Queen brought the Elves to Wier, the forces here did not dare complain. They even gave Wier Tower, the mayor's emblem, to the Elven Queen.

Solei I, the direct descendant of the Alten family, was also executed by the Elven Queen under the eyes of the Alten family's core.

Anyone who dared to do anything to the only princess of the Elves would not have a good ending.

It would be the same if they had a backer whom the Elves were scared of.

It was because their backer also would not spare someone like this easily.

Under the leadership of Isa, the Elves and the major forces and races in The Spirit Cage had a pretty good relationship.

No one would offend the Elves because of a hedonistic direct descendant.
