I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2355-David had a very active imagination.

He methodically speculated about things that were not obvious.

Maybe this was the result of being too smart!

He could connect so many things with just a little clue.

Moreover, he had proof for everything so there was no reason to refute them.

In Pebbles' case, no one would have connected her with Empress Elora, one of the five Leila rulers.

The difference between the tao was too huge.

Elora was someone who had lived for tens of thousands of epochs, and her strength had reached Overlord Realm. So how could she have anything to do with a little girl?

Apart from leaving a letter telling David not to worry about her and that he would come to David after the matter was resolved, Pebbles did not leave any useful clues behind.

David could not do anything as well since he could not find Pebbles.

Even with his Overlord Realm strength, he still did not know what to do.

Some things were just so helpless.

It was not under his control at all and everything happened so suddenly.

He was left with no chance of recovery.

Perhaps this would not happen if Pebbles had known his strength earlier.

Since this had already happened, David knew it was useless to regret it.

Besides, Pebbles was not young anymore and she had her own ideas.

Since she left without saying goodbye, she must have a reason.

David was powerless to change this, so he could only accept it calmly, i

‘I hope the little girl can complete her work and then live happily.

‘It’ll be enough for me if she can occasionally remember her Davey.’

To be honest, David was not looking forward to meeting the girl again.

He was afraid that Pebbles would clamor about marrying him again and that would be very troublesome.

If David wanted to marry someone, it would be Celia, his real girlfriend.

Of course, if Pebbles needed his help, David would do his best to help her even if he risked everything.

This was a no-brainer and he would not even hesitate.

After two years together, David regarded Pebbles as his family.

The girl’s status in his heart was not much lower than that of Pearl and the other women.

They were the ones David would give his all for.

With these thoughts, David sighed silently.

When he squeezed his index finger and thumb holding the paper lightly, Pebbles’ letter immediately turned into ashes and dissipated into the air.

Originally, David wanted to go to the main city, Amber City, to buy more precious treasures of heaven and earth for Pebbles so that she could grow faster and get more lavish points by the way.

However, the girl left before they even left Wier.

Even though Pebbles was gone, they would still head to Amber City.

After arriving in Amber City and helping Thor take root in Amber City, David could spend more time in reality.

He would just pop in once in a while and fix troubles.

For David, lavish points were still his top priority.

Even if he did not need them now, it did not mean he did not need them in the future.

Of course, the higher the strength, the better.

Even if his strength was raised to the limit, he could still spend his lavish points on Cloning.

That skill was too useful and when it was used in actual combat, it was heaven-defying.

Having clones was not just as simple as having a few more helpers.

They were super boosters that could self-destruct and sacrifice themselves to save the main form at a critical moment.

If David had enough blood essence, it would not matter how many enemies he had.

As long as their strength was not too different and the other side could not crush him immediately, David would still have the confidence to fight them.
