I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2360-They did not dare approach.

Anyone who could alert the three strongest people in Amber City should not be underestimated.

If there was a fight, they would be caught in it if they got too close.

It was safer to stay at a distance.

Salem and Egan first returned to Amber City and dismissed the gathered powerhouses.

Since Empress Elora said not to spread this, of course, they must obey the order.

Then, Empress Elora followed Heaven into Amber City and went to rest in the mayor's residence on the top floor of the tallest building.

Salem was the current mayor of Amber City.

However, the mayor's residence did not belong to the Birch family.

Whoever served as mayor would live in the residence.

The three major families would take turns to be the mayor of Amber City.

"Empress Elora, you just rest here for a while. We are going to complete the task you assigned to collect all the precious treasures in Amber City," Salem said respectfully.

"Empress Elora, please take a break," Egan and Heaven also said.

"Alright, stop wasting time on these useless things. Get things done quickly as this is more important than anything else. I don't like all these superficial things." At this time, Empress Elora had gone back into the ball of green light.

She started to sound impatient.

The Robotias and the Soul Devourers were eying Leila covetously. No one knew what they were planning but they were getting ready to invade Leila.

Sylvio and the others probably had no idea either.

The whole of Leila was not even a little bit prepared.

So, how could she not be in a hurry?

‘Yes, Empress Elora. We’ll go now.’ The three of them were startled and replied immediately at the same time.

They hurriedly left the mayor’s residence.

As the trio walked far away, they stopped.

“Mayor Salem, what do you think of this?” Egan asked.

Heaven also looked over.

Salem was the oldest and also the current mayor of Amber City, so he was much stronger than the other two.

That was why the two would have to ask his opinion when it came to something as serious as Empress Elora’s matter.

“Do you think Empress Elora might be a fake?” Salem asked the two.

Egan and Heaven looked at each other and shook their heads at the same time.

“It should be impossible! I have never heard of anyone daring to impersonate the five Leila rulers. Once exposed, they will become Leila’s public enemy, and they will have no place in Leila. No one would be so stupid,” Egan said.

“I think so too! No one would dare to impersonate Empress Elora, so she must be the real Empress Elora,” Heaven echoed.

“That’s it! We only need to execute Empress Elora’s order. It’s not our job to worry about the rest. Whether this Empress Elora is the real deal or not, we have no right to choose. If she’s a fake, we’ll just lose some treasures at most, but if she’s the real deal, our entire bloodline will be wiped out.”

When they thought about it, they both felt that Salem was right.

Whether that was the real Empress Elora or not, it was none of their business. They just needed to follow orders.

In any case, even if they made a mistake, they would only be losing some treasures.

The three of them decided on the plan and left separately.

Then, they started using their family's prestige to collect treasures of heaven and earth in Amber City.

Not only did they have to take out the ones they had, but the other forces also had to contribute.

The three of them dared not divulge Empress Elora's whereabouts and also dared not report this to their families.

If Empress Elora finds out, their families would be implicated.

All they could do was quietly complete the task first.

As for what excuses they would use to collect treasures, they would come up with one themselves.

All in all, they could never mention Empress Elora.
