

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 2444

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2444-'An Eternal Realm peak Sovereign Ranker is miles apart from David?

'How strong is David then?

'Is he a Saint?

'No!

'He's definitely a Saint. If not, how would he have the power to save Star Kingdom?'

The trio felt as if their brains were not working anymore.

They could not understand.

David just got into Eternal Realm when he left Star Kingdom.

So how did he cross Eternal Realm and reach Saint Realm in such a short time?

He may be talented, but he can't be that talented, right?

Nimbus and Wilfred were stuck at partial Eternal Realm for a very long time, and they both knew how hard it was to become a true Eternal.

However, when it came to David, it was as easy as eating and drinking.

He did not meet any obstacles.

Not even Saint Realm could stop him, let alone Eternal Realm.

Perhaps he was truly the chosen one.

Except for this answer, they could not understand how David could get to where he was currently.

He did not just create history because it would be impossible for anyone to do this in the future too.

So, one could say that he had surpassed all others of his kind before and since.

“Huff...” After one minute, the three exhaled long and hard.

Astrid had a grin on her face.

She could guess their thoughts when her father, mother, and Grandpa Wilfred showed astonished expressions on their faces.

Back then, she always thought her father was the man with the most indomitable spirit.

No matter what she encountered and whatever trouble she faced, everything could be solved as long as her father was there.

When she met David, Astrid found out that there was someone even more exceptional than her father.

In Star Kingdom, countless people were more exceptional than her father.

“Astrid, you’re not lying, right? You’re not joking with me, right?” Nimbus came back to his senses and asked.

Astrid was not happy when she heard that. She pouted and was upset.

“Father, what are you saying? Do you not believe me? When have I lied to you? I am telling you very affirmatively now that I’m telling you the truth. I didn’t make anything up.

David is indeed that exceptional. If you don’t believe me, you can ask him the next time he comes to get me.”

“Astrid, don’t overthink. I’m not doubting you. However, what you said is too unbelievable. Before David, I thought I will be the first person in the Milky Way to become an Eternal.

However, he not only became an Eternal faster than me, he’s even a Saint now. I don’t dare believe this. How can someone cultivate so insanely fast?” Nimbus explained with a forced smile.

If she were not his daughter, he would not have believed a single word.

“Father, there will always be someone better than you. Even if you don’t believe it, it will happen. You will know how big the world is if you go out and take a look. The universe is so big, and the Milky Way is just a low civilization. Living here will just make you ignorant,” Astrid could not stop herself from educating her father.

Aside from David, she might be the only one in the Milky Way who dared to say this to Nimbus.

Frankly, after Astrid and the women reached Star Kingdom, they only stayed in the Iridescent Sect and never went anywhere.

However, this did not stop them from finding out about Star Kingdom from the other disciples of the Iridescent Sect.

“Astrid, is this how you should speak to your Father?” Gamora criticized.

“Mother, I’m just telling the truth, okay? I didn’t spew nonsense.”

“Even if you’re right, you can’t say that. He’s your father and you have to respect him. Even if you will surpass your father in the future, you should also show him respect.”

“Mother, I’m not disrespecting him. Instead, I just want him to know how big the outside world is so that he’ll be motivated.” Astrid looked aggrieved.

“Alright, you should stop talking about this. I get what Astrid is trying to say. Compared to the middle and high civilizations, the Milky Way is indeed very inferior. As a monarch, I am responsible for this so I guess I have to go into seclusion to think of a way to break through to Eternal Realm,” Nimbus said seriously.