I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2483-Thor tried to keep himself calm and asked kindly, "Honey, you have to tell me what your older brother's name is first so that I'll know if I know him."

"Sir, I forgot his name! All I know is that I always call him Davey. He treats me very well. He will buy me a lot of good things to eat and he will hold me to sleep in his arms. I don't know how I got separated from Davey. I miss him so much," the little girl said sadly.

Boom!

Hearing what the little girl said was like a bolt from the blue for Thor.

Thor felt his head buzz and it was making him dizzy.

The four or five-year-old girl in front of him turned out to be Pebbles who left not long ago.

However, how did she become like this? Who did this to her?

Several questions came to Thor's mind.

However, he knew it was not the time to think about them.

The most important thing now was to bring Pebbles back, bathe her, clean her up, and then wait for Master David to come out again so he could hand Pebbles into Master David's hands safely.

As for the rest, it was out of Thor's hands.

"Pebbles, d-don't you know me?" Thor could not help asking.

“Should we know each other?” The little girl’s innocent eyes were full of doubt.

“I’m your big brother’s... Well... Friend. We used to see each other a lot.”

“Sir, do you really know him?”

“I don’t just know him. I am extremely close to him too!”

“Then where is Davey now? I want to see him.” The little girl asked impatiently.

“Pebbles, you should come with me first. I’ll take you for a shower, change, and wait for Davey to get you, okay?”

“Okay...”

The little girl was about to agree, but after thinking about it, she said cautiously, “Sir, how can you prove that you know Davey and not lying to me? If you can’t prove it to me, I can’t go with you.”

Thor wondered, ‘How can I prove myself?’

Thor got a little anxious.

He had no idea how to prove himself at that moment.

Pebbles had forgotten so much about the past that she even forgot about Master David’s name.

What could he do to convince the other party?

If Pebbles did not believe him and insisted on leaving, where would Thor find her again when Master David came out of seclusion? What should he say to Master David?

No! He had to keep Pebbles here but he could not use force in case he aroused her suspicion.

After some contemplation, a flash of inspiration flashed in Thor's mind. He said to the little girl, "Pebbles, I have a way to prove it. Wait for me and don't leave, or else Master David will be very sad when he comes out of seclusion. Oh, by the way, Master David is your Davey."

The little girl nodded, indicating that she could wait.

Then Thor shouted into the shop. "Hey!"

There was a response from the shop.

"Boss, what's up?"

Then, several young people ran out.

There were both male and female employees hired by Thor to do odd jobs.

For example, cleaning or receiving guests when he was not around.

Thor could not manage such a big shop by himself.

Besides, he was the boss and would often need to go out to meet important clients.

So he needed someone to watch the shop.

"Go get me a pen and paper. Also, get me a table too," Thor ordered.

"Yes, boss! Right away!"

Several young people returned to the store and brought a pen, paper, and table.

Thor put the paper on the table and began to draw on it.

Soon, a face appeared on the paper.

It was quite similar to David.
