I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2489-After finding David, Pebbles became more gluttonous and lethargic. It might be because she wanted to restore her soul quickly.

Of course, she still liked to nuzzle against David. That had not changed at all.

She had to be in David's arms whether she was eating or sleeping. She would not want to leave even for a moment.

David's arms gave her enough sense of security.

After running into Pebbles again, David could not leave The Spirit Cage.

He had to watch over her all the time.

Fortunately, before entering The Spirit Cage, he announced to everyone that he was going to stay in seclusion.

So, he would definitely be spending some time at The Spirit Cage.

Since he could not leave, David had a new idea in mind.

While he was in The Spirit Cage, he could ask Beanie and Thor to take a step further to get more lavish points so he could improve his strength.

That way, he would be strong enough to help Pebbles after she regained her memory.

Just in case this little girl went looking for trouble again.

At this moment, in his heart, David already regarded the guy who hurt Pebbles as his enemy.

No matter how powerful the opponent was, he would be David's enemy since he dared to hurt Pebbles.

He did not believe that there would be someone he would not be able to defeat after he reached Heavenly Overlord Rank.

If one Heavenly Overlord was not enough, what about dozens, even hundreds of Heavenly Overlords?

His clones were not weak at all.

At level 5, he could summon twenty-seven clones, but what about when he reached level 6? What about level 7?

Who in Leila would not be scared when hundreds of Heavenly Overlord clones were dispatched together?

However, this was built on the premise of him having enough lavish points.

If his lavish points were not enough, he would not be able to improve his strength, let alone upgrade his Cloning.

David was also very helpless about this.

He had already entered Overlord Realm, but he still could not relax and still had to continue to work hard to earn lavish points.

He knew that if he wanted to live freely and protect himself and those around him from harm, he must stand at the top of the pyramid.

Otherwise, he would be restrained no matter what he did.

After confirming his plan, David let Beanie and Thor go.

They should not be afraid to offend people and they should take the time to collect treasures and buy real estate.

The more the merrier!

Neither Beanie nor Thor understood why David was doing this.

The treasures for Pebbles were piled up into mountains and she would not be able to finish them in a short time.

So, what was the use of buying so many treasures at such a high price?

Was he storing them so he could sell them once the price rose?

Obviously not!

The two knew that Master David did not care about money.

Otherwise, he would not entrust such a large amount of funds to them.

Besides, the price was the highest now. Would it rise again?

It might be tough.

When the treasures of the first and second-tier cities flowed into the main city in large quantities, the prices would definitely come down.

It would not continue to rise endlessly.

However, this was not what they should worry about.

They should just do whatever Master David ordered.

With David's orders, the two would naturally go all out.

They purchased at a high price again and the price of the treasures in Amber City jumped by a large amount.

David's lavish points also began to rise slowly, ushering in a wave of peaks.
