

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 2537

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2537-Only a partial Overlord?

David's sentence puzzled everyone at the scene.

Everyone knew that aside from the five Leila rulers, partial Overlords had the strongest combat power.

Only the five Leila rulers would dare to say something like this.

David was just a young man so how did he get the courage to look down on partial Overlords?

Was he one of the five Leila rulers?

Impossible.

The statues of the five Leila rulers stood on the Five Continent at the center of Leila.

Even if one had not seen it in person, one would still know what each of the five Leila rulers looked like.

David was not among them, and none of them looked like him

Even Salem, who was optimistic about David, felt that David was too arrogant at this time.

He could not recognize reality or know his place.

Maybe in the future, he could reach a height that could ignore all the partial Overlords, but it was not time now.

Young people need to have drive and self-confidence, but being too arrogant might not be a good thing.

Of course, Salem did not rule out another possibility.

That David had a close relationship with one of the five Leila rulers, i

Then, it would not be difficult to understand his behavior since he was in frequent contact with Overlords and had a tendency to look down on partial Overlords.

However, he never heard about any of the five Leila rulers having an inheritance disciple.

Agatha was also shocked by David's words.

What was the reason that made this young man dare to look down on a partial Overlord?

Was it his strength?

Or his background?

David didn't give those present enough time to think.

Without waiting for everyone to react or contemplate, he fixed his gaze on Agatha, a contemptuous smile playing on the corner of his mouth.

Then, he followed Agatha's example.

He lifted his right foot and stomped down gently.

Boom!

A terrifying energy emanated from David's body instantly.

Then, a dazzling light flashed.

Everyone instinctively closed their eyes.

After the light disappeared and everyone opened their eyes, they found that David was still standing there without moving an inch.

Just when they looked at the other person curiously, their eyes widened immediately and everyone showed expressions of disbelief.

They saw Agatha kneeling on the ground. She was leaning on her cane with both hands to barely keep her body from collapsing.

Blood gushed out of her mouth continuously, dyeing the ground in front of her red.

How was this possible?

Everyone who saw this scene was stunned, especially those from the Marche family.

Agatha was one of the two grandmasters of the Marche family, whose strength had reached the terrifying partial Overlord Realm.

How could she be hurt like this by a young man in just a moment?

This was not real, right?

Everyone could not accept this reality, and they refused to believe that their grandmaster would lose to a strange kid.

However, the facts were right in front of their eyes.

They had no choice but to believe this.

“Grandmaster!”

“Grandmaster!”

“Grandmaster!”

The Marche family members cried worriedly.

Even as they were crying out, no one dared to step forward to help.

If their grandmaster could not even match David, weren't they courting death if they went forward?

“Old hag, I won't kill you today since you're already so old that it's a challenge for you to even take a step, but I will teach you a little lesson. I hope you can know your place and not bully anyone weaker just because you have the strength. You must know that there is always someone more powerful than you. I will not go easy on you if I meet you next time,” David said lightly.

His voice also brought the people present back to reality.

If David had said this to educate Agatha before this, everyone would have ridiculed him for being overconfident.

However, no one dared to do this now because he showed this strength.