I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2559-After Sylvio arranged a defensive formation, his soul immediately entered The Spirit Cage.

Once a soul reached Overlord Realm, it could enter and exit The Spirit Cage at will and without restrictions.

As Leila's longest-lived and most knowledgeable person, Sylvio knew The Spirit Cage very well.

In fact. The Spirit Cage was not a virtual world, but a weapon of primal chaos.

The inside of the weapon was a world of its own: where only the soul could enter to increase its soul power quickly.

The Spirit Cage was very useful for those who were not strong enough.

However, for creatures whose strength had reached a certain level, The Spirit Cage had very limited effect.

So, The Spirit Cage was a place for young people to practice and build their foundation.

By laying the foundation well, they would have smooth sailing on the road of cultivation in the future and avoid a lot of mistakes.

Other larger forces also had capabilities in The Spirit Cage.

They would send the direct descendants of their family to The Spirit Cage when they reached a certain age.

Firstly, it was to enhance their soul power and lay a solid foundation for them for the future.

Secondly, it was also to allow the youngsters to practice and accumulate some experience.

The Spirit Cage had been around for far too long.

According to the records of ancient books, someone who had achieved the realm beyond Overlord passed by Leila and saw that Leila's creatures only practiced their bodies but not their souls. Therefore, they would hardly achieve success in the future.

So, they left behind the weapon of primal chaos in The Spirit Cage. They also brought in and scattered much equipment in every corner of Leila.

Initially, anyone could find them.

As time went by, everyone knew the benefits of entering The Spirit Cage, so these pieces of equipment were either robbed or bought. Gradually, they were all collected by major forces, leading to the current situation.

Most of the equipment that entered The Spirit Cage was controlled by powerful forces.

The result was that the strong would get stronger, and the weak would get weaker.

The direct descendants of major forces had unique resources and opportunities, so their strength was much higher than that of ordinary people.

These were unavoidable scenarios, and it would be the same no matter where one was.

Both resources and wealth were in the hands of the very few.

As for where the main form of The Spirit Cage was, no one knew.

Sylvio also tried to infer using Zwei Arithmetics.

Just when he was about to start, his body shuddered unconsciously.

Not only did his body shudder, but his soul also.

At that moment, Sylvio immediately stopped what he was doing.

He knew his body's reaction was not unfounded.

It was definitely an omen.

So, he stopped his inference.

Otherwise, there might be a disaster.

Since then, Sylvio never had any ideas about The Spirit Cage anymore.

After all, this was a weapon left by someone with the power beyond Overlord Realm.

He did not know if the records in ancient books were true or false but felt that it was better to believe that they were true, rather than not believe.

So, it would be better to be careful.

If he made the wrong move, the consequences would be very serious.

He wouldn't know if he'd face death if he dared to look into something created by someone beyond the Overlord Realm.

Since Leila's countless eras, The Spirit Cage has helped Leila cultivate batch after batch of powerhouses.

Without any exaggeration, without The Spirit Cage, it would have been impossible for Leila to have Overlords.

Perhaps not even partial Overlords.

Therefore, it could be seen how important The Spirit Cage was to Leila's living creatures.
