I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2560-Therefore, almost all forces would send their people into The Spirit Cage for development.

Those who served as the heads of the forces in The Spirit Cage had a very high status in their family. Some were second only to the head of the family.

The Spirit Cage had become the biggest world next to Leila.

Countless young people scrambled to enter. They wanted to gain experience, improve their soul and body, and lay the foundation for their future.

However, the equipment left by the great Almighty had been damaged for a long time, so the people who entered The Spirit Cage today were much worse than those who entered at the beginning.

Except for Overlords, no one could enter without the help of the equipment.

To put it bluntly, The Spirit Cage was something left by a great Almighty who pitied Leila.

After entering The Spirit Cage, Sylvio appeared in a dense forest. He was surrounded by trees hundreds of kilometers high, and this told Sylvio that he was in an old-growth forest with rare human presence.

Just as Sylvio was about to rise into the air to get his bearings, he felt something tightening around his body.

Then, his body left the ground and rose into the air quickly.

It stopped in the middle of the surrounding trees a few hundred meters away and changed direction towards an opening in a large tree.

As soon as he entered the tree hole, he found himself inside a spacious hall.

Sylvio felt the grip loosening around his body, and he was thrown into a corner.

He saw a few insects about the size of a man, all grinning at him with green saliva flowing from the corners of their mouths. They look like they regarded him as food.

These insects had four pairs of pincers and three pairs of wings on their backs.

Turning in the air, Sylvio landed steadily. Then, he turned and looked behind him. He saw an insect as big as a hill slowly appearing.

It looked exactly like the small insects.

'The big one can even turn invisible?' Sylvio wondered.

There was a curious look in Sylvio's eyes.

With his strength, he could easily counterattack the moment he was caught.

However, Sylvio did not do that but followed along to see what this thing was.

He thought about all kinds of animals, but he never thought that it could be an insect.

"I was wondering what punk is so bold as to dare to abduct me. It turns out to be an insect," Sylvio shook his head and said.

"Hiss..."

The smaller insects behind Sylvio roared at him, their sound making anyone who heard it feel uneasy.

The big insect's huge eyes occupied half of its head and it stared at Sylvio.

"Okay, I won't play with you anymore as I still have something to do. I won't kill you today because you are a mother just looking for food for your children."

Sylvio stepped forward as he spoke.

Immediately, a ball of energy locked onto the mountain-like insect.

The danger of death was approaching.

The big insect was flying in the air, but now, it lay on the ground in fright, trembling all over.

When Sylvio walked by it, a shaky voice said, "Thank you so much for not killing me, Milord."

Upon hearing this, Sylvio turned to look at the big insect.

"You even know how to speak the human language? It seems that you're an unusual beast that is about to evolve. I will come to you again when I have a chance and take you to see the outside world."

After speaking, Sylvio left without looking back.

An unusual beast that could turn invisible was worth cultivating.

Sylvio could take it with him, and after some training, it would definitely be useful in dealing with the Soul Devourers.

The Soul Devourers loved to devour souls, right?

This big insect was a soul and it could turn invisible.

Too bad the Soul Devourers were no longer a threat and the most dangerous one now was Lufian.

Sylvio came out of the tree hole and flew to the sky. After some sensing, he chose a direction and left quickly.

He disappeared in a blink of an eye.
