

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2594-If he wanted to accumulate 10 million again to upgrade his Body, it might take a long time.

However, Thor and Beanie had been working hard, so that was promising.

Realizing this, David was in no hurry to return to The Spirit Cage.

He had gone into seclusion for too long so it was time to go out and see everyone.

Nothing was going on in The Spirit Cage for the time being, so he would let Pebbles watch the door a little longer.

At least, he had to go and say hi to everyone.

After getting up and drying his clothes, David walked out of his place of seclusion.

The Spirit Cage, Amber City.

Sylvio had been selecting elixirs to make medicine to restore the soul.

The treasures in The Spirit Cage were all helpful to the soul as this was a place for soul training.

However, the effects varied, so Sylvio's requirements for the elixir would be much higher.

After all, he needed to restore the soul of an Overlord.

This was different from the time that Elora collected treasures from the eight major cities.

At that time, she combined them all and swallowed them immediately without doing anything to them.

The disadvantages of this were pretty obvious.

The effects of some elixirs would conflict with each other, resulting in less effective results.

Sylvio would maximize the effectiveness of all elixirs.

Therefore, the effect was still similar even though the amount was not as much as what Elora collected last time, not even 1% of what she collected.

Coupled with Sylvio's unique healing secret technique, it would be more intense than when Elora swallowed the medicine herself.

Time passed slowly.

After Sylvio finished, he left the warehouse and came to where David lived in seclusion.

When she saw Sylvio, Pebbles stood up immediately and asked excitedly, "Sylvio, how is it? Are the elixirs you want in the warehouse?"

"Of course! I didn't think Davey had collected so many treasures of heaven and earth. He's so generous. It seems that he's very good to you," Sylvio answered with a smile.

"Of course! Davey treats me very well. He will give me anything I want." The little girl lifted her head and said pride.

She was overjoyed when she heard others praising how good David was to her.

To her, David was her most important person.

"Pebbles, is Davey not out yet?"

"No. He came out early last time, but I don't know why it's taking him so long this time." The little girl pouted.

When Sylvio heard that, he sensed the inside of the room again.

Still nothing.

There was no one in the room.

Suddenly, Sylvio thought of a possibility.

All Overlord souls could leave The Spirit Cage at any time.

Had David reached Overlord Realm, and he's gone back to the real world?

He had never heard about anyone entering Overlord Realm in Leila.

Did he have a breakthrough in secret?

It was not impossible.

Some people liked to hide their abilities.

However, he could just leave.

Why did he lie to Pebbles, saying that he was in seclusion?

He even asked Pebbles to stand guard outside.

Sylvio could not understand.

So, he stopped wondering about this.

He would know when David came out.

“Pebbles, since Davey is in seclusion and you have nothing to do, why don’t I help you restore your memory? What do you think?”

“Okay! Okay! Sylvio, let’s start. I’ll give Davey a surprise when he comes out.” Pebble jumped up in excitement.

She had wanted to restore her memory for a long time.

Every day, fragments of her memories would drift through her mind, causing her great torment.

She could not think about it as she would get a headache whenever she tried.

However, if she did not, she would not be able to stop herself from piecing those fragments together.

Once she recovered all of her memory, she would tell David everything.

She promised David and that was their deal.