

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2721-Seeing her mother's excitement, Evie could not stop herself from asking, "Mother, since David has such a strong background, can we not use him for revenge? Otherwise, what will happen if he finds out?"

"No! This is the only chance for us to get revenge! We can't just give up. If we plan carefully, it will be as long as he never finds out," Isa rejected Evie's proposal without thinking.

The Elves' blood feud must be avenged. If they missed this opportunity, it would be difficult to seek revenge again in the future.

The Vingeans were much more powerful than the Elves.

The two races not only lived together in the southern region of the Five Continent, but they were also adjacent to each other. So, it was almost impossible for the Elves to develop to the point of revenge under the Vingeans' watchful gaze.

Therefore, Isa did not want to miss this opportunity.

The stronger David's background, the greater the possibility of annihilating the Vingeans.

Of course, if they were discovered, the Elves might also become hostile to a superpower.

After weighing the opportunities and risks, Isa decided to take a gamble.

She made a vow when she took over as queen.

After becoming the Elven Queen, she had to avenge those people who were captured by the Vingeans.

Over time, Isa found out that even if she changed the fate of the Elves, revenge was still out of reach even if she got the Elves to walk openly throughout Leila and be recognized by all major forces.

David was the only hope she had seen after so many years.

Not only was he powerful, but his background was also incredible. Furthermore, he was upright, righteous, and had a good temper.

Only a special figure would have his sense of justice and desire to protect aroused after learning the tragic history of the Elves, and of how they were attacked by the Vingeans. Only a special figure would want to help the Elves take revenge.

One must admit that as the Elven Queen, Isa was very good at judging people's characters.

After meeting David once and learning some stories from Evie, she could roughly infer David's character and make full use of it.

"But Mother, the walls have ears. What if David finds out? At that time, although we would have taken revenge on the Vingeans, we might offend another superpower that is even more powerful. Won't the losses outweigh the gains if that were to happen?" Evie tried her best to persuade her mother.

David was her benefactor.

In addition, she admired David, so that was why she did not want to take advantage of him.

She was also worried that David would be disappointed in her if he found out.

"Evie! I know you like David. He saved you and he's also very nice to you. Moreover, he is also outstanding. Not only does he have a strong background, but he also doesn't put on any airs. Any woman would like a man like this after interacting with him. However, don't forget that you are the Elven Princess and also the future Elven Queen. The clan cultivated you, so you can't always side with the outsiders," Isa said seriously.

"Mother, you misunderstood. I do have a crush on David, but I have not forgotten who I am. I am afraid that David will find out that we are using him and cut off all contact with us. I believe that no matter who he is and no matter how good his temper is, he will be upset after knowing that he's been taken advantage of by someone he trusts."

"First of all, as long as we plan well, David may never find out. Secondly, even if he finds out, judging from his character, he won't do anything to us. As for cutting off contact?"

Isa suddenly paused.

Then, she took a deep breath and said firmly, "Just let it be! Regardless, we will have our revenge by then and I can just explain myself to the dead. At worst, I, the Elven Queen, will dedicate the rest of my life waiting hand and foot on David to repay his kindness."

She had decided that no matter what, she would set this plan into motion and fulfill her vow.

She would not hesitate even if she offended David.

Evie stood there aggrievedly.

She knew that no matter how she tried to persuade her mother, the latter would never change her mind.

Her mother's obsession with avenging those people captured by the Vingeans was too deep.
