

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2726-Anyone who was taken advantage of by someone they trusted would probably not feel good about it!

Evie also did not ask David to forgive her.

She would be happy as long as David did not hold a grudge against her.

This was the best outcome she could expect.

David did not give an immediate reaction after hearing this.

He was wondering, 'What kind of race are the Vingean's?

'How can they do such a heartless thing?

'I must go and meet the other party later.'

Then, he came to his senses.

First of all, Evie must be telling the truth. David did not doubt this.

The tone, attitude, and look on her face when she told the story all proved that Evie was not lying.

In other words, Queen Isa was the one who came up with the plan.

Evie was just following the orders.

She could not bear to take advantage of David, so she exposed everything midway.

She was indeed a naive little girl.

To be honest, David was not angry at being deceived or used.

Instead, he could not wait to meet the Vingean's.

David had decided that he would wipe out the Vingean's for abducting Elven women.

"Evie, you mean the Elven Queen wants to use me to avenge the Elves?" David asked aloud.

"Yes! That's what my mother meant! But please, Master David, please don't blame my mother. She was desperate, which is why she made this decision. As the Elven Queen, my mother also has her own difculties. She has already paid too much for our clan," Evie explained in a low voice.

"I'm very curious. How did the Elven Queen determine that I have that ability? The Elves are not very weak, how can she be sure that I can take revenge when even you can't even do it?"

"My mother said that when she fought you in The Spirit Cage, you are the young man with the strongest soul power she has ever seen. People like you cannot be cultivated by ordinary forces. Only the top superpowers could cultivate such strength. Furthermore, didn't you scare Ambrose into apologizing? I told my mother about that too," Evie said guiltily.

Then, she glanced at David quietly and saw that David's expression did not change. She breathed a sigh of relief and continued, "Of course, my mother is not 100% sure that you can do it, but this is the only glimmer of hope she has seen in all these years. Therefore, she is willing to make a gamble! If she loses the bet, she is willing to bear all the consequences."

"Okay, I understand! Let's go now! We've been delayed for so long, let's not miss this chance," David stood up and said.

He wanted to meet the Vingean's now.

"Ah? David, where are we going?" Evie asked stupidly.

In her head, David should walk away on his own after he found out that he was being used.

Why was he dragging her along?

"Where are we going? We're going to the place you want to take me to, of course. Isn't the Elven Queen still waiting for me there? It'll be bad if we cause the plan to fail because of our tardiness," David replied matter-of-factly.

"D-David, H... Y-You... Are you not mad?" Evie asked stammeringly as her beautiful eyes widened.

"Why should I be mad?" David looked confused.

"I... My mother and I teamed up to deceive you and wanted to use you to avenge the Elves. Aren't you mad about that?"

"I am!" David nodded.

Before Evie could react, he continued, "So we have to leave quickly because I want to vent all this anger on the Vingean's and teach them that trafficking women is a crime punishable by death!"

As David said that, an evil spirit emerged from his body.

Evie just looked at David blankly.

Her eyes gradually turned red.

She could not stop her tears from flowing.

How would she not understand what David meant?

After David knew the truth of the matter, not only was he not angry, but he also took the initiative to help the Elves get revenge.

Evie felt that she could never repay such kindness in this life.
