I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 356

"Not yet, but it shouldn't take too long

I'm already standing at the brink of it, and I can take that step anytime now. Even if I don't take that step, a mere peak Dragon Ranker is no match for my current strength. I can guarantee you that even if I was surrounded by more than five peak Dragon Rankers, I'd still be able to kill them all," Tyrant said confidently.

Rory snapped back to reality and said, "If that's the case, then I'll leave it to you. Once you kill Silver Face, then there won't be any need to worry about the mercenaries since they no longer have a captain to follow. Though, we should still teach them a good lesson, lest anyone thinks the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries are an easy target to pick on."

"Leave Silver Face to me, I'll kill him in the shortest time possible and crush their confidence. I'll leave the handling of everything else to you, the more there is left, the better," Tyrant said.

"Yes, Captain!"

Capital City, Somerland.

After what happened this month, the Chasez family had reached their apex and excelled beyond other first-rate aristocratic families in Capital City.

Coupled with the two bodyguards hired by the Chasez family last week, one a mid-rank Dragon Ranker and a high-rank Dragon Ranker, the Chasez family had become even more powerful.

No one dared to cross the Chasez family in Capital City now.

Meanwhile, Hank and his brother have become even more fearless.

Not only had Hank become the T Faction's second Téman, but Hanley, who was still a university student, had also become one of the eight great fighters of the faction.

Hanley had become much more arrogant now as well.

Having understood the shocking past of his family, he set his eyes on Celia again.

He did not care that David was the one who killed Zachary, one of T Faction's eight great fighters since David still did not dare to kill Hanley.

Hanley had a more powerful background than David did.

Therefore, there was nothing stopping him from making Celia his, not when David did not dare to kill him.

If David tried, the entirety of Somerland would be after David.

This was why Hanley was not fearful.

However, the reason why he had not done anything to Celia yet was that there was something important the Chasez family had to do now. Once the matter was dealt with, Hanley would then make Celia his regardless of whether she wanted it or not.

Once this matter was dealt with, the Chasez family would become one of the distinguished aristocratic families in Capital City.

By then, Hanley would take Celia whether she or David wanted him to or not, and there was nothing David could do to stop him.

The Great Wall Club.

Hank had once again gathered members of T Faction for a meeting.

No one dared to question him this time.

Chase wore a sinister expression on his face, not daring to make a single sound while Stan waited silently for Hank to speak.

With the arrival of the Chasez family's two new martial arts masters, Stan now saw Hank as an equal.

Hank may not be as physically strong, but he had the familial background to make up for it.

Stan did not expect Justin the Tyrant to be able to send out two great masters that were mid and high-ranking Dragon Rankers respectively.

Masters of such level were part of a family's heritage and were only brought out when necessary.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 357

Hank swept his gaze across the T Faction great fighters before him while the people who he looked at all averted their gazes instinctively.

The Chasez family had already surpassed the other first-rate families and was joining the circle of distinguished aristocrats.

They were not a family the great fighters could afford to make an enemy of.

Hanley sat excitedly below the stage.

This was the first time he was participating in a core T Faction gathering.

As a middle-tier member of T Faction, the prestige of the eight great fighters was something he had long heard of and always dreamed to experience.

Not that he expected this day to arrive so quickly.

The other three of Greenwood University's Fantastic Four immediately tried to get in his good graces when they heard that he had become one of T Faction's eight great fighters. They wanted to work with Hanley, so the latter took them in as his underlings.

T Faction was a sacred existence among the youths of Capital City, and T's took pride in being a member of the faction.

As one of its eight great fighters, Hanley was now extremely popular among the youths in Capital City.

. It could be said that Hanley was treated as a celebrity in university, constantly getting swarmed by sons of wealthy families trying to get chummy with him. It was just a shame that Celia did not come to school and missed the sight.

At this moment, Hank said, "I called everyone here today to announce two things. The Chasez family has brought in two bodyguards, both of whom are elders who have worked under my uncle for a long time. To welcome them, the Chasez family has decided to hold a banquet in three days, inviting all renowned aristocrats from Capital City. I hope to see you guys there, as well as give you the chance to witness a high-rank Dragon Rank master up close."

"Don't worry, Mr. Hank! We'll be there!"

"Yeah, yeah! We'll be there!"

Everyone said.

"What's this? You seem rather reluctant, Chasey." Hank said, staring at Chase.

Chase then let out a somber smile and replied, "Of course not, Mr. Hank. I would be glad to go to the banquet. I'll see you in three days."

The Snow family used to be slightly better than the Chasez family, but now that the latter had the resources of the T Faction and the help from Justin the Tyrant backing them up, they were miles ahead of the Snow family.

No matter how much Chase hated or felt indignant about Hank's sudden surge in status, he knew that the Chasez family was currently at its peak and it was not a good time to become their enemy. Thus, Chase's only option was to yield.

However, Chase knew that he would take revenge without hesitation if there came a day when the Chasez family fell.

"That's great, then! And here I thought that you were going to reject and make me look bad in front of everyone!" Hank said with a vague smile.

Then, Hank turned to Stan and said, "I hope to see you as well, Stan!"

"How could I turn down your invitation, Hank? I'd love to see a high-rank Dragon Rank master up close," Stan replied with a smile.

"Since everyone's agreed, then I shall await all of you at the Chasez residence in three days. Oh, right, I almost forgot to tell you! My uncle actually has a dozen more of those Dragon Rankers under him!"

After this, Hank walked out of the private room with a loud laugh as Hanley followed.

Leaving the others in the private room to stare at each other indignantly.

“Mr. Stan!”

Stan interrupted before Chase could say anything.

“Endure it, for now, Chase. The Chaisez family has grown into a force to be reckoned with. With Justin’s current strength and powers, there’s no one strong enough to stop the Chaisez family. Let it be. Make sure to prepare nicer gifts and get in the Chaisez family’s good graces. We’re all members of T Faction, and I’m sure Hank isn’t one to hold grudges.”

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 358

Stan got up to leave the private room.

The other great fighters shared a look and sighed as well.

If even the T-man himself had made it clear that the Chaisez family had grown into a force to be reckoned with, then there was nothing more they could do except follow Stan’s advice and prepare nicer gifts to get in the Chaisez family’s good books.

Jon and his wife had experienced both heaven and hell recently.

Around a month ago, the Chaisez family had given up on targeting them and returned them 54 % of Beautylish Group’s shares.

Jon had gotten back his job and his superior even showed signs of wanting to promote him and giving him more responsibilities.

However, good things did not last for long and trouble arose again in the past few days.

An issue came about with the company and Jon’s career was stalled. The couple spent their days frowning at home.

Celia did as David told and did not attend any classes in Greenwood. She was an understanding lady, and she knew this was not the time to cause more trouble for her parents and David. Thus, she did not leave the house at all and stayed at home.

Jon and his wife initially assumed that the Chasez family was targeting them again, but after asking around a couple of people they found out that the Chasez family was actually too busy to deal with small fries like them these days.

The Chasez family had been very active in Capital City these days, as there were rumors about how they had received the support of some powerful figure and were now expanding their powers. The family was also slowly breaking past the boundaries of the first-rate aristocratic circle and was aiming for an even higher status.

The trouble the couple was facing was not a direct result of something the Chasez family had said, but rather the result of Beautylish Group's partners and close business friends distancing themselves from the Young family in fear that the Chasez family would trouble them for their connection.

The Chasez family had already grown powerful enough to the point where they need not say anything before someone trying to get chummy with them would take the initiative to help the family out.

This was a treatment that only the top four distinguished aristocratic families in Capital City enjoyed. If you were to become an enemy of those four families, someone would immediately step out and help get rid of the "enemy" without those families even uttering a word.

If the Chasez family continues to grow like this, they would quickly become the fifth distinguished aristocratic family in Capital City.

However, any family that wanted to become the fifth distinguished aristocratic family would surely face obstacles set by the other four to stop them.

After all, there were only so many benefits to go around, and any newcomers meant the redistribution of such benefits. Each party would be forced to reap fewer benefits from then on.

However, the Chasez family had the extremely powerful Justin Chasez watching over them, so no one dared to cross them.

Therefore, these four families would rather reap fewer benefits than make an enemy out of Justin.

As a legendary figure within Somerland, Justin was already a hundred and twenty years old. His body was slowly degrading but even so, Somerland was unwilling to start a fight with him, lest Falconia seized the opportunity to attack Somerland.

That was the only reason why Somerland officials did not make any move when two mid and high-ranking Dragon Rank masters of unknown origin suddenly appeared in Capital City, the heart of Somerland.

If Justin was a mere peak Dragon Ranker, even if he topped the Dragon Rank, Somerland was a strong enough empire that it needed not to be concerned about fighting him.

However, the issue was that Dark Cape was under Justin's rule and this was too important to Somerland. The empire could not risk such a place following into Falconia's hands.

In truth, the current situation was the best they could manage. This was because the moment either of the two empires, Somerland or Falconia, got ahold of Dark Cape, a war would break out between them.

Thus, Somerland decided to turn a blind eye and even help the Chasez family grow, as did the other families.

Three days later, the Chasez family invited various aristocratic families in Capital City to witness their rise.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 359

News of Red Flame Mercenaries preparing to attack Dark Cape quickly spread to the ears of the two large empires.

Dark Cape was of great importance to the two empires, so it was only natural that both empires had people surveiling the area at all times.

The moment something unexpected occurs, the news would immediately reach the ears of high officials within the two empires so they could make a decision.

There had been much news of mercenaries launching an attack on Dark Cape, but this was the first time a mercenary group had gathered twenty thousand men and marched toward Dark Cape like Red Flame Mercenaries was doing now.

Both empires took this issue seriously and started looking into Silver Face, the captain of Red Flame Mercenaries.

Most importantly, they needed to check if Silver Face was a mercenary group sent over from the other empire.

However, neither empire could find anything. They each had names of the other empire's peak Dragon Rankers on their lists, and they would be immediately alerted the moment someone went missing.

This was aided by the fact that David had already planned everything out a long time ago and did not want to reveal his identity yet.

He knew that the moment his identity was revealed, Falconia would prevent him from taking control of Dark Cape.

In fact, a war between the two empires might even be sparked in advance because of this. This was why he had switched between countless identities on his way to Dark Cape and even donned a mask just so he would not be identified.

After analyses and investigations from both empires, they confirmed that Silver Face was not someone sent over by the other empire and thus decided not to join this war.

However, that did not mean they would not continue surveilling the situation.

To some degree, Red Flame Mercenaries' attack on Dark Cape was exactly what both empires wanted to see.

Bloodthirsty Mercenaries had already been in control over Dark Cape for almost a decade, and Dark Cape's advantageous geographical location means that all mercenary expenses could be paid for without needing to send the mercenaries out on missions.

No missions also meant no losses.

Having control over such extreme wealth meant Bloodthirsty Mercenaries would continue to grow stronger and neither empire wanted this to happen.

It did not matter who won, but both Red Flame and Bloodthirsty Mercenaries would suffer losses during this battle of Dark Cape.

Regardless of who took over Dark Cape in the end, the mercenaries would still need a long time to recover.

Three days passed very quickly.

Capital City's Chasez residence was extremely lively today, with countless guests who were renowned and powerful families in Capital City.

The Chasez family wore bright smiles on their faces because, after today, their family name would shake the whole of Capital City and even the whole of Somerland.

However, they had no idea that a huge battle was about to break out at Dark Cape, one that would determine whether the Chasez family lived or died.

Not even the Chasez family's guardians or elders knew that Dark Cape was about to be attacked.

This was because Bloodthirsty Mercenaries' high officials knew that Tyrant was on the edge of a breakthrough and so no one thought that Bloodthirsty would lose.

Red Flame only had one peak Dragon Ranker when Tyrant himself said that he could fight five peak Dragon Rankers with no issue.

Thus, no one informed the Chasez family's guardians and elders.

Dark Cape.

David stood Bloodthirsty Mercenaries' castle with Killer, Tulip, Blue Enchantress, Paul, various Red Flame high officials, and twenty thousand mercenaries behind him.

At this moment, David started to feel strange. Logically speaking, they should already have entered Dark Cape's borders, yet they had been met with no resistance as cut straight to the heart of Dark Cape.

He knew that something was going to happen. It was possible the enemy had purposefully allowed them to enter and decided to attack from all sides.

David was not the only person who was worried. However, they were already here and a battle was inevitable.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 360

Their opponent was the third most powerful mercenary group in the world, Bloodthirsty Mercenaries.

Tyrant was also ranked first on the Dragon Rank with his prestige spreading far and wide.

A loss meant death, but a win would mean many benefits and fame.

"Captain Silver Face, there's been no resistance since we entered the borders, could we have stepped into their trap?" Asked a mercenary captain who was also a high-ranked Dragon Ranger.

"Fret not, captains. In face of absolute strength, any trap is fruitless. Once I kill Tyrant and send Bloodthirsty Mercenaries into disarray, all they'll be thinking of is escaping and they won't be in any mood to fight. By then, you'll all be able to attack the palace easily," David said expressionlessly, looking at the castle in front of him.

"Then here's to hoping that you win quickly, Captain Silver Face!"

In the castle.

"Has everything been arranged, Rory?" Asked Justin the Tyrant.

"Yes, Captain. We've blocked off their escape routes, there's no returning for them," Rory replied.

"Very good! All of you will follow Rory's orders. Return to your positions and stay on standby. Once I kill Silver Face and crush their confidence, attack and kill them all."

"Yes, Captain! May you eliminate the enemy and return victorious!" Shouted all of the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries' high officials.

"Move!"

With Justin the Tyrant's order, all of Bloodthirsty's high officials followed Rory's prior arrangement and returned to their positions.

Some of them left the castle through secret passageways and stationed themselves behind Red Flame Mercenary in preparation to block off their escape routes.

David was about to ask Paul to fire two mini-missiles into the castle just to see if there was anyone inside.

Then, a few people appeared on the castle walls a dozen feet above the ground.

Standing in front was a middle-aged man with a pale face and a hand-held fan in his right hand.

This man looked over.

Excluding David, everyone else took an instinctive step backward. That was how powerful Tyrant was.

The moment Killer saw Tyrant, the long-suppressed desire to take revenge immediately exploded.

Had it not been for the huge difference in strength, Killer would have long rushed over to kill Tyrant.

"Justin the Tyrant?" David asked.

His voice was not loud, but it managed to travel very far, allowing the people on the castle walls to hear him despite being hundreds of meters away.

Tyrant's gaze froze, he did not expect this person to know his true name.

It seemed like this Silver Face was an old friend.

"Who are you? Why don't you dare to take your mask off?" Justin the Tyrant asked.

"Who I am doesn't matter. All you need to know is that I'm here to kill you!"

"Kill me? Do you know how many people there are worldwide who want to kill me? And yet here I am, standing before you, alive and well. Those who want to kill me have either been thrown into the pond to feed my fish or didn't even dare to appear before my eyes. You... you're a bold one, aren't you?" Tyrant said with a smile.

"Cut the nonsense and fight me! Everyone's waiting to see us fight, so how about you show me the strength of the top ranker of the Dragon Rank?" David said seriously. "As you wish!"

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 361

As soon as Justin the Tyrant finished speaking, he jumped directly down from the castle that was more than ten meters high.

Boom!

After he landed, he created a huge noise.

Then, he rushed toward David without any hesitation immediately after landing.

David also charged over toward him quickly.

Everyone was watching this battle intensely.

Even the people of the two empires were watching the battle with high-powered binoculars from a distance.

The two figures quickly merged at a speed that was almost invisible to the naked eye.

After a roar, their fists met.

Boom!

The sound caused by it was comparable to the sound of a small shell exploding and it lingered over Dark Cape for a long while.

After this, the two figures retreated more than ten steps each.

Then, they stood still at the same time.

Tens of thousands of eyes were focused on the two of them.

This exchange was just a test on both sides.

“This is indeed the strength of a peak Dragon Ranker, but if you only have this strength, then I am sorry, I, Tyrant, will be taking your life!” Justin said, looking at David not far away.

“That’s exactly what I wanted to say!”

Boom!

Justin did not hold back anymore, immediately giving off had a vigorous and imposing aura.

The two quickly fought together again.

Boom boom boom boom boom boom boom!

All kinds of loud sounds were heard.

Normal people could not see the battle of two peak Dragon Rankers. Only a master at the late stage of the Dragon Rank could spot the slight shadow of the two of them.

Everyone was nervous because the direction of their fight would predict the direction of the entire battle.

Until now, David had only used his strength as a peak Dragon Ranker. It was not because he was purposely concealing his power, but because he was just accumulating experience.

Right now, what he lacked was a battle experience. He had upgraded his realm too quickly and his experience level could not catch up. So, he was suppressing his realm and treating Justin as his sparring partner.

As the two of them fought each other, they left traces of their fight on the ground and also in the air.

David punched the air and Justin leaped up, which David followed by concentrating his energy on his feet.

However, when he was just catching up, Justin’s power suddenly exploded. His vertical rose by a lot and he charged toward David at a very fast speed.

Before David had time to react, he had already been hit.

This was Justin's plan. First, he would be locked in battle with David, and then, he would suddenly explode, catching David off guard and finishing him directly.

After this, everyone could only see one figure flying out and hitting the side of the castle. With that, that person formed a big hole in the castle wall.

After Justin punched David, it did not end there. Instead, he quickly took out his folding fan, waved his hand, and a row of nine specially made and highly poisonous steel needles flew toward David.

Justin landed.

Everyone looked at the battlefield nervously, wanting to see who was the last man standing.

Because of the battle between the two, the fallout caused a huge amount of dust to be lifted off the ground, so no one saw what was going on and who was defeated.

The dust slowly dissipated.

The figure of Justin the Tyrant appeared in everyone's eyes.

"Well done, Captain!"

"Well done, Captain!"

A loud cheer sounded from the castle.

If Justin was standing there, it meant that Dávid was the one who was punched into the wall of the castle.

Meanwhile, everyone in the Red Flame Mercenaries looked as if they had something stuck in their throats. They were extremely quiet.

Silver Face was defeated?

Impossible!

Didn't he take that one small step?

They could feel the aftermath of their battle just now. Even though it was super strong, it was not as strong as the pressure Captain Silver Face exuded three days ago.

A few of the masters at the late stage of the Dragon Rank were looking at the battlefield with curiosity.

At the same time, Justin turned around and looked in the direction of the Red Flame Mercenaries. On this side, everyone was alarmed.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 362

If Tyrant came over here, would it not be like a tiger among a flock of sheep?

Just as Justin was about to give orders to attack, a voice suddenly sounded in his ear.

“The number one in the Dragon Rank is just so-so.”

Justin was startled, and when he turned around...

Slam!

The whole body was thrown into the sky by an inexplicable huge force.

While Justin was in the air, he did not have time to react before his body was attacked from above again. Then, he flew quickly toward the ground.

Boom!

The ground shook violently.

The strong aftermath dissipated, causing the crowd hundreds of meters away to feel a strong wind. Then, the dust on the ground was swept up by more than ten meters.

Even so, this was not the end.

David came in hot from above. He dove down at lightning speed and slammed one knee straight into Justin's back.

Crack!

“Ah!”

Another huge sound, accompanied by Justin’s shrill screams, sounded over the entire castle and reached everyone’s ears, causing everyone who heard it to shiver.

The senior executives of the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries in the castle looked at each other in shock. This was the voice of their captain, Tyrant, so how would they not recognize it?

David’s last blow had completely shattered Justin’s spine, and even if he had a strong body that was at the peak of the Dragon Rank, he still could not stand David’s blow at full force.

The dust had not yet dissipated when a figure slowly floated into the sky.

Yes, it rose directly from the ground to the sky.

When the figure rose to a place where there was no dust, everyone looked at the scene in front of them in shock.

Captain Silver Face from the Red Flame Mercenaries was quietly suspended in the air, holding Tyrant’s body in his hand.

What?

How was this possible?

Even a peak Dragon Ranker could not float in the air but Silver Face could?

Could it be that... he was already beyond the peak of Dragon Rank?

The people from the two empires were extremely astonished when they saw this scene. They quickly captured this scene and sent it back to their countries.

Silver Face was a super master who had already broken past the peak of Dragon Rank.

This was a huge piece of news!

It was enough to shock the world.

Justin was not dead yet. A peak Dragon Ranker's determination to live was indeed strong, but his entire spine had been completely shattered so he could not exert even a little bit of strength.

The moment he was caught by David and slowly lifted into the air, he knew he had been wrong.

The other party had been just playing with him this whole time.

He hid his strength and wanted to deal David a fatal blow, but he did not expect David to hide his strength even better than he did. .

If he knew David's strength from the beginning, he would not have fought him. Instead, Justin would have directly run away. .

Even if he lost Dark Cape and Bloodthirsty Mercenaries, he would never fight David. This was not a fight between equal-level opponents at all....

The difference between taking that step and not was unimaginable. The simplest example was that one could stay in the air, but the other could only leap into the air with the help of other forces.

"I didn't expect... cough... I didn't expect you to have already taken that step! Cough... I don't feel injustice after being defeated."

Justin coughed up blood with every word he said. "But... cough... Who are you?"

"Don't you think you've destroyed enough families over the years?" David said blankly.

Then David shouted, "Killer!"

When Killer heard David's voice, he quickly came over.

David then tossed Justin who was in his hands over to Killer.

"I'll hand Tyrant to you."

"Thank you, Captain!"

Killer replied excitedly.

“Everyone from the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries, listen up. Tyrant is dead so don’t put up any unnecessary struggles. If not... I’ll kill without mercy!”

David’s voice was filled with the prestige of someone who had gone beyond the peak Dragon Rank. His voice lingered in the air of Dark Cape for a long time and sent a chill into the hearts of everyone from Bloodthirsty Mercenaries.

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 363

The death of Tyrant could be said to have completely crushed the hearts of the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries.

Although they could still fight with Red Flame Mercenaries if they concentrated their firepower, nobody had the desire to fight.

In this kind of small war, a skirmish was a reflection of the general direction of the war.

If one side was defeated and the other side was seriously injured, the fight might still be able to continue, or if neither side won, they would still have a chance.

However, there was no need to resist in this kind of fight where one side had suffered a crushing defeat.

With all his strength, David was able to kill all the senior executives of the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries one by one.

When they heard what David said, many of Bloodthirsty’s executives who were lying in wait on Red Flame’s escape route fled with their people. They could live well no matter where they went with these people so why should they fight to the death with Red Flame?

Moreover, their captain Tyrant was already dead, so they would be asking for death if they went forward to fight.

The person that went beyond the peak of the Dragon Rank was already a legendary figure.

Only the people in the castle had nowhere to escape, and after a little resistance, the castle was breached and the Red Flame Mercenaries managed to occupy it.

Red Flame Mercenaries had taken down Dark Cape, and their leader, Silver Face, was in the realm above the peak of the Dragon Rank. The news of him completely crushing and killing Tyrant quickly spread too.

The top leaders of the two empires were the first to receive the news and the last thing they wanted was some other superpower occupying Dark Cape.

If they knew Silver Face was so powerful, they might have thought of a way to stop him.

Now that Silver Face's strength was beyond the Dragon Rank, he was a little out of their range of control..

The stronger the ruler of Dark Cape, the greater the threat to the other side if they were to favor one side in the future. What they most hoped was that Dark Cape would be at war all the year-round.

However, now there was no other way to resolve it. Dark Cape had been occupied by Silver Face, so it was too late to stop him, not to mention that a superpower like him was not easy to be manipulated.

As soon as Somerland received the news, they immediately asked Lucas to bring someone to the Chases family in Capital City so that they could bring the two senior executives from Bloodthirsty Mercenaries back for an investigation to prevent them from going crazy and hurting people after receiving the news and affecting social stability.

Although people were monitoring them before, their strength was not enough to stop the two senior executives of the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries who were in the middle and late stages of the Dragon Rank

Otherwise, with the strength of these two people, once they were out of sight, no one knew how much effort it would take to find them again.'

Moreover, with Tyrant dead and Dark Cape having been breached, these two would remain unstable factors if they resided in Somerland.

At this time, the Chasez family was in a lively atmosphere. Today, the Chasez family held this banquet to let all the families in Capital city witness the rise of their family.

Every family that came here prepared a huge gift to form a good relationship with the Chasez family.

It was no exaggeration to say that the value of the gifts the Chasez family received on this day was equivalent to the total income of the Chasez family for several years.

If this sum of money was invested in the development of the Chasez family it would cause a great leap in their strength.

In the Chasez family's manor-style villa, the huge living room was filled with spokespeople sent by major families in Capital City.

Hank dressed up to the nines to attend this party.

Today, he was the star.

He was also the next heir of the Chasez family.

Joseph had prepared to hand the Chasez family to Hank.

This meant that after today, Hank would be the head of the Chasez family.

He was the first person who became the head of a family among the younger generation in Capital City.

Even T-man Stan who was a few years older than Hank had not taken over the Warner family.

This was because there was a gap in the middle of the Chasez family. Justin was the only person in Hank's father's generation with the ability to become the head.

Now that Justin was unable to come back, Joseph had always been the head of the family.

However, Hank had started to display his demeanor as the head of a family, so Joseph was ready to offload his responsibility as the head and retire.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 364

Joseph showed up on the second floor with Hank in tow. While facing the representatives of the major families in the hall, Joseph said, "From today on, Hank will be officially taking over as the head of the Chasez family. My virtuous achievements have come to their successful conclusion, and I can finally retire. Come on, Hank, come and say a few words."

"Welcome, everyone to the party hosted by my family. The people who come here today are all friends of the Chasez family. In the future, whenever you need my help, please feel free to speak up. As long as it's something within my power, I will not waste any time to aid you."

As soon as Hank appeared, he started to say something courteous.

No one would take it too seriously.

Everyone was thinking the same thing, 'We won't ask the Chasez family for help, but we're on good terms as long as you don't cause trouble for us in the future.'

"Hank, you're too humble. You are the first one among the younger generation of the major families in Capital City to take over as the head of the family. You're not yet thirty years old, right? Sure enough, heroes come from the youth," someone started to congratulate.

"A hero came from among the youth of the Chasez family!"

Everyone also congratulated him.

However, those who spoke were representatives of second-and third-rate families.

The representatives of the first-class families did not join in.

Their identities would not allow them to say such words to exalt other families and depreciate their own.

A few of the great fighters of T Faction looked at Hank with some envy. While they were still working hard to obtain the position of the head of the family, Hank was already ahead of them and had inherited the position of head of the Chasez family.

Although they were all the first heirs, they were not without competitors. It was hard to say whether they would be able to claim the position of the head of the family in the future.

Even Stan was no exception.

Although he was now the number one in the Warner family, if he lost the ten-year appointment to Clinton and smeared the Warner family name, it would be hard to say whether he could continue to hold this position in the future.

That was why he attached so much importance to Hank and let him utilize the power of T Faction because he also needed to use Hank's power to deal with the upcoming ten-year appointment with Clinton.

In his view, this was merely an exchange of interests.

The stronger the Chasez family was, the more helpful it would be to him.

"You are all so courteous. Next, I would like to introduce to you two new members of the Chasez family. Both of them are my uncle Justin's bodyguards. They were specially sent by my uncle to help my family at this time."

At this time, the guardian and elder of Bloodthirsty Mercenaries stood beside Hank.

Justin's name was completely exposed. In the past, his name was only spread among the older generation of the major families, but now Hank had revealed it.

Many small families had no clue who Justin was.

They were about to go back to ask around.

After today, Justin's name would reverberate through all of Capital City, astonishing everyone.

This was Hank's purpose.

He showed his hidden trump, and even if he did not use it, it would still have a huge intimidating effect.

Stan looked at the two people next to Hank and asked in a small voice, "Amos, what do you think?"

The middle-aged man next to him replied, "Sir, the rumors were right. One is a mid-Dragon Ranker while one is at the late stage of the Dragon Rank. They're very powerful."

"I got it."

Stan took a deep breath and said.

Justin had so many masters and even the two he randomly dispatched were at this level.

Hank said that Justin had more than ten people on this level with him.

If this was true, their strength would be terrifying.

Hank was still speaking eloquently.

Meanwhile, the two Bloodthirsty Mercenaries senior executives stood behind him.

With their identities and strength, they felt a little disenchanted to be dragged out and used by Hank, a punk who had not even made it to the Tiger Rank.

However, they had no other choice because this kid was their captain's nephew.

Before leaving, Captain Tyrant personally explained that they had to cooperate with the Chasez family's plan and help the Chasez family develop.

Although they were upset, they dared not go against the captain's wishes. Furthermore, the Chasez family had been really good to them.

They had been here for more than a week and their lives were even more free and easy than when they were at Dark Cape. They would get all the money and women they wanted.

They also cooperated with Hank appropriately to reveal their own strength and release some of their auras.

They even thought that it was not bad to always be in the Chasez family because they only occasionally needed to stand up for the Chasez family. Most of the time, they would be living lives equivalent to an emperor.

Joseph, the most powerful person in the Chasez family, only had the strength in the early stage of the Dragon Rank. The Chasez family completely relied on the deterrence provided by him and Justin to continue maintaining their honor as a first-rate family.

Naturally, he did not dare to disrespect the two masters in the middle and late stages of the Dragon Rank

At the same time, the two senior executives of Bloodthirsty Mercenaries were still thinking about the women waiting for them on the bed. The women the Chasez family found for them were of a much higher level than the ones they abducted from Dark Cape, and they would enjoy the women so much that they often forgot to go home. They wanted the party to end sooner so that they could go back and enjoy the women's services.

At this time, their mobile phones rang one after another."

The two picked up their mobile phones and saw that it was a call from one of the top executives of Bloodthirsty Mercenaries who had a good relationship with them.

The two retreated to the back of the room and answered the phone. They wanted to show off how comfortable they were here, but the first sentence of the other party made them stop their bragging and widened their eyes.

Captain Tyrant was dead and Dark Cape had been conquered!

The person on the other end also asked them to hurry and find a way to get out of Somerland.

Because once there was no threat from Tyrant and Dark Cape, their identities would become very sensitive in Somerland.

The two looked at each other nervously.

They quickly walked past Hank, jumped down directly from the second floor, and were ready to leave this place as quickly as possible.

Their move also made Hank, who was still speaking, a little confused.

The representatives of dozens of major families in the hall also looked at the two inexplicably.

Thud!

Thud!

After the two landed, they ignored the others and ran straight toward the gate.

However, as soon as they got to the gate, they were stopped.

At this time, Lucas arrived here with Vulture Two.

“The guardian and elder of Bloodthirsty Mercenaries, please come with us,” Lucas looked at the two senior executives of the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries and said.

He got news to bring the two senior executives of Bloodthirsty Mercenaries at the Chasez family back for investigation. If there were no problems with them, they should immediately be sent away from Somerland.

Joseph and Hank walked over.

“Who are you? Those two are the bodyguards of the Chasez family!” Joseph said.

“Grandpa, this is the person that saved me last time,” Hank said to Joseph in secret.

Joseph was shocked.

‘Did Somerland take action?’

‘But why?’

This shouldn’t be the case!’

Then, he recalled how the two senior executives from Bloodthirsty Mercenaries got a call and then immediately wanted to run away.

Joseph shuddered.

'Did something happen to Justin?'

It had to be said that experience definitely mattered. Joseph was very powerful to be able to support the Chasez family and have it stand strong for so many years

Just from those two little things alone, he could tell that something must have happened to Justin.

He turned to the guests of the major families in the hall and said, "I'm sorry everyone, the party is over. We have some things to deal with. I'll invite you all to my humble abode again another day." :

In this situation, normal people could see that the Chasez family had gotten into trouble, but even though some people from the smaller families were curious, they did not dare to offend the Chasez family, so they slowly left.

Those from big families were not so easy to get rid of. After all, how could they miss this interesting event?

Joseph did not care about these people, as he was desperate to find out what was going on.

Stan also quietly contacted his family at this time.

"Falcon, the spirit of Somerland is conducting official business, so please don't get in our way, Old Master Chasez," Lucas said.

"What the hell is going on? Please tell me," Joseph-asked.

Lucas did not answer Joseph but continued to stare at the two senior executives of Bloodthirsty Mercenaries.

Seeing that the other party was not answering him, Joseph said to Hank, who was standing next to him, "Hank, call your uncle."

Hank took out his phone and dialed Justin's number, but no one answered even after a long time.

"Grandpa, no one is picking up," Hank said in a flustered voice. Joseph's heart sank

He knew something must have happened.

"Did something happen to my son, Justin? Sirs, please tell me!" Joseph bowed to Lucas and asked respectfully.

Seeing Joseph's attitude, Lucas sighed and replied, "Old Master Chasez, I was ordered to come and ask the two senior executives of the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries to come back with me to aid with an investigation. As for other matters, it's inconvenient for me to speak to you about them."

Joseph wanted to say something more, but he was interrupted by a voice.

"Justin the Tyrant is dead. He was killed by a man named Silver Face and Dark Cape has been breached, so that's why the two senior executives from the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries wanted to escape."

The person who spoke was Chase, the second son of the Snow family.

He had just been told the news of Justin's death by T-man Stan, so he naturally knew what the T-man meant. He wanted Chase to help him break the news.

Of course, he was more than happy to do this for Stan.

Since Hank became T Faction's second T-man, he had been extremely arrogant and had suppressed Chase many times. Thus, Chase had disliked him for a long time.

He was the happiest to hear the news of Justin's demise.

When these words came out, everyone was shocked.

The news was like a bolt from the blue for Joseph, Hank, and Hanley.

"Chasey, stop bullsh*tting! My uncle is the number one in Dragon Rank, so how could he be killed?" Hank retorted angrily.

“Haha! He’s just the number one on the Dragon Rank and not the world’s number one! So how is it impossible? I heard that the person who killed him had gone beyond the peak of the Dragon Rank. He could even float in the air for a short while with his own power.”

Joseph looked at the two senior executives of the Bloodthirsty Mercenaries. When he saw that they were not retorting, he knew this had been confirmed. Then, his vision turned black and he almost passed out.

The current Chasez family was built on Justin’s reputation, so if Justin died, everything would be gone.

Furthermore, during this period, the Chasez family had offended a lot of families because they were expanding blindly.

The next period would determine the Chasez family’s fate. It was possible their family would become history because of this.

“Grandpa!”

Hank and his brother quickly supported Joseph.

Even though the brothers could still stand, their shaking hands and feet could not hide their panicking hearts.
