David did not expect Bourne to give up so quickly.

He was tricked just now, and he had not yet taken revenge yet!

How could he let Bourne admit defeat now?

“Old man, what do you mean by admitting defeat? We haven't decided the winner yet! Besides, since you want to destroy Somerland , you must also be prepared to be destroyed. Come on, let's fight some more!”

After David finished speaking, he charged toward Bourne.

Then, he punched Bourne.

Bourne did not defend and was blasted away by David, crashing into the opposite hill.

After a while, he was once again in front of David.

“Silver Face, if you haven't vented enough, you can continue. I will not fight back. I will not complain even if you kill me, but I still hope that you can focus on the overall situation. Now that the catastrophe is coming, human beings on earth are in danger of being exterminated, and we should still work together to fight the catastrophe,” Bourne said righteously.

‘Catastrophe?’

‘What catastrophe?’

This is the second time Bourne said the word catastrophe , and that it even poses a genocide threat to human beings on earth!’

The tens of billions of ordinary people worldwide watching live broadcasts had questions.

However, they could not clarify this, so they could only continue watching. They wanted to know what this so-called catastrophe was all about.

After all, it was related to their safety.

David frowned.

The old man knew he was not David's opponent; if they continued, he would only suffer.

Besides, he pretended to be weak just now, and David fell for him, so now, David would be more alert, and Bourne would have find no more openings.

Hence, Bourne decided to stop and use pseudo righteousness to pressure David. 'Damn! What a smart idea, but you have to ask me if I agree or not.'

David ignored Bourne. After that, he continued charging toward Bourne and sending him flying again.

However, the other party returned to the air soon after.

This time, Bourne wiped the blood from the corners of his mouth and said, "Silver Face, believe it or not, I want to tell you that, in fact, I want to conquer all the forces in the world not for my own selfishness, but instead, I want to integrate them all. Let's fight against the catastrophe together with our strength. You know, once this catastrophe comes and we are not prepared enough, the human beings on earth will face extinction. I had no choice! If we only care about ourselves and not work together, we won't be able to withstand the catastrophe. My life is not important. I should have died hundreds of years ago, but I am worried that you will not be able to protect all humanity by yourself after my death." David still did not speak and sent Bourne flying again.

After repeating this several times, David began using less and less force. It seemed that the other party was determined not to continue fighting him.

David actually wanted to kill the other party directly.

Then, he would wipe out all the people in the Chris family to avoid future trouble. However, it seemed a little difficult now. After all, tens of billions of people worldwide were watching them.

He believed that the matter surrounding the catastrophe would soon spread.

At that time, the other party would be viewed as the righteous side when David was in fact the logical one.

Although David did not care what others thought, he did not want to be discriminated against by tens of billions of people.

He would be criticized no matter where he went.

Furthermore, he also had to consider the people around him.

Like Celia, Aunt Diana, Aunt Sally, and the others.

One should not underestimate the power of public opinion.

Sometimes, public opinion could be turned into an invisible murder weapon.

It was unknown how many people in history were tortured to death by public opinion. There were also a lot who committed suicide.

As David's attack becomes less and less powerful, Bourne knew he had made the right gamble.

The tens of billions of people worldwide watching the live broadcast had become his life-saving straw.

If he continued to fight David in his current state, he would surely die.

He could only find a way out through other means.

Let the whole world know about the catastrophe and explain why he wanted to integrate all the forces in the world.

Bourne believed that there would be many ordinary people who did not know what was happening on his side.

After all, it was related to the life and death of the human race.

No matter Silver Face's strength, he would not go against tens of billions of ordinary people worldwide.

Therefore, Silver Face would not kill Bourne since he was considerate of human beings worldwide.

Now, it seemed that Bourne had succeeded.

"Old man, you are pretty good. You know how to use the righteousness of human beings to pressure me. I can tell you that you have succeeded. I can spare you today, but if I learn in the future that you have done something that harms others and have plans to dominate the world, I'll take your life," David said sullenly.

He was very depressed now.

This could kill the enemy, but he had to let the enemy go for an alternate reason.

David felt very uncomfortable about this.

However, he had no choice.

He wanted to live on this planet.

His lover, family, and friends were all living on Earth. Thus, he could not ignore their feelings.

If he killed Bourne right now without a care in the world, many people would talk about him when the news of the catastrophe got out.

After all, there were only two partial super-Gods on Earth. If he killed one of them, what would they do if the catastrophe arrived?

Humans were selfish. Moreover, this was related to their life.

"My friend, you are very righteous. The catastrophe is coming, and this catastrophe is regarded as the moment that determines the fate of human beings on Earth. Only by gathering all the forces in the world can we have the opportunity to fight it. My friend, since you can let go of personal grievances and look at the bigger picture, the world will remember you," Bourne said, putting his hands together.

Immediately afterward, he spoke to the tens of billions of people worldwide who were watching the live broadcast,"

Don't worry, everyone. Now that Silver Face and I are here, even if the catastrophe comes, we can overcome it if we combine everyone's power."

Now, the tens of billions of people watching live broadcasts worldwide no longer cared about who won or who lost.

They were utterly drawn to the catastrophe Bourne mentioned Bourne said the catastrophe could threaten the lives of all human beings.

This made them inevitably worried.

After all, how many people were not afraid of death?

Who would want to die if they could live?

Mason also knew Bourne's intentions.

He just wanted to use human righteousness to pressure David, so that David would show mercy and let him go.

As for integrating all the forces in the world so that mankind could resist the catastrophe, it was complete nonsense.

If Bourne had such thoughts in the first place, would he have gotten to this point?

He wanted to take all humans in the world as his slaves.

When the catastrophe was here, it would be best if he could push some people out to the front lines resist it.

Bourne would not care as long as his family was safe.

Unfortunately, it was useless even if Mason knew this.

He had no choice now, and no one would believe him if he said anything Bourne was too sly.

Not only was he powerful, but he was also smart.

Bourne was a tough opponent, and David had to be careful.

Bourne was still saying many righteous things to the tens of billions of ordinary people watching the live broadcast worldwide.

He said his life did not matter.

Everything he did was for the sake of all humanity. If everyone could continue to live, he would choose to sacrifice himself without hesitation.

David felt disgusted hearing that.

This old man was really shameless.

Was he not embarrassed when he said those things?

Who among these people at the scene would believe him?

He could only deceive ordinary people who did not understand the truth.

It was so difficult to meet someone of the same level as him, but the person turned out to be like this.

Bourne had embarrassed all partial Super-Gods.

It seemed that a partial Super-God was no different from ordinary people. When he was facing death, he would do anything to save himself.

Dignity was not important, his life was.

David ignored Bourne and turned to leave.

When he arrived at the Somerland's camp, Mason, the King family, and other major forces rushed to meet him.

"Haha! David, you rascal, you gave me a big surprise!" Mason patted David on the shoulder and laughed.

"Old Master Stefani, stop complimenting me. I'm still feeling guilty! I didn't tell you when I broke through and caused you to endure so much pressure and finally choose to sacrifice yourself for Somerland. If I was one step late today and it resulted in you dying here, I would not have a day of peace in my life," David said with a wry smile.

Fortunately, he arrived just in time and saved Mason.

Otherwise, it would be really hard for him to forgive himself.

An old man, who had put his life and death aside for so long and had given almost everything for Somerland, was nearly killed because of David's mistakes.

David felt like a selfish jerk.

"That's nothing! You were right to hide your strength. You need to leave a way out for yourself at any time. If I died, then so be it. It's no big deal. It's fine as long as Somerland could get through this. I didn't dare to die before, but now you have grown, I'll die smiling even if I die today," Mason said indifferently.

Mason had already accepted his life and death.

Although he had led Somerland to where it was step by step and Somerland had also become one of the two great empires in the world, Mason still did not dare to relax.

After all, Somerland's history was too weak.

Moreover, those hidden families and sects would not completely side with Somerland.

So, Somerland had always been dangerous.

If Mason collapsed, Somerland would also perish.

However, they did not have to worry now.

David had grown to this point, so Somerland would no longer be afraid of any forces.

Besides, David was still young.

He could shelter Somerland for at least a hundred more years.

Under the current wave of normal civilians learning martial arts, a hundred years was enough for Somerland to cultivate another batch of loyal and dependable elites to strengthen its foundation. "Old Master Stefani, don't say that. Somerland can't be without you. You are the spiritual pillar of everyone in Somerland, but in the future, leave the rough, tiring, and dirty work to me!"

After David finished speaking, he glanced at the Chris family and others in the distance.

"Okay! Haha! From now on, I will be relieved to have you here, but you can't relax, the catastrophe is not a joke, so you have to keep working hard." "Don't worry, Old Master Stefani. I understand," David replied.

David and Mason had a great time talking.

Several other major forces approached them, all wanting to introduce themselves to David.

After all, who did not want to have a good relationship with a peerless peak Super-God Ranker?

"Mr. David, you are so young and promising. You're such a role model for young people."

"Yeah, Mr. David, you have achieved such great things at such a young age. I truly admire you with everything I have."

“From now on, we will definitely take you as our only guide and fully support the development of Somerland. After all, we are also a part of Somerland.”

“Yes! We are also a part of Somerland.”

Delmont and Augustus wanted to go up to David to compliment him as well when they saw everyone going up to praise David.

However, when they remembered that David was Selena’s husband and the son-in-law of the King family, they felt that this was a little out of the norm since they were David’s elders.

Thus, they decided to forget it.

After they returned, they would ask Selena to invite David to the King family as a guest.

On the other side, Bourne continued talking for a while after seeing David turn away.

He had been watching David’s movements.

When he saw that David and Mason were together, and that they were seemingly not in a hurry to leave Dark Cape, he also returned to his camp.

However, the moment he turned, Bourne revealed a sinister smile.

At the same time, he already had a crazy plan in his mind.

Bourne returned to his camp soon after.

The seventy or eighty heavy-duty helicopters hovering in the air began to gather and descend slowly, approaching David and the others.

David, Mason, and some people from the major forces all raised their heads and looked at the heavy-duty helicopters approaching them from the sky. They were confused.

At this time, someone on the plane started shouting.

“Mr. Liddell, at the request of tens of billions of people worldwide watching the live broadcast, we need to take more footage of you, so I hope you don’t mind. Don’t be angry because everyone wants to take a closer look at what the number one person in the world looks like. You can just go on with your business. We’ll be leaving soon.”

David frowned.

He did not want to be famous, and he did not want to be in the limelight.

That was why he had always worn a silver mask.

However, he did not expect the mask to be taken off today.

As a result, he had to show his true face. Since this was the situation now, it was nearly impossible for him to continue hiding.

On the contrary, a cover-up would only make matters worse.

Therefore, he should just show his face boldly. It was not a big deal either, and it was not like he was scared to face others.

In the past, David’s strength had not reached its peak. Moreover, he was afraid that other people might find out about the system and capture him for research.

Now that he was already a partial Super – God, he was not afraid anymore

Therefore, David ignored them.

Now, tens of billions of people worldwide were observing David

At that moment, David had become the dream man of young girls yearning for love.

He was young, handsome, and powerful. Plus, he had a very prominent status.

No one in the world could compare to him.

Even some single and beautiful women in their thirties were moved by such a character, let alone young girls yearning for love

Lorraine and Goldie were among them.

Goldie blushed when she recalled the scene of David saving her at the grand event of the chosen ones.

Goldie felt she should have made the first move and asked David to take responsibility for her.

She had lived for 31 years, yet that was the first time a man had seen her body.

She would not allow it even if David were examining her.

She had to make David take responsibility.

David had no idea another woman had targeted him.

The two peerless powerhouses at partial Super-God Rank returned to their camps.

This matter was almost over.

After today, a wave of civilians practicing martial arts was bound to sweep over the world.

David's name would also resound worldwide and he would become an idol. By then, he would also be chased and worshiped by countless young people.

Just when everyone was ready to leave.

Chris Bourne looked at the dozen or so people gathered around David.

His eyes lit up slightly, and he raised his right hand.

Then, he placed it beside his mouth and quietly said two words.

"Do it."

At that moment, all seventy or eighty heavy-duty helicopters surrounding the air suddenly opened fire on David.

Bang bang bang bang bang!

Countless bullets and small shells rained down around and on David.

These bullets were not ordinary bullets. Instead, they were armor-piercing shells that were seven or eight centimeters long and could easily penetrate more than ten centimeters of steel.

Although partial Super-Gods had been tempered and were already much stronger than ordinary people, they still had not broken away from the mortal body.

Ordinary bullets might have limited damage to David, but these powerful armor-piercing bullets would cause irreversible damage to David once they hit him.

Besides armor-piercing bullets, there were also countless small-scale artillery shells. One should not look down on their power either.

Even if they were a God Rank guardian, they would be on the brink of death if this armor-piercing bullet hit them.

Of course, save for in sneak attacks, it would be almost impossible for such an attack to knock down a God Rank guardian.

First, a God Rank guardian's perception was very powerful, and they would have a certain ability to predict danger.

Second, a God Rank guardian was very fast.

They would be almost invisible to the naked eye of an ordinary person.

Without a full range of coverage in terms of firepower, it would be hard for the attack to hit a God Rank guardian.

However, the two most favorable conditions were fulfilled today.

The first was a sneak attack.

No one would have imagined that these heavy-duty helicopters with cameras broadcasting worldwide would suddenly fire at David.

The second was comprehensive fire coverage.

Seventy or eighty heavy-duty helicopters were firing with full force, and countless armor – piercing shells and small artillery shells were shooting at David's location one after another like they were free to use.

Almost all the soil within a radius of hundreds of meters around David was blown up dozens of times over.

The whole site was cloudy and dusty. It obscured David's location.

All the heavy-duty helicopters were still firing nonstop.

It seemed that they would not rest until all the ammunition was used up.

Everyone at the scene and the tens of billions of people worldwide watching the live broadcast were stunned by the sudden change.

Everyone watching the live broadcast covered their mouths and stared at the screen in shock.

More than ten seconds later, some people started to come back to their senses.

“M-Miss Selena! D-David ... He... He...” Celia asked in a trembling voice.

“Don’t... Don’t be afraid, C-Celia, David i-is strong... He... He’ll be fine,” Selena also answered with a trembling voice.

Although she was comforting Celia, her trembling voice betrayed her. David was not the only one who was attacked, the people from the King family were also affected.

Her father and grandfather were there!

“They will be fine.

They will definitely be fine.’

David was so strong, therefore he could surely protect Selena’s grandfather and father.

Selena comforted herself again and again.

However, tears still fell from her eyes.

As a martial artist, she knew that even her grandfather, a late God Ranker, might not survive this kind of sneak attack, let alone her father.

As for David, as long as he was still mortal, he would still die.

Julia’s mind was blank. She did not know how to face reality.
