Chapter 211 Who wanted to deal with her?

These off-roaders were relentlessly chasing after them.

The sound of engines filled Natalie's ears.

She wasn't unable to sit steadily due to the violent shaking of the car.

She could barely stabilize her body by holding onto the handle.

As the off-roaders approached, Natalie's heart almost jumped out of her throat.

She couldn't help but shout, "can you accelerate?"

Drops of sweats rolled down from Hugh's forehead, "I can't. It's the maximum speed."

-Acceleration was in vain.

These outlaws were driving off-roaders. It was completely impossible to compete with them on mountain roads.

"Make detours," said Natalie.

"Are you sure?" Hugh turned to look at her in disbelief.

"That's the only choice, hurry up!" said Natalie in a hurried tone, clearly determined.

But Hugh didn't do as she said, his eyebrows knotted together.

"They have three cars, it's difficult for us to make detours"

As long as any one of the three cars realized their intention, they would be directly caught to the point.

Then there was no chance of retaliation at all.

Natalie shook her head, "just listen to me."

Her tone was unusually firm.

Hugh couldn't help but take a final look at her.

Natalie gave him a positive look.

Hugh grasped the wheel and made a sharp turn.

Natalie fell to the ground under the huge impact.

One off-roader failed to dodge and crashed straight into the tree.

A loud noise came from behind.

Natalie turned around and saw that the front of the car was completely scrapped, and a fire was burning.

"Bravo!"

Seeing this scene, Hugh felt relaxed a bit.

But joy hadn't lasted long, the roar of engine came again.

"Their partner had a car accident! But they didn't even slow down and take a look!"

Natalie stared at the crazy cars; she could hear the beating of her heart.

Her heart beat so wildly that it almost popped out of her chest!

"We'd better jump out of the car," Hugh suddenly spoke.

"What did you say?" Natalie's eyes went as wide as saucers.

Jumping from a speeding car was courting death!

But Hugh didn't seem to hear her exclamation.

The speed had significantly slowed down.

"We can't do it, Hugh!" Natalie shouted.

Hugh held the wheel and, like before, deliberately slowed down and then suddenly made a sharp turn, bumping into one off-roader.

A violent force overturned the off-roader.

Bang!

Natalie was stunned by what she saw.

Hugh took a look at the rearview mirror and then pressed the accelerator again.

"You are really something, Hugh!" Natalie gave Hugh an admiring glance.

She was much relieved as there was only one car chasing after them.

"There's only one car left, " Natalie tilted her head to look at Hugh who was driving seriously, "you could make it, right?"

"I'm on it."

Hugh gave a curt reply.

The last off-roader behind was driving very wildly on the grounds of loss of two companions in succession.

Sparkles flew off from between the rugged road and tyres.

Natalie looked back as she pursed her lips.

Hugh was driving so fast that the car almost left the ground.

But he was not afraid at all.

He exuded an air of relaxed calm.

He had a fair chance since there was only one car left.

“They have lost their mind!” Hugh said.

“We can take advantage of it!” Natalie said hastily, a light bulb went on in her head.

Hugh understood what Natalie meant, the heavy stone resting on Hugh’s heart disappeared.

He spun the wheel and intentionally made several sharp turns to infuriate the off roader behind him.

Sure enough, the off roader started to rampage on the road.

“Now!” shouted Natalie.

Hugh seized the right moment and repeated his old tricks.

The off-road vehicle crashed into a tree again.

Bang!

“That’s great!” Natalie’s heart, which had been tense for a long time, finally returned to its normal state.

Hugh continued to drive at top speed, throwing the cars behind.

Seeing that they were finally safe, Natalie rubbed her chest and said, “I thought we were really going to jump out of the car. It scared me to death...”

“How could that be? I’m not stupid.”

Hugh teased.

The tense atmosphere in the car finally dissipated.

Hugh drove all the way back to Greenlife Villa.

It wasn't until Natalie got off that she realized how severely the car was damaged.

The car's paintwork was badly scratched, the tyres were severely worn and the back of the car was also shattered by the severe collision.

Natalie sighed with profound resignation.

This car was a total wreck.

She must buy a new one tomorrow.

Tory waited at home all day before finally hearing a sound coming from the door.

He hurried out of the door and saw the car parking at the door was total battered.

"What happened, Nana?" Tory's eyes widened in disbelief.

"Did you have a car accident?!"

Tory pulled Natalie over and carefully checked her from head to toe.

Natalie was amused by his nervous expression, "No, how could that be."

'It's best not to let Uncle Tory know about today's matter, otherwise he would be extremely worried,' Natalie wondered.

"Hugh isn't a good driver, that's it."

Natalie made Hugh a scapegoat without hesitation.

A bad driver?

Tory shot Hugh an anger glance.

"Why are you still keeping him as your bodyguard?"

Natalie pushed Tory into the room and said, "it's just an accident. Hugh's driving skills are actually quite good. Don't you worry, uncle."

After finally pushing Tory into the room to sleep, Natalie sat down on the sofa, lost in her thought.

She carefully reflected on today's experience, who was it that wanted to attack her?

Was her identity exposed?

No, it was impossible.

Natalie pictured some possible foes in mind, but she was still uncertain about it.

Since that group of people didn't succeed today, she wasn't sure if they would make a comeback.

Sitting on the sofa and looked out the window at the almost abandoned car, Natalie's thoughts wandered back to before.

Jaxton returned to boxing club.

Following closely behind was a group of tried brothers.

"This woman is so difficult to deal with!" Jaxton thumped the table with his hand, and hatred surged in his eyes.

One guy behind spat out a mouthful of blood and said, "what are we gonna do?"

"Well..." Jaxton wiped the blood off his fist.

"Catch her! Or Roger will kill us all!" Jaxton said coldly.

"Print out the woman's photo, go and get back-up from Roger. We must find her!"

After Jaxton's words fell, his subordinates who had just had a narrow escape started searching the city for Natalie again.

In order to catch her as soon as possible, Jaxton did not go home, but slept for a few hours in the boxing club.

Suddenly, a person rushed in.

“Boss, latest news!”

Chen Jing immediately opened his eyes and said, “Really

He stood up straight, quickly picked up his clothes, put them on, and walked

Chapter 212 the unreliable Roger

Niki sat beside the table. Plates of delicious food were placed in front of her, but she had no appetite at all.

She kept shaking her chopsticks in her hand in anxiety.

Roger hadn't contact her yet.

One day had passed, was it possible that he failed to catch Natalie?

Gina walked over. Seeing that Niki was absent-minded, she cautiously asked, “Miss. Linch, is this meal not to your liking?”

Niki wasn't in the mood to eat. She gave Gina a careless glance and turned around in silence.

Out of sheer boredom she casually turned on the TV and watched the news.

The voice of the host on the TV came, “Tomorrow, Tory Spears from the Spears Family will hold a medical conference in the west of Los Angeles.”

“We'd welcome all citizens, especially those with heart diseases. Don't let the precious opportunity slip through your fingers.”

“You will have the opportunity to receive Mr. Spears's personal diagnosis and treatment, which is definitely a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity...”

The host's voice continued.

Niki's originally gloomy face suddenly lit up.

Dr. Spears would be in the west of Los Angeles tomorrow?

Natalie must come as she was always itching to warm up to him!

It was a marvelous opportunity!

Niki quickly took out her phone and dialed Roger's phone number.

The phone was quickly connected.

She came straight to the point, "did you catch her?"

Roger's tone was heavy with curiosity, "Catch who?"

Upon hearing this, Niki suddenly stood up. Was Roger playing tricks on her?!

"I asked you to kidnap Natalie yesterday! Have you forgot that?"

Roger finally realized it.

He smiled and said, "Of course not. I remember it."

"How could I forget what you told me, little princess."

Roger's greasy tone disgusted Niki, "then did you get her?"

She had been waiting for his call!

Roger scratched his head and said, "I don't know either."

He hadn't contacted Jaxton after handing over the task to him.

"Don't worry, little beauty. I have already sent out my subordinates to find Natalie and there will definitely be news today," Roger was quite confident.

Niki rolled her eyes as she listened to Roger's 'declaration'.

He didn't seem to grind for this!

She needed to handle this matter herself.

Roger was completely unreliable.

Niki pinched her knuckles, saying, "bring her to me as soon as possible, otherwise the agreement is off."

Then she hung up the phone directly before Roger could reply.

She put her phone aside, got up and went to her bedroom.

She put on a very low-key black pullover and then wore a black mask.

As if feeling it wasn't enough, she dived into her wardrobe, took out a black hat and put it on.

She looked at herself in the mirror, tightly wrapped, nodded with satisfaction.

Since Roger was unreliable, she must do it her own.

"Miss. Linch, you almost fell ill yesterday. You'd better stay at home!" Gina said from behind.

Niki walked out expressionlessly without even turning around.

Gina looked at her back and sighed. Mr. Graham had told her to take good care of Miss. Linch, but she couldn't stop her at all!

In a luxury hotel.

Lying in bed, Roger looked at his phone with a mysterious smile on his face.

Was his little beauty angry?

He lifted the blanket and got out of bed.

"Hey..." a melodious call came from behind.

"Why did you lift the blanket, Roger? I'm all naked," a beauty said as she lay on the bed.

The blanket was lifted partway, revealing a large area of her skin. Her slightly narrowed eyes were truly

captivating

Roger cast a glance at her and then turned back.

Completely ignoring the beauty's flirtatious eyes.

"Get dressed and you can go," he said coldly.

Then he opened the door and left.

The beauty wrapped herself in her blanket, "how could you treat me like this..."

Roger headed straight to the boxing club and happened to encounter Jaxton, who was just about to leave.

He grabbed Jaxton by the collar and said, “where is she? Did you find her?”

“No...” Jaxton stammered.

The next second, Roger smashed his fist on Jaxton’s face.

“I told you that woman is not easy to cope with. Are you deaf?”

Jaxton dared not retort, “I brought three cars of people with me. Who knows that woman has such good driving skills, that’s why she escaped...”

As Jaxton spoke, what had happened last night emerged before him: two of his brothers had been sent to hospital due to massive bleeding.

He must teach that *itch a lesson.

“I promise I would bring her to you!” Jaxton’s eyes were filled with burning hatred.

Roger landed a blow on his nose mercilessly, “if you fail, don’t let me see you again.”

“Mr. Ward.”

A woman’s voice came from behind.

Roger turned his head and saw a person who was all black and only eyes could be seen.

“Who are you?” The man’s eyes seemed a bit familiar to him.

“You don’t know me?” said Niki as she walked up to Roger.

“You... You’re little beauty?!” Roger said with glee.

“How do you know I’m here?”

Niki pursed her lips.

She had launched an investigation into Roger before.

Although she wasn’t able to inquire about any information about him.

But she could still obtain some information about his subordinates. She knew where she could find them..

She was always well prepared before battles.

GetByO

Roger looked at her with a hint of exploration in his tone, “why don’t you answer my question, little beauty?”

“You’re following me?”

Niki looked up at him and said, “Mr. Ward is really good at joking. How can I have the ability to follow you?”

She came today to find Roger’s subordinates, but she didn’t expect Roger to be here too.

“You’re a prominent figure in Los Angeles, following you is not a good choice.”

She didn’t want to waste her time in talking to him.

At this moment, there was only one thought in her heart: make Natalie pay the price.

I

Niki smiled at Roger; her tone softened a bit. “I’m just afraid you might forget our agreement, so I came here to remind you.”

The word ‘agreement’ was specially emphasized.

Roger got Niki’s hidden meaning.

He pulled Niki over to Jaxton and said, “she ordered to kidnap the woman in the photo.”

“She came here personally to urge us to complete the task, so you must go all out.”

“Or how are we gonna make you happy, right?” Roger reached out and rubbed Niki’s chin.

Niki raised her head and knocked off his hand right away.

She found Roger’s tone quite sinister.

Jaxton knew Roger well since he had been working for Roger for so long, he could tell from Roger’s behavior that Roger liked this masked woman very much.

He hurried to show his loyalty, “we will complete the task, I promise!”

After saying this, he sneaked a look at the tightly wrapped person in front of him.

But he could see nothing..

If it weren't for Roger calling her 'little beauty', he wouldn't even know her gender.

Looking up and down, he only noticed that she was wearing a talisman with a 'N' character on it, looking valuable.

"Tomorrow the Spears Family will hold a treatment meeting in the west of Los Angeles. You go there and catch her," Niki said.

Jaxton looked up.

He had already got the news and planned to set off today.

But since the woman asked him to take action tomorrow, fine. Let his brothers take a day off, conserve their energy and prepare to avenge his brother's injure!

Chapter 213 Mistaken Identity? Niki Gets Kidnapped

The next morning, Natalie woke up as usual.

Stepping out of her chamber, she caught sight of Tory, impeccably attired, seated at the dining table partaking in breakfast.

"Uncle, why are you up so early today?" Natalie's tone betrayed her surprise.

Never before had her uncle risen at such an early hour.

"Is something the matter?"

Tory turned his head, his gaze meeting Natalie's.

"I am organizing a medical clinic in the western part of the city today. Would you like to join me?"

"A medical clinic?" Natalie was taken aback.

"This time, my purpose in coming was to find cases. It seemed rather bothersome to pursue it alone, so why not host a clinic to initiate the process?"

"I see," Natalie nodded in agreement, pulling out a chair and settling herself.

Undoubtedly, it was a splendid approach indeed.

However, her car was almost totaled in the previous chase, and today she had planned to go see about a new one.

Just as she was about to decline, the nanny brought breakfast over. "Breakfast is ready. Miss and Mister, please enjoy your meal," she said.

Natalie nodded in gratitude, and Tory also took his breakfast, lowering his head to eat.

"Have you prepared the venue?" Natalie looked up and asked Tory.

"Everything is ready," Tory replied promptly without lifting his head.

Natalie nodded and took a bite of her breakfast, casually asking, "How spacious is the venue?"

Tory pondered for a moment and replied, "Well... it's quite large. We've secured the Swan family's property for the clinic."

"The Swan family's property?" Natalie was taken aback.

The Swan family's property, and in the western part of the city?

That piece of land was highly sought after, and countless people in Los Angeles yearned for it but couldn't obtain it.

"How did you manage to acquire that property?"

Tory chuckled and said, "Of course, I couldn't have done it myself. It was all thanks to that lad Ryan."

"Ryan?"

Get P

Natalie's eyelashes quivered, a sense of helplessness washing over her. "Why did you seek Ryan's help.

Natalie's

instead of mine for this clinic?"

“In fact, Ryan knew about the clinic even before I did,” Tory explained.

“Am I your niece, or is Ryan your niece?”

Tory laughed. “Don’t blame me, my dear. Am I someone who lacks discretion?”

“Ryan insisted on helping me. He had already secured the venue before I even asked. I couldn’t refuse, could

Natalie was left speechless.

Given Ryan’s enthusiastic nature, it was plausible for him to accomplish such a feat.

“So, Ryan also helped prepare the venue?”

Natalie asked, to which Tory nodded in confirmation.

Natalie sighed. Ryan had outsmarted her and turned to her uncle for assistance.

The Swan family’s property wasn’t something one could easily acquire, yet Ryan had effortlessly obtained it...

Natalie’s eyelashes trembled.

She recalled the sight of Ryan at the Swan residence—it could be considered a coincidence at the time, but now there were too many coincidences. Ryan’s identity surely wasn’t ordinary.

She pondered deeply.

Lost in thought, Tory suddenly set aside his chopsticks and stood up, heading towards the exit. “It’s about time for me to leave,” he said.

“I’ll come along.”

Natalie changed her mind.

If Ryan had played such a significant role in her uncle’s clinic, she had to see it for herself.

Natalie and Tory arrived at the venue together.

The venue was spacious, with various facilities and even several doctors on duty.

The crowd was bustling, and many patients had already arrived.

Of course, there were also many people who came specifically to see doctors from the Spears family, drawn by their reputation.

Natalie scanned the surroundings, seeing so many patients... among them were young and elderly, suffering and heartbroken, all bearing the burden of pain without exception.

She had seen desperate patients before, but she had never witnessed so many of them gathered together.

Natalie even felt as though the entire facility was enveloped in the torment of pain, creating an unusually heavy atmosphere.

Without any hesitation, she also put on a white coat with Tory and wore a mask, diving into the consultation.

Meanwhile...

Niki was wearing a jet-black coat with a thin cashmere scarf around her neck, her face adorned with exquisite makeup as she entered the medical clinic.

As soon as she walked in, she frowned.

The surroundings were bustling with people, all dressed casually, some even looking unkempt. The entire venue carried an air of poverty and illness, causing Niki to furrow her brow in disapproval.

She pinched her nose with disdain, took a deep breath, and repeatedly reminded herself that she was here to seek revenge on Natalie.

In her mind, she silently repeated that she had to endure all of this to make Natalie pay the price.

Niki suppressed her aversion and began searching for the presence of Natalie and Tory.

She wasn't entirely certain if Natalie would be there today, so her gaze eagerly scanned the row of attending doctors, afraid of missing anyone.

Dr. Spears, being the most important figure today, should have a prominent position, right?

With this thought, Niki looked around but didn't see any doctors occupying a special spot.

All the doctors were dressed alike, in the same positions, without anything distinctive.

This troubled Niki.

She hadn't bothered to thoroughly examine the information about this medical event before coming, so she had no idea about Tory's specific location. In such a large venue, it would take who knows how long to search blindly.

After hesitating for a moment, she twiddled her fingers, grabbed the corner of the clothing of a decently dressed girl, and said, "Excuse me, do you know where Dr. Spears from Kyoto is stationed for consultations?"

"Dr. Spears?" The girl immediately pointed southeast and said, "The busiest area over there is where Dr.

Spears conducts consultations."

Niki felt delighted. She quickly wiped her hands and didn't even say thank you, directly heading towards the direction the girl pointed to.

Before she reached there, she was startled by the massive crowd. Were there really so many people surrounding Dr. Spears?

She gritted her teeth and decided to proceed, but she collided with an elderly patient head-on. Perhaps due to poor eyesight, the patient stumbled towards Niki's direction.

When Niki saw the approaching person, it was as if she had encountered a ferocious beast. She quickly moved to the side, fearing that the elderly person might dirty her clothes.

This action did manage to evade the elderly person, but unfortunately, the woman behind her stepped on Niki's foot, causing a painful sensation.

“Do you not watch where you’re going? Do you have any idea how expensive my shoes are?” Niki’s tone rose, and she was already annoyed, which made her quite angry at the moment.

This reproach attracted the attention of people around her.

Jaxton Cruz was among the crowd at the moment. He and his group of friends were searching for the woman in the photo.

As a working-class person, he actually harbored a strong aversion towards arrogant and condescending wealthy individuals. Therefore, he instinctively frowned and was also drawn by the woman’s scolding voice.

He looked towards the source of the sound. The woman was wearing a coat, fair-skinned with a beautiful face, clearly indicating a good upbringing.

Wait a minute?

This person seems to be the woman in the photo?!

Jaxton squinted his eyes and carefully observed. The woman frowned, radiating impatience and an air of haughtiness.

Although she didn’t quite resemble the elegant demeanor in the photo, her face did bear a striking resemblance.

To confirm once again, Jaxton took out his phone and pulled up that photo. The lighting in the picture was dim, and although the woman’s face wasn’t very clear, it was still discernible.

Yes! It’s this woman!

A cold, sinister smile crept onto Jaxton’s face. He was already displeased with such an arrogant and haughty wealthy person, and now he could teach her a good lesson.

He could even help his two friends get their revenge while he was at it.

Jaxton almost immediately started walking towards Niki’s direction.

Chapter 214 Revenge Backfires and Gets Caught

The woman who accidentally bumped into Niki had an anxious expression, her lips trembling. She hurriedly lowered her head and repeatedly apologized.

“I’m sorry, I’m sorry,” the woman’s tone was flustered.

She looked down at the woman’s shoes, although she didn’t know the brand, they certainly looked expensive.

Observing the woman’s attire, she was certain that she couldn’t afford any compensation.

The woman could only continue apologizing incessantly.”

Niki, looking at the woman almost groveling, initially wanted to scold her some more, but when she glanced at the surrounding people’s gazes, she pursed her lips.

Forget it, let’s focus on the task at hand.

“Next time, pay more attention while walking. If it weren’t for encountering someone as kind-hearted as me, you wouldn’t even know how much you would have to compensate!” Niki said.

“Yes, yes, you’re beautiful and kind,” the woman quickly thanked her.

As if that wasn’t enough, she apologized once again, “I’m really sorry!”

Niki arrogantly glanced at the woman, then turned and walked away.

She looked at the crowded group of people ahead, unable to squeeze in at all.

Even if she could squeeze in, her clothes would be completely ruined being in the midst of these poor people.

She might even pick up their lowly, impoverished aura on her body.

She definitely didn’t want that.

Since she couldn’t enter, Niki frowned and casually glanced to the left and right sides of the crowd.

On the right side of the crowd, there was a slightly smaller area with two tables set up inside.

In front of the table, there was a female doctor wearing a white coat and a face mask. Her long hair was tied up, with a few strands of loose hair falling on her forehead.

She was bending over, listening to the patient sitting in the chair.

Not knowing what the patient said, the woman furrowed her brows slightly, her expression becoming serious.

Natalie!

Niki clenched her teeth, hatred and excitement surging in her eyes.

Even though the woman was wearing a mask, she could still recognize her among the crowd.

Natalie, she would recognize her even if she turned into ashes.

Get Bog

The woman continued attentively listening to the patient while holding a stethoscope against their chest.

“Grandma, apart from feeling pain in your legs, have you recently felt any discomfort in your heart?” the doctor asked.

“What?” the patient looked puzzled, apparently not hearing clearly what Natalie had just said.

“I’m asking if you’ve been feeling any discomfort in your heart recently,” Natalie raised her voice.

“Head?” Grandma clearly had poor hearing.

“I’m talking about your heart-” Natalie raised her voice once again, almost shouting.

Fortunately, this time Grandma finally heard clearly.

“Heart? I have been feeling a bit uncomfortable,” the patient touched her chest. Yesterday, while I was sleeping, I felt some tightness in my chest.”

“Mhm,” Natalie nodded, taking off the stethoscope.

She made notes on paper while giving instructions to the patient.

“Preliminary diagnosis suggests that you have some heart issues, but the specific problem needs to be confirmed through machine testing.”

“In a while, you’ll get up, turn left, and keep walking straight. There’s a place there for heart testing. Go there for the examination, and then bring the form back to me.”

After finishing her long explanation, Natalie looked up.

She saw the patient looking at her with a confused expression

It seems that she cannot understand her words.

Natalie slapped her forehead; she forgot that Grandma couldn’t hear well.

She needed to repeat herself.

She put down the pen in her hand, intending to speak louder, but then hesitated and closed her mouth.

At her advanced age, and with no children accompanying her, Grandma probably wouldn’t be able to find the place...

Maybe she should personally accompany Grandma there, so she could be reassured.

Natalie thought this and glanced behind Grandma.

Niki’s heart raced when she saw Natalie looking in her direction.

She felt flustered and immediately disregarded the cleanliness or poverty of the people around her.

She hurriedly tried to blend into the crowd, desperately avoiding being noticed by Natalie.

Natalie didn’t notice the commotion on Niki’s side. She looked behind Grandma and only saw one relatively young patient.

After finishing the consultation with the last patient, she could take Grandma for testing.

“Grandma, please wait for a moment,” Natalie thought it through and raised her voice, afraid that the elderly woman wouldn’t hear again.

This time the patient heard her words and nodded.

Jaxton walked through the crowd, which was too dense and filled with patients. He couldn't push through the crowd, so he had to go with the flow and walk slowly.

His gaze was fixated anxiously on the woman in the black coat, afraid she would escape right under his nose.

Huh? Where did she go?

Jaxton rubbed his eyes. He had just seen that woman standing there, staring motionlessly at the doctor.

How did she disappear in the blink of an eye?

He turned his head to look around, but there was no one to be seen.

Did he just lose the person he had in his hands? He couldn't allow that.

--+

The man immediately took out his phone and said, "We have found the woman, wearing a black coat with a scarf around her neck."

"Everyone, focus on the search. Report immediately if there is any information. We must not let her escape again!"

After saying these words, he put down his phone and continued searching relentlessly, without a moment's pause.

On Natalie's side, she had finished examining the last patient.

She stood up and supported her grandmother, saying, "Grandma, we can go now. Watch your step."

"Okay, thank you so much," replied her grandmother. One hand supporting Natalie and the other holding a cane.

Natalie's tone was gentle as she said, "No need to thank me. It's what I should do."

Because there were too many people, she tried to walk on the outer side to prevent the elderly from being pushed down by others.

Niki had been hiding in the crowd until she saw Natalie helping the patients and leaving. She immediately followed her.

Once they reached a less crowded area, she could call someone over to capture Natalie directly.

Niki smirked and walked step by step behind Natalie.

"My own son doesn't even care about me at home..." The patient felt Natalie's deliberate protection, afraid that she might fall. Her tone was sorrowful. "Thank you so much."

Natalie looked at the old woman's appearance, pursed her lips, and didn't say anything, but her expression was somewhat complex.

Her movements became even more cautious.

Like this, the old and the young supported each other, taking slow steps.

This is it!

Niki followed closely behind Natalie until they reached a less crowded place. She looked around and found hardly anyone, a perfect place to take action.

It was time to teach Natalie a lesson.

Niki lowered her head to take out her phone and call Jaxton.

However, before she could even take out her phone, she suddenly felt her mouth being covered, and in an instant, she couldn't even breathe.

"Mmm!" Niki struggled desperately.

But the person holding her from behind was too strong, no matter how much she struggled, she couldn't break free.

The man's actions became rougher and rougher. Niki's mouth was tightly gagged with a towel, and she couldn't make a sound.

She started to panic, and in her desperation, she extended her foot in high heels to stomp on the man.

The man had been focused on the woman's head, but suddenly his foot was struck by a sharp object, and a piercing pain surged through him.

How dare this woman stomp on him??

The man's gaze became even more fierce. He firmly gripped the woman's chin, and due to his force, Niki's delicate skin instantly turned red.

Feeling unsatisfied, the man immediately grabbed Niki's hair and forcefully dragged her into the alley.

Chapter 215 You Are Really Dirty

Natalie walked ahead, earnestly supporting the old lady. As she was about to go up the stairs, she suddenly heard something coming from behind.

Is there a shout?

What's going on?

She quickly twisted her eyebrows and looked backwards.

But there was only a man passing by behind her, with a medical record in his hand and looked hurried.

Obviously, he was about to go for a follow-up visit.

Did she mishear?

"Doctor, what's the matter?" Seeing that Natalie stop moving forward, the old lady asked.

Natalie regained her composure and shook her head. She smiled and said, "Nothing, let's go in."

The old lady nodded and walked forward with a cane.

But Natalie still felt strange in her mind, always feeling that something was not quite right.

She took a final look back and saw that the man had already left, and now there was no one behind her.

Only occasional gusts of cold wind pass through, carrying a few dry fallen leaves.

Did she really mishear?

Without thinking deeper, Natalie helped the old lady slowly up the steps before entering the room.

At the same time.

Niki was tightly tugged at by the man behind her, and her scalp tingled with pain.

She had to desperately tilt her neck back in order to alleviate the pain on her head.

“Let go of me – “Niki wanted to shout, but the sound of shouting turned into one whimper after another.

“Wuwu Wuwu –

The man was fretted by her howling and felt impatient. And He took a bag from his pocket to shroud Niki’s face.

His movements were very rude.

Grasping her head while opening the bag, he said, “Shut up!”

“You are so noisy! One more word, you will die!”

With her head in the bag, Niki couldn’t see anything. She could only make a “wuwuwu” sound to express her fear.

Seeing that she finally calmed down, the man dragged her into the alley.

In the alley, Jaxton had already parked his car. Sitting beside, he ground his knife and waited for Niki’s arrival.

Niki was dragged forward with her hair in the man's hand, and she was already numb for the pain on her head.

Perhaps there was too much fear in her heart, and she desperately wanted to get rid of it, so she couldn't help shouting for help.

She gripped the man's hand and desperately stretched forward, emitting even more mournful cries from her mouth.

"How dare you shout?"

The man completely lost his patience and just kicked Niki's belly

The woman snorted and knelt down.

"Yo, finally here?"

Seeing his subordinate dragging the woman's hair towards him, Jaxton's mouth lit up with a wicked smile.

He put down the knife he was polishing and jumped out of the car.

"Boss, I have already caught her."

The man dragged Niki, who had completely be silent, to Jaxton.

"Okay. "Jaxton nodded, clearly in a good mood." Let go of her, you will be rewarded."

"Thanks!" The man smiled as he heard the reward.

Niki's tightly held hair was finally released, but perhaps due to the long struggle, she no longer had the strength to resist.

Jaxton looked at the woman on the ground.

Her clothes were already covered in mud, and her scarf fell to nowhere due to struggle.

Even there was a big footprint on her clothes, which showed she had been kicked by someone.

“You are really dirty.”

Standing upright, Jaxton looking down at the woman who knelt on the ground, slowly spat out these four words.

She was how many times dirtier than those poor people.

Really dirty?

Niki's head was covered and her mouth was blocked by a towel, but she clearly heard the sentence, “You are really dirty.”

She gritted her teeth and tears welled up in her eyes.

Jaxton looked at the woman kneeling on the ground, with no expression on his face.

“Boss, what about this? Why not avenge for our brothers now?”

A sound came from around.

Jaxton touched the tip of the knife in his hand.

The blade was sharp and even shone brightly in the sunlight.

Although he wanted to do it now, he was sane and knew that this was not a right place to do it.

“Take her into the car.”

“Yes!”

Niki was taken into the car.

But she obviously didn't want to give up yet. Just as she was thrown onto the car and it had just started, she began to struggle again.

Jaxton directly stretched his hand in front of her chest to prevent her from struggling again.

Niki wanted to bite him, but her mouth was blocked so she couldn't do it at all.

Helplessly, she suddenly had an idea.

Without any hesitation, after she stretched her arm to reach the high heels on her feet and took them off, she poked the man directly on the face.

She's going to blind this man's eyes!

Jaxton had been fighting with people all year round, and Niki's small discretion was clear to him.

His head just tilted slightly, then woman's high heels completely missed the target.

And immediately, he turned back and grabbed the high heels from the woman's hand.

Niki felt painful.

And before she could react, her high heels were already in the hands of the man.

Jaxton grabbed the woman's chin and pressed the thin heel of the high heels on her face. "It's said that these shoes are very expensive."

"And how expensive is it?"

Jaxton's eyes were fierce, and his tone was full of strong sarcasm.

"Which one is more expensive, your face or your shoes?" Jaxton implied.

With a layer of cloth, Niki could clearly feel the heel pressing against her face, as if it was about to thrust fiercely into her skin the next second.

"No, no -"

Niki was afraid.

However, Jaxton ignored Niki's struggle, grabbing her head and patting her face with high heels.

You're so dirty that you don't deserve to wear such expensive shoes, understand?"

The high heels really poked into her face, and Niki could even feel the blood flowing down.

“No, no

That’s her face—

the most precious thing in her whole body cannot be destroyed like this!

Niki’s tears fell down mixed with blood, and she instantly collapsed.

Looking at the woman’s appearance, Jaxton curled his lips and smiled, “Aren’t you very arrogant?”

“Why not continue to be arrogant?”

Niki remained motionless, no longer struggling, and no longer responding.

Jaxton said a few more words, but Niki didn’t answer again.

He felt bored and lost interest.

The man opened the window and threw the high-heel shoe out directly.

The car gradually drifted away towards an unknown place.

Natalie had already examined the old well. And as her expected, the old lady had a big problem on her heart.

Without any hesitation, she immediately arranged a surgery for the old lady few days later.

After everything was arranged, she walked out of the room.

How’s the condition like in uncle’s side? With so many patients on his side, maybe he is so busy?

Natalie shook her head.

She still needed to help him share the burden, otherwise uncle may not be able to eat lunch today.

She walked towards the diagnosis and treatment location.

Halfway down the road, she saw... a high-heeled shoe at the edge of the road?

Natalie rubbed her eyes.

A high-heeled shoe? Did she see it correctly?

She approached and looked, and it was really a high-heeled shoe. It was even a limited edition of a famous international brand?

How could it be here?

Natalie looked around and found no one.

Is it someone who didn't want it anymore, so they threw it away? This man's manner is so bad, isn't it?

Natalie frowned and shook her head in disgust.
