

After the Divorce, CEO Realizes He's the Stand-In Lover By Madison King

Chapter 51 Doctor Nancy

Natalie looked at Julian's departure with a complex expression, then shook her head and followed him into the banquet hall.

She really didn't know what Julian was thinking. Even when the divorce agreement was delivered to him, he didn't sign it immediately.

However, before she could enter the banquet hall, he suddenly stopped in front of her.

Natalie subconsciously looked up at Julian's eyes, which were full of emotions.

Did he repent? Natalie felt inexplicable relief.

Julian's shirt collar was slightly open, and he spoke lightly. "There's no need to mention the divorce to my grandfather later. I've already told him."

"Have you already made it clear?"

Julian let out a expressionless yes. He didn't want Natalie to have too much contact with anyone in the Graham family anymore, nor did he want to leave too much memory for her.

"Okay."

Since Julian had already made it clear, she no longer needed to consider how to explain that to Grandpa

Graham.

"After the banquet, please sign the divorce agreement as soon as possible," Natalie reminded him gently.

From the day Niki returned, she made up her mind and to this day, it had been too long.

A hint of impatience flashed on Julian's face, as she pretended to be eager for divorce even though she didn't really want it. She was quite proficient in the technique of playing hard to get.

He let out a low hum in his throat.

They returned to the magnificent banquet hall one after another. Julian's identity and appearance undoubtedly meant that he was the focus of the banquet. As soon as they entered, they were surrounded.

People in fancy clothes gathered around Julian to flatter him, while he skillfully replied with a glass of wine in his hand.

The hall had a magnificent cloister, decorated with gold foil, showcasing the grandeur of the banquet, but

Natalie only found it boring.

Compared to Julian standing at the center of the crowd, she seemed to be left out.

She knew very well that the praise of the so-called perfect match she had just heard when coming down the stairs was only for the sake of Grandpa Graham.

Everyone in Los Angeles knew that she was just a double, and many women wanted to be Julian's wife and see her abandoned by Julian.

But she didn't care at all. It was just human nature.

Natalie lacked interest and looked at the smiling crowd in the luxurious hall. After all, Grandpa Graham had just recovered from a serious illness and was still very weak. After chatting with a few acquaintances, he went upstairs, leaving only Linda sitting among a group of noblewomen laughing and chatting.

Natalie obviously didn't want to walk over and chat with them, so she found a seat and sat down.

Julian was talking to someone when his assistant suddenly trotted through the crowd, panting and running to him.

Julian's face remained unchanged and he tilted his head slightly. "What's the matter?"

The assistant calmed down for a moment and gasped for breath, "Mr. Seth is here to talk to you about something important."

Julian's eyes sank, and he restrained his expression and politely gestured to the person opposite, "Excuse me."

"Where is he?" Julian walked out of the crowd with a slightly larger stride, and his assistant had to jog to keep up.

"He didn't say anything." He forgot to ask in a moment of anxiety.

Julian glanced coldly at him and took out his phone as he walked to call Dylan.

Natalie only saw Julian's hurried back as she sat in her seat.

'Where is Julian going? He hasn't signed yet! Why did you just leave like this?!"

She stood up and wanted to keep up with Julian, but before she arrived at the entrance, the car had already driven away.

The assistant was driving and saw Natalie standing at the entrance in the rearview mirror. He slowed down and spoke in a deliberate tone, "Mr. Graham, Miss Spears is still standing at the door. Maybe she has something to tell you."

Julian didn't turn back when he heard this. His face was cold and he frowned, "Speed up."

There was clearly only boredom in his eyes.

The assistant pursed his lips and finally glanced at Natalie before adding gas.

Mr. Graham clearly didn't want to talk to Natalie, and he didn't need to mention too much to make him angry. It seemed that he had to please Niki well in the future.

Natalie frowned as Julian's car swept away. How important was it for Julian to leave without saying a word?

She even couldn't figure out what the man was thinking. Anyway, the divorce agreement had already been given to Julian, so she didn't need to worry any more.

Since she had already come out, she definitely didn't want to go back, planning to go straight home.

She subconsciously opened her phone to tell Linda. The information had already been edited before she realized it and deleted the text.

At the moment when she handed over the divorce agreement to Julian, in her heart, they had already officially divorced, which meant that there was no further connection between them, and she didn't need to tell Linda anymore.

Natalie put her phone back into her bag and calmly sat in the car, driving away.

Inside the villa, Julian sat on the sofa and Dylan handed him a glass of water.

"Has there been any news about Nancy?" Julian went straight to the point.

Dylan smiled and spoke with obvious pride, "Sure. Is there any news in Los Angeles that I can't inquire about?"

Upon hearing this, Julian narrowed his eyes and leaned back on the sofa, lazily crossing his legs. His elbow was placed on the leopard carved armrest, "Go ahead."

"I have verified the information in the forum that day and also found the poster who posted that post. With multiple verification, Nancy is indeed Glory Group's PhD."

Julian nodded, gesturing for him to continue.

"These days, I unexpectedly found that Doctor Nancy was not only the doctor who developed that drug, but also the second largest shareholder of Glory Group."

Dylan picked up his tea cup and took a sip of tea. "When I heard this news, I was shocked. I didn't expect that she would still be the second largest shareholder of Glory Group! This means that if you want to obtain authorization for New Bleomycin Drug, you don't need to go find Philip."

"Just find this Doctor Nancy, who is both the major shareholder and the developer of this drug, much more effective than finding Philip."

Julian's previously cold face inevitably developed other emotions upon hearing this news.

“Where is Doctor Nancy?” Julian raised his eyes and suddenly remembered this question.

Even if they knew that the drug was developed by her, if they didn’t know her location or any contact information, the information would be of no use.

Dylan smiled and said, “Of course. Can I, as a lawyer, not consider these issues?”

He turned around and took out a stack of photos from the room. “Take a look. This is a specially built laboratory built by Philip. The address is very hidden, but I had a lot of trouble finding it.”

“Doctor Nancy is conducting experiments inside.”

Julian picked up the photos, which clearly showed the back of the woman who was exactly the same as the one in the post.

He handed Dylan an appreciative expression.

The news provided by Dylan today meant that the problems he had been facing these days could be solved immediately. The pressure was finally loosened, and he was not as breathless as before.

Next, all he needed to do was find this Doctor Nancy.

Chapter 52 Would Henry be sad?

“Oh, by the way, this laboratory has just been built, and Doctor Nancy has not been to the laboratory a few times so far. But I bribe the people in the laboratory and they tell me that starting tomorrow, Nancy will go to the laboratory every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday to carry out research and development work.”

Julian lowered his legs and sat up from the sofa, nodding to show understanding.

“Alright, that’s all I know. I’ve told it all to you,” Dylan said, taking another sip of tea. “Helping you find this news has exhausted me.”

Julian pulled a smile from the corner of his mouth and said, “I’ll treat you to dinner when I solve these problems.”

“Or you can bring up anything you want.”

Dylan sat on the sofa and said, “Don’t wait to solve these problems. Buy me a drink tonight.”

”

“We haven’t had a drink together for a long time. You’re either busy with work or not in the mood. We all miss you very much.”

Julian pursed his lips upon hearing the words and said, “I can’t tonight. I’ve left guests to come here and I have to go back.”

Grandpa Graham had just recovered from a serious illness, and he was still weak. As the host of the Graham family, he had to preside over this banquet.

With Natalie’s entangled nature, she was likely still waiting at the entrance. Although he didn’t like Natalie, his innate cultivation told him that he couldn’t let her stay alone.

Julian stood up and said, “After today, I will accompany you whenever you want to drink.”

“Were you at the banquet? I didn’t know that or I would have called you again tomorrow. I was too anxious to get these news just now.” Dylan looked regretful.

“Grandpa has just recovered, and hosting this banquet is equivalent to celebrate that.” Julian, as he let go of the heavy burden in his heart, even spoke more softly than usual.

Dylan sighed after hearing the words, “Then hurry up. I’ll go see him when I have time. Let’s talk about drinking another day, and I must order a few bottles of good wine then.”

Julian nodded with a smile.

He bid farewell to Dylan and returned to the banquet without stopping.

The car stopped at the entrance of the Graham’s house, and Julian got out of the car. His gaze swept over the door, but Natalie was no longer there.

He raised his eyebrows but didn’t pay much attention, thinking that Natalie was inside the house.

He walked in, picked up champagne and exchanged a few words with the influential somebodies in Los Angeles. His gaze swept across the room, but there was still no Natalie.

Julian’s eyes darkened a bit.

Natalie unexpectedly left? He suppressed his emotions and managed to keep his face unchanged.

Linda looked up and saw Julian appearing. She quickly stood up and walked towards the man, “Julian, where did you just go? I’ve been looking for you for a long time”

Julian lowered his eyes and said, "There are some urgent matters at the company. I rushed over to handle them, but they have been resolved now. You don't need to worry,"

Linda sighed and said, "Otherwise, the position of CEO would be given to your uncle. In such a big company, you are the only one to support it, and there is no one to help you. You can't go home several times a week and it's really tiring."

"If only your brother and your father were alive, you wouldn't be so tired." Linda said, thinking of the past days for some reason, and tears couldn't help but appear in her eyes.

"Don't mention this." Julian heard Linda's words and spoke with a complex expression, a cold and sharp voice, and even a slight stiffness in his body..

He deeply rejected hearing about his father and brother.

"Okay, let's not mention it anymore." Linda slowly restrained her emotions.

Linda remained silent for a moment, as if she suddenly remembered something. She looked around Julian.

and said, "Didn't Natalie come back with you?"

Julian frowned at the words and said, "How did she come back with me? She didn't come with me."

Linda was surprised. When she looked up, neither Julian nor Natalie were there. She thought they had gone out together and was so happy.

She considered and said, "Julian, did you argue with Natalie again?"

Julian furrowed even deeper, "We didn't argue."

Linda was even more puzzled. "Did Natalie leave without saying a word? I searched the entire banquet hall before and didn't see you, even looking for your grandpa's room upstairs."

But in her heart, Natalie was a very polite and cultured girl, and it was impossible for her to leave the banquet without saying a word..

“It isn’t important.” Julian’s face remained expressionless, as if he didn’t care at all.

But only he knew his inner discomfort.

But where did this discomfort come from? He couldn’t find the source.

Linda looked at Julian’s indifferent expression and sighed in her heart. She didn’t know how to salvage the relationship between him and Natalie.

The next morning, After Natalie finished washing up, she drove to the laboratory.

The International Pharmaceutical Association called her again to invite her to develop a new drug. This time, It was different from before, and it was a field she had never been exposed to before. She just heard about the nature of the drug and agreed without thinking.

It was her honor to be able to produce drugs to treat persistent illnesses.

After the International Pharmaceutical Association called, she immediately greeted the people in the laboratory and would come to the laboratory every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. She also notified Ryan. When Ryan heard this news, he was so happy.

The car stopped at the entrance of the laboratory, and Natalie got out of the car and walked into the laboratory. Ryan had already put on his experimental clothes and waited inside.

“Doctor, you’re here.” Ryan’s tone added some excitement.

Natalie glanced at the furnishings around, and Ryan clearly had prepared all the materials, equipment, and record sheets needed for this development.

“Hey,” Natalie nodded and put her gloves on. She glanced at Ryan, who couldn’t suppress his smile.” Why are you so happy?”

“Just hearing about this drug, I feel excited! I haven’t been involved in developing such a challenging project for a long time.”

“It’s a project invited by the International Pharmaceutical Association. How many pharmaceutical students dream of that? I didn’t expect it to come true like this.”

Natalie smiled upon hearing the words and looked at Ryan seriously. “You will definitely participate in more projects in the future, you have this talent.”

Ryan had been by her side for so long, and she knew Ryan very well. With his inherent talent and love for pharmaceuticals, he would definitely shine in the pharmaceutical industry in the future.

Upon hearing this, Ryan awkwardly scratched his head.

He seemed to think of something, "But Doctor, did you authorize the New Bleomycin Drug you developed to the Graham family?"

Natalie looked up and said, "What's wrong?"

"Previously, Julian, the boss of Graham Group, visited the company several times for authorization, but Mr. Johnson was not present."

Before Mr. Johnson left, he told him that if there were any issues with the company, he would talk to Natalie and let Natalie make the decision. "Julian is known for his coldness, and he came to the company three or four times. This authorization seems very important to him."

Natalie was a person who handled things cleanly. Since she wanted to divorce, she naturally returned to her calm and rational self.

Julian's name now seemed to her like a stranger.

Chapter

Henry hp sad?

However, the identity of the boss of Graham Group inevitably stirred up waves in her heart. What he did in this identity would involve Linda, and more importantly, Henry.

Natalie pursed her lips and said, "Did Julian come so many times?" She also listened outside the room that day, and this authorization indeed had a great impact on Graham Group.

Graham Group could be considered her hard work, and it was what Henry wanted to protect.

What would Henry feel if it went bankrupt? He must be sad, Natalie suddenly felt at a loss.

Chapter 53 Doctor Nancy Is Inside

Ryan saw that Natalie's expression was somewhat uneasy. He lowered his eyelashes and said, "Doctor? What's wrong with you?"

A faint hesitation flowed, as she pondered and clearly did not hear Ryan's inquiry.

Julian was the boss of Graham Group. If authorization was given to him, Graham Group would definitely be able to weather this crisis.

She was still familiar with Julian's abilities. Graham Group's survival of the crisis before was not only due to her help behind, but also due to Julian's abilities.

If more time was given to Julian, the future development of Graham Group couldn't be underestimated.

But if she didn't help Julian this time, it meant it was difficult for Graham Group to survive this crisis.

Natalie silently supported Graham Group behind Julian for three years, knowing very well the market share of New Bleomycin Drug. If it wasn't authorized, Graham Group would not have new drugs to supplement it, and the consequence was obvious.

Her silent efforts over the past three years would all come to naught, and the efforts she had made were meaningless.

Natalie's eyelashes were lightly trembling.

Ryan stood by and silently observed Natalie's expression. Seeing that Natalie's face had finally changed, he tentatively extended his hand and waved it in front of her.

Natalie regained consciousness from her thoughts and said, "Help me prepare an authorization."

Ryan was not surprised to hear this. Just when he mentioned this, Natalie did not immediately refuse but remained silent for a long time. He knew that she was likely to delegate authorization to Julian.

"Okay," Ryan agreed.

The doctor had her own reason for making decisions.

After Ryan finished answering, he picked up the reagent bottle and prepared to start the experiment.

After thinking for a while, Natalie added, "You can draft the authorization now and I'll sign it."

She didn't want to procrastinate and just wanted to complete everything she needed to do as soon as possible, especially those related to the Graham family.

Upon hearing this, Ryan stopped. He blinked and said, "Now?"

His intuition told him that the relationship between Doctor and Julian was likely to be extraordinary.

From her recent performance to now, she asked him to immediately put down the experiment and draft the authorization letter.

He unconsciously began to contemplate the relationship between Doctor and Julian. What kind of relationship would it be?

Chapter 53 Doctor Nancy is inside

34.83%

Ryan wondered, but suddenly reacted and forced himself to stop thinking.

It was the doctor's private matter, and he shouldn't speculate recklessly.

He used to never care about anything else except research and development, but now what was the matter?

Natalie did not feel a series of psychological changes in Ryan, and she nodded lightly and said, "Yes."

Ryan controlled himself, and his face unchanged, saying, "Okay." He took a step and walked to the next room.

Ryan's work efficiency was very high, and he quickly drafted the authorization letter and handed it to Natalie.

Natalie glanced roughly at the content and signed it, "Send it to Graham Group."

"Won't you deliver it directly?" Ryan looked up in surprise again.

"No," Natalie said in a calm voice. "Don't forget to send the anonymous package."

M

Ryan felt even more puzzled and reminded, "If you choose to send an anonymous package, coupled with the special nature of the authorization letter, it may take several days to deliver."

"It's okay." Natalie's voice was calm.

Graham Group could be able to sustain itself for few days. She asked Ryan to draft it so quickly, and didn't want to have too much involvement with Julian.

Ryan left the laboratory with the authorization letter.

At the same time, Julian's car stopped beside this magnificent laboratory.

"Mr. Graham, here we are."

Julian raised his eyes, squinting slightly. The laboratory was larger than he had imagined.

He got out of the car.

At the entrance of the laboratory stood several neatly dressed bodyguards, with guns exposed at the waist, clearly guarded.

The assistant also got out of the car, and he followed behind Julian. When he looked up and saw so many guards in black with serious expressions, he trembled with fear.

What the hell was this place? The building in front of him was not only built on a wilderness ridge, but its surface was also pure gray, giving people a suppressed and mysterious feeling, which made him feel cold.

He trembled and instinctively wanted to ask Mr. Graham why they were here, but when he thought of his terrifying mood since the drug development failure, he decisively stifled this idea.

Compared to provoking Mr. Graham, this building was clearly nothing at all.

Dylan's call came in a timely manner, and Julian answered the phone. This is a specially designed laboratory by Philip. It is located in such a remote place to prevent people from disturbing Doctor Nancy. You definitely can't declare your name and walk in boldly."

75.00

"But I've already taken care of everything," Dylan said with a faint sense of pride.

"You enter through the side door, and there are bodyguards I paid for over there. The security at the main door is too strict to enter."

"Okay." Julian glanced at the small door on the side, then hung up the phone.

There was clearly only one bodyguard standing in front of the small door of the laboratory.

“Stay here,” Julian walked towards the small door.

The assistant responded softly and silently looked at his back.

Seeing someone approaching, the bodyguard subconsciously picked up the gun from his waist and turned his gaze to Julian with caution.

Julian’s face was calm, with no unnecessary expression on his face. He glanced faintly at the bodyguard in front of him.

The bodyguard saw that the newcomer had no trace of fear, He was surprised and carefully glanced at the man in front of him. The man’s facial features were almost perfect, and his dark eyes were deep. He could only feel an inexplicable chill.

He must be Julian, the boss of Graham Group.

He slowly lowered his gun and stood respectfully aside to make way.

A mysterious person had already promised him in advance that Julian would come today. Just open the door for Julian and he would be paid a large amount of money.

The amount proposed by the mysterious person was very high, so high that he agreed without thinking.

Julian lifted his legs and walked in.

Ryan happened to leave the experimental building with the authorization letter, and he drove the car out of the garage.

From the rearview mirror, he saw a strange car parked next to the experimental building.

Surprise appeared in his eyes and he paused.

Whose car was this?

Because the experimental building had just been built and Mr. Johnson was not in the company, there was currently no manpower available in the company's laboratory, so there was no one else in this experimental building besides him and Natalie.

He also asked Natalie if she wanted to transfer a few assistants, and then asked Mr. Johnson to pay a high price to recruit several well-known experts from New York. Thus the experiment would not be short of manpower on weekdays, and her work would be more convenient.

But Natalie refused. She said she only wanted to conduct the experiment quietly and didn't need so many people.

Why was there a luxury car parked next to the building now? What was its purpose? Would it pose any threat to Natalie?

Ryan's gaze was cold.

He almost immediately stopped the car, wanting to get off and ask, but as soon as he stepped out halfway,

he stopped.

Was he too sensitive?

Since that person dared to park the car here, it was highly likely that there was a legitimate reason to come to the experimental building. He was really a bit too nervous.

Ryan withdrew his feet again.

He has never been like this before. But when it came to Natalie, he didn't look like himself anymore.

•

Ryan lowered his eyes, and with a complex expression, he sat back in the car to start the engine, and drove away.

Julian smoothly entered the laboratory. The internal design of the laboratory was very complex, with various rooms and laboratories scattered on different floors. After roughly reviewing the floor distribution map, Julian quickly identified several of the laboratories.

He only needed to investigate one by one to find the laboratory where Doctor Nancy was located.

He walked into the elevator and walked towards the first laboratory, which was very well-equipped and completely incomparable to Graham Group's.

After roughly scanning these devices, Julian turned his gaze to another laboratory.

Opening the door of the laboratory, there was still no one inside.

Julian looked at the several laboratories he had locked one by one, but when the doors opened, there was no one inside. His gaze sank and he strode to the last laboratory.

He stood at the entrance of the laboratory, where the lights were on. If he listened carefully, he could still hear the sound of the machines running inside. However, looking inside from the window on the door, he couldn't see clearly if there was anyone inside.

Julian's eyes flickered slightly, and Doctor Nancy must be inside. Obviously, there was no other choice but this laboratory.

Julian's slender fingers lightly knocked the door of the laboratory.

Chapter 54 Natalie ran head on into Julian in the laboratory

There was no doubt that Dr. Nancy, a genius in pharmaceuticals, was respectable.

It was indeed inappropriate for him to come so recklessly today... but he got no choice.

He hoped to have a successful result today. No matter how high the price she offered, Graham Group could accept it as long as she was willing to grant authorization to Graham Group.

Julian stood in front of the laboratory door, retracting his hand that had just been extended. After hesitating for a while, he gently knocked twice on the door.

No one responded.

Julian frowned slightly, and then he lifted his hand again to knock the door.

There was still no response.

w

Julian frowned, with a hint of confusion flashing in his eyes. He looked inside through the window.

The equipment in the laboratory was indeed running.

His eye color darkened and he opened the door of the laboratory.

There was no one in such a vast laboratory.

How could it be?!

Julian was certain that Dr. Nancy was in these few laboratories, but how could there be no one? Did Dylan's message go wrong or didn't Dr. Nancy come to the laboratory every Monday, Wednesday, or Friday?

There was a complex expression on Julian's face.

He opened the door and walked heavily out of the laboratory.

Just as he walked out of the door, Julian felt that there was someone in front of him without lifting his eyes.

It must be Dr. Nancy.

Julian felt a little bit relaxed. As long as he met Dr. Nancy, he was in control of the authorization.

He lifted his eyes.

What! He squinted his eyes to see the person clearly. How could it be...?

Natalie?!

Natalie had just walked to the door of the laboratory, and before she could open the door, the door was suddenly opened from inside.

She was stunned.

Inside stood a tall and upright man, dressed in a well-cut black handmade suit, with a cold expression that was almost meticulous.

Julian?!

Why he would be here?

Natalie blinked incredulously.

She had a bad premonition that her identity was about to be discovered.

She just went out for a while, just a while... Why did Julian appear inside when she opened the door again.

Their eyes met.

Julian looked sullen, and his cold eyes swept over Natalie, pulling her out with his big hands.

“What are you doing?”, Natalie was pulled forward by Julian.

His strength was so great that she couldn’t resist at all. She could only be pulled forward.

Julian completely ignored Natalie’s shouts and pulled her to the corner of the corridor before he finally stopped.

Natalie broke free from Julian’s hands and said, “What are you doing?”

With gloomy expressions and closed lips, it was clear that Julian was very angry.

“I have said it for many times.” He said lightly but determinedly, with his gloomy eyes where there was endless indifference.

Natalie was very confused. She didn’t understand what Julian said, and her expression showed a clear confusion.

Seeing Natalie’s performance at this moment, Julian squinted his eyes and his face turned dark with rage, as if he was trying to restrain his anger.

“Why are you always pretending?” His voice was filled with indifference, even a hint of hidden disappointment.

Natalie pursed her lips and looked at Julian quietly.

“What am I pretending to be?”

Wasn’t that something that Niki liked to do? What had it to do with her? When did she pretend?

“Natalie.” The man shouted her name, as if he was sending her a ultimatum. The words were full of anger, which was obviously almost beyond control.

Natalie silently lifted her eyes and did not answer.

Explaining to someone who didn't trust her would only make herself sad.

(ou pretend to want to get divorced but you actually don't want to. You are just playing hard to get."

"How dare you still pretend when I see you here?" The man spoke first after seeing Natalie say nothing.

Natalie was clearly following him to the laboratory, but now she pretended to be confused, and Julian thought that she was treating him like a fool.

Natalie blinked and thought: When did she pretend not to want a divorce?

Julian looked at the woman in front of him who was blinking her eyes innocently. From his perspective, Natalie was clearly pure, just like Niki.

He remembered the day of the Graham family banquet: he opened the door and saw Natalie standing outside, dressed in a clean but elegant white dress.

She looked like Niki.

There was disgust in his eyes. Was she deliberately imitating Niki?

Natalie didn't want to pester Julian here. She looked straightly at him and asked, "Why are you here?"

This was the key point.

Philip was so unreliable. Didn't he say that this place was very secretive? So how did Julian find it?

She must scold him later.

There was a hint of amusement in Julian's eyes. "Why am I here?"

So why was she here? Natalie followed him instead asking why he was here?

"Why didn't I realize you were so good at pretending before?"

Upon hearing this, Natalie only felt a sense of helplessness instead of a sense of anger before.

It didn't make sense to talk with him.

"I'll say it again for the last time. There's no possibility between us. I love Niki, and it's no use trying to imitate her."

Julian's clear side face lines appeared extremely grim under the light.

“Natalie.”

“You have repeatedly pestered me and violated my bottom line.”

“When did I péster you?!” Natalie looked at Julian.

“I have signed the divorce agreement and gave it to you. You just need to sign it, and there will be no more relations between us.”

Why he said that she pestered him? If she wanted to pester him, why did she sign the agreement and rush to deliver it to him? She just needed to hide it or refuse to sign.

Julian snorted.

Why did Natalie sign? She loved him so much, and the only reason she could sign was that she knew that his grandfather was using the CEO position to put pressure on him.

Julian was very clear about that.

He just didn’t want to say it. He wanted to save face for her in consideration of the three-year’s marriage.

But she seriously violated his bottom line for following him and he must make it clear.

“If you ever follow me like what you did today again...” Julian paused and changed his words.

“Don’t cross the line again, otherwise I won’t care about my mother’s face anymore. I will sign the divorce agreement immediately.”

Julian said that she followed him? She sneered in her heart.

Okay, it did seem like something Julian would say.

Natalie didn’t want to be angry with him anymore.

She was only surprised that Julian had not signed the divorce agreement yet?!

Wasn’t he urging her to sign the divorce agreement? And he even sent it to her on his own, being afraid that she would not sign it.

He was so eager to give Niki a place, and Niki also hinted in front of him many times. Why hadn’t he signed it yet?

Why didn’t she know that he would listen to his mother before? Would Julian not divorce for the sake of his mother?

Natalie clearly didn't believe it.

"Then you can sign it now, without listening to your mother. I don't need it." Natalie said indifferently.

Chapter 55 Send the authorization

Upon hearing this, Julian sneered

If it wasn't for his grandfather putting pressure on him for the CEO position, he would have signed it.

However, Natalie did not deny that she had been following him this time, so he didn't feel angry as before.

He looked at her and wanted to warn her again. He opened his thin lips, but he didn't say anything.

She loved him so much that she couldn't accept leaving him... She wouldn't change even if he had told her so many times.

Julian finally glanced at her, without any emotional fluctuations in his dark eyes which appeared indifferent and distant.

He said it only for the last time.

Julian took a step forward and left.

He didn't meet Dr. Nancy today, but instead seeing Natalie... He decided to come again on Friday.

Natalie looked at his back in a daze. He didn't answer her question! She asked him to sign the agreement.

She ran to catch up with the man, but the equipment in the laboratory suddenly rang, and the reagents boiled out, as if they were about to explode.

It seemed that there was something wrong, so Natalie didn't chase Julian but ran into the laboratory.

She hurriedly turned off the equipment.

Returning to the corridor again, no one was there, and he had left.

Being disrupted by Julian, Natalie looked at these drugs and sighed.

At the moment she opened the door and saw him, her mind went blank, and she subconsciously thought that her identity was about to be exposed.

Unexpectedly, he thought that she was following him....

It seemed that his temperament had some advantages.

But how did he get in?!

Natalie eyes flickered slightly, and she immediately took out her phone and pressed Philip's numbers.

She was greeted by a long beep, followed by a polite female voice saying, "Hello, the number you have dialed is turned off, Please redial later."

She was angry and threw her phone on the table.

At every critical moment, Philip's phone would not get through! And this time, his phone was turned off.

Get Borth

Natalie let out a bitter smile and let it go.

He indeed got hurt in a relationship.

If she found that he disappeared for so long because of other reasons, she must teach him a lesson.

Then she turned to look at the steps and plans she had written.

Fine, let's finish the reagent experiment planned for today first. Although there were some emotional fluctuations, the experiment still needed to be completed.

She had had such a temperament since childhood.

She would not be controlled by the emotions.

Except for Henry.

He was the exception.

He was an exception in her life, and even a variate.

She calmed down and implemented the subsequent experimental steps one by one, making the reagent experiment return to the right track.

A knock came from outside the door, and Natalie lifted her eyes and said, "Please come in."

Ryan walked into the laboratory.

"Doctor, the package has already been sent out."

Natalie was calm, and she nodded, "Thank you."

Ryan walked to the table and found that the experiment was almost done. He looked up in surprise and said,

"Doctor, did you complete it so quickly by yourself?"

Although he was well aware of her strength, the impact he witnessed with his own eyes was clearly greater.

Although he didn't know where the doctor disappeared three years ago, her pharmaceutical capabilities were clearly more advanced after three years.

The doctor must have devoted herself to researching pharmaceuticals in these three years, otherwise how could she had made so much progress.

Natalie smiled and said, "It is not completed and there are still some flaws. I will improve it tomorrow."

Ryan scratched his head, feeling a bit embarrassed. "I didn't help you at all today," he said.

These experiments were all completed by the doctor herself, and he, as an assistant, did not make any contribution.

He felt a bit useless, and compared to the doctor, his pharmaceutical abilities were far beyond.

How could he be an assistant to the doctor? He might even drag the doctor down.

After hearing this, Natalie pretended to be angry and said, "Who prepared these equipment for me? Who distributed these medicinal materials proportionally? Who drafted the authorization? Who sent it?"

Ryan helped her with so much, and she was very grateful to him.

She could see what Ryan was thinking.

"You can help me a lot. Can you help me finish the experiment?"

"I am a bit tired."

Upon hearing this, Ryan hurriedly agreed, "Okay! You can go home and rest, I can finish it."

A smile flickered around Natalie's mouth, "Okay."

Since Ryan was her assistant, she should teach him something.

She planned in her heart that she might be able to help him summarize her pharmaceutical experience and ideas over the years.

With his understanding, there would definitely be significant progress.

Julian left the laboratory.

The assistant trotted forward, just as he was about to speak, he saw the cold face of the CEO.

The face was much more gloomy than before.

He shut his mouth very wisely.

Now his every move might anger the CEO, and his job might lose at any time.

He silently stepped forward and opened the door for Julian, and then he cautiously started the engine and drove away.

Friday.

Natalie arrived at the laboratory early.

Ryan hadn't come yet. She came early today to prepare medicinal materials and equipment because she didn't want him to do so much.

She had reminded the security guards to strictly defend and not allow anyone to enter.

She didn't want to see Julian here again.

But if the authorization had already been sent, would he come again? And then her identity would not be exposed.

She opened the device and prepared to start the experiment. She took out a piece of paper and wrote down her thoughts in an orderly manner.

The field of medicine that the International Pharmaceutical Association invited her to participate in this time, was different from the last time. It was a totally new field and it was still quite challenging for her.

She had preliminarily designed several plans, and today she would think about them first. Developing new drugs was a long process, and even genius researchers could not achieve it in one moment. The entire process was undoubtedly dull and tedious.

She understood that scientific research was definitely not a selfish pleasure. She never felt superior with her current research achievements, which was why she had been low-key in the pharmaceutical industry for so many years and refused to show her true appearance.

How many pharmaceutical researchers in New York became mercenary once they gained fame, and they focused their happiness solely on desire, vanity, power, and money...

She felt sad.

She distributed the pharmaceutical materials prepared by Ryan in proportion and then put them into the debugged equipment.

The first result came out quickly, and the effect was obviously not very good.

Natalie frowned.

She was lost in thought. She thought that perhaps adding a few dragon roots inside would have better results?

As she was thinking, Ryan knocked on the door and entered.

"Doctor, why you come so early?"

She subconsciously lifted eyes and said, "Will the authorization arrive today?"

"Ah, let me check it." He opened his phone and checked the package. "It can't arrive today."

Natalie's eyes darkened.

www

Chapter 56 Compared to Henry, money doesn't matter

"What's the matter, Doctor?"

Natalie tried to calm down and shook her head, "It's okay."

If the authorization did not arrive today, Julian might come again.....

But how did he get the news?

Although Philip looked cynical, he actually had a command of everything in his heart, and he just seemed so.

Natalie knew Philip very well.

Since he said he would not let others know the message, it was certain that no one would know that she was the authorized person of New Bleomycin Drug, nor would anyone know her position. She only signed Nancy on the authorization, so Julian.....?

Did he find the laboratory according to Dr. Nancy's identity?

Natalie's expression was complex. When did she expose Dr. Nancy's information?

"But Doctor, why you send the authorization to Julian so easily without any fees...?" Ryan looked at her and asked her cautiously.

He wanted to ask this question that day, but for reasons of not prying into the doctor's intentions, he didn't ask.

But there was a certain indescribable emotion in his heart that prompted him to ask today.

It was not excessive to charge several hundred million dollars based on the value of New Bleomycin Drug. Moreover, the authorization could completely solve the urgent problem of Graham Group. And if she even offered a higher price, Graham Group could only agree.

But the doctor didn't mention a word about money from beginning to end and sent the authorization, which was a clear anomaly. So Ryan guessed that the relationship between the doctor and Julian was likely to be extraordinary, even closer than he thought.

What was the relationship?

Once he spoke, he couldn't take his words back. Ryan could only wait for her answer, and he was a bit uneasy.

Upon hearing this, Natalie stopped thinking. Ryan's question made her realize that she had not asked Graham Group for authorization fees.

She just thought that the authorization could help Graham Group overcome the crisis and help Henry..... Her eyelashes trembled, and she didn't think further. She just said yes in a low voice.

Compared to Henry, money didn't matter anymore.

People had always unconsciously developed many habits like this. Since Henry's death, she had always wanted to make up for it. She tried to do something for Graham Group as much as possible, and it seemed Chapter 56 Compared to Henry, money doesn't matter that she was used to help the Graham Group without any return....

36.834

Upon hearing the answer, Ryan pursed his lips. This simple word made his heart sink.

"Shall we start the experiment?" Natalie didn't think about what had just happened. She said in a low volume.

She could see Ryan's distraction.

"Hmm, okay." Ryan nodded as he reluctantly suppressed this inexplicable emotion in his heart.

Ryan glanced at the experimental results that Natalie had just completed and changed the topic, "It seems to be a success, but it seems that the effect is not very good."

Natalie nodded, "The effect is very poor."

But there might be unexpected effects after adding some dragon roots.

Ryan lowered his head again and looked at it, as if he suddenly realized something. "Doctor, why not try to add some dragon roots?"

Natalie was surprised. She knew that Ryan had talent in developing drugs, but she was still surprised. He was more talented than she thought.

"Yes, adding some dragon roots will have better effects." She gave him an appreciative look, with a smile in her eyes.

Natalie looked beautiful when she smiled and Ryan kept staring at her.

He felt very strange and his heart beat randomly.

Ryan didn't respond to her words. He just lowered his head and ran to get the dragon roots, as if he was fleeing in panic.

He brought the dragon roots from outside, and Natalie took them.

She thought for a moment and handed the initiative of the experiment to him. "Come here, and I'll guide you."

Upon hearing this, Ryan's muscles tightened and he nervously took over the reagent bottle. "Okay," he said.

About two hours later, the experiment was over, and he breathed a gentle sigh of relief. He relaxed his tightened shoulders and felt a sense of relief.

"Doctor, how do you think?" He looked up at her, with his eyes shining brightly.

Natalie watched his experiment by his side, and he finished it orderly and made some innovations in many aspects... Obviously, he did very well.

She was about to speak when Ryan's phone rang.

"Sorry, I'll take the call." Seeing the caller on his phone, he frowned tightly and the light in his eyes and the smile all disappeared.

Natalie nodded.

He went out to answer the phone.

He had just done it perfectly and he didn't need to make any improvements. She collected his experimental results and picked up a new experimental material.

Came Ryan's voice.

"Doctor, I have something to deal with now."

"I will come back later to put the equipment in order."

She took a look and thought: What was so urgent?

She replied with a word "OK".

She could understand that if it weren't for something urgent, he wouldn't let go of the experiment and leave..

She then glanced at the medicine on the table and thought that she still needed some Chinese medicine.

So she went to find the box of medicinal materials. But she couldn't find them in the room. Did Ryan put them in the nearby room?

She opened the door of the laboratory to get the medicinal materials.

Meanwhile, in the experimental building.

Julian walked in the corridor with a deep gaze.

He must find Dr. Nancy today. If he could not find Nancy for a day, it meant that Rudy would not stop.

Since Rudy left that day, he had repeatedly made trouble in front of grandpa, and he had been trying to pull Julian down from the position of CEO on the grounds of authorization.

Rudy didn't care about anything. Obviously he was unable to get the position of CEO and he would not allow Julian to stay in the position of CEO.

After all, he also said on that day that he had information about Dr. Nancy, and he must be responsible for what he said.

Moreover, Graham Group could not wait too long.

Julian took a slow and steady step, with his eyes scanning every room.

He scanned every laboratory like the day before yesterday, but still no one appeared.

His eyes darkened and his face looked pale.

He took out his phone and said, "Is the news that Dr. Nancy comes to the laboratory every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday reliable?"

Dylan was sitting on the soft leather sofa, and he stood up after hearing his words and he said in a firm tone, "Absolutely reliable".

Julian hung up the phone without saying a word.

Did the news that he would come to find Dr. Nancy leak out? His face turned dark with rage.

Wait?!

His suddenly paused, and he looked sharply ahead.

There was a familiar figure on the corridor, dressed in an experimental suit, with long hair draped over her shoulders. Just looking at her back gave him a sense of elegance.

It was no different from the photo.

It must be Dr. Nancy.

His heart trembled and he took a step forward, trying to catch up with the woman in the front.

But he was a bit far away from the woman, and the woman disappeared at the corner of the corridor.

He chased after, and he squinted his eyes and started to check the numerous rooms in front of him.

He quickly shifted his focus on the laboratory in the corner of corridor.

The woman was conducting an experiment and her back looked very elegant. The sunlight fell on her shoulder from the window, appearing very beautiful. She must be Dr. Nancy.

He calmed down and politely knocked the door of the laboratory.

Natalie was concentrating on processing the medicinal materials when she heard the knock. So she spoke slightly without raising her head. "Please come in Julian pushed the door and entered.

“Are you Dr. Nancy?”

A familiar sound came to her ears, and she felt that something was wrong.

Why was this sound so familiar?!

37.33%

Chapter

Compared to Henry money doesn't matter

Chapter 57 Even If you helped the the Graham family, I wouldn't look at you differently

Such a familiar voice, couldn't it be...”

It can't be Julian Graham, right?

Natalie Spears secretly thought bad, she put down the herbs in her hand and subconsciously turned around to leave.

At the moment when she stepped out, she accidentally knocked down the medicinal bottle next to her, and the medicinal materials inside scattered out.

Natalie Spears didn't have time to pick it up, she couldn't let Julian Graham see her.

But men are obviously faster.

Julian Graham saw the woman in front of him put down the medicinal herbs and walked forward after he made a sound. He was in a hurry and took a step to grip her wrist, tightly clenching it as if the woman in front of him would disappear in the next moment.

Natalie Spears's footsteps paused.

“Are you Doctor Nancy...?” Julian Graham's voice was not as cold as before, mixed with politeness.

But upon closer inspection, it still sounded polite and distant.

Natalie Spears's slender wrist was tightly clenched in Julian Graham's hand, completely unable to detach.

Last time, Julian Graham thought she was following him, and she barely managed to get by, but this time....

She was wearing a lab coat, how did she explain?

Natalie Spears calmed herself down.

"No." Natalie Spears didn't turn her head and her voice was calm.

Julian Graham narrowed his eyes, his pitch black eyes fixed tightly on the back of the woman in front of him,

"Aren't you?"

Although it was a question, it carried a cold determination.

The aura of superiority surrounding the man was intimidating. Seeing that the person in front of him didn't speak, Julian Graham didn't even blink and looked at the person in front of him, "Can you turn around?"

Natalie Spears didn't turn around, her body was a bit stiff.

What should she say when she turns around now? She was wearing a lab coat, and it was obvious that no excuses could be made.

Did she call herself Doctor Nancy?

It was impossible.

"If not, then I have offended you. I apologize." Julian Graham slowly spoke.

This back was exactly the same as the photo, absolutely no mistake.

Natalie Spears pursed her lips, her brain racing.

Based on Julian Graham's personality and previous performance, if she claims to be Doctor Nancy, there was a high possibility that Julian Graham would not believe.

"You let go first. Natalie Spears's voice was calm and could not hear any panic.

Julian Graham felt a bit offended by his actions and calmly released his hand that held Natalie Spears's

Wrist

"Sorry, I was a bit anxious just now. If I offend you, I hope you can forgive me." His voice had a rare courtesy.

Natalie Spears didn't say much, she hesitated in her heart.

If she didn't turn around, Julian Graham would definitely not give up. With Julian Graham's temperament, his patience would soon run out. Until then, she had no choice.

Even if she turned around and Julian Graham saw her, he was likely not to associate her with Doctor Nancy's identity.

In that case, turning around calmly was clearly the best choice.

Her eyelashes trembled slightly as she thought about it and turned around.

Julian Graham saw the woman in front of him carefully, Natalie Spears?!

Surprise flashed in his cold expression, with an indescribable shock in his eyes. "You..."

Natalie Spears calmly looked at Julian Graham.

Julian Graham's shocked expression was only momentarily concealed by a great deal of anger. He spoke coldly, "Natalie Spears, how dare you to do this again?"

The day before yesterday, he spoke so clearly that Natalie Spears dared to follow him today!

She didn't listen to him!

As soon as the words were spoken, Julian Graham felt something was wrong. He scanned Natalie Spears from top to bottom and said, "Why are you wearing a lab coat?"

How could she be in the laboratory and wearing lab clothes?

Julian Graham's eyes narrowed slightly. He felt that something was wrong. Was Natalie Spears also a researcher in this laboratory?

But her back was obviously the same as the photo. Was Natalie Spears Doctor Nancy?

As soon as this idea emerged, it was rejected by him. Natalie Spears was just an orphan, and she cannot be a researcher in this laboratory, let alone Doctor Nancy!

Natalie Spears pursed her lips and spoke calmly, "I'm doing an experiment."

When she was conducting an experiment, she was caught by Julian Graham. If she told any other lies, Julian Graham's temperament would only make him more suspicious, and she could only be honest and frank.

She hasn't picked up the scattered medicinal herbs on the ground yet.

Julian Graham's eyes filled with disbelief, "Are you doing an experiment?"

After speaking, a sneer flashed through his eyes and he said lightly, "You'd better be honest."

This time he couldn't forgive her again!

Natalie Spears didn't answer. She bent down and picked up the medicinal herbs on the ground, which were very rare and precious. It was a pity that they fell to the ground.

She quietly picked up the medicinal herbs one by one, and Julian Graham pursed his thin lips with a gloomy expression.

After placing the medicinal herbs, Natalie Spears spoke softly, "As you can see, I am indeed conducting an experiment. If you don't believe it, it's all right."

Julian Graham was clearly angered by Natalie Spears's tone, with a hint of anger in his voice. "Did I say I wouldn't let you follow me?"

"No matter how much you follow me, it's useless. My heart belongs to Niki Lynch! Doing so will only make me hate you even more."

Julian Graham originally did not want to say this, he wanted to give Natalie Spears some dignity, but her performance obviously did not want these dignity, then he could only say the words so clear.

"I'm following you? Then how did I change into a lab uniform? Why did I go first in the laboratory?"

Julian Graham was stunned when he heard the words. He had just seen the woman in front of him turn her head, but it was Natalie Spears. He was momentarily angry and didn't react..

Was Natalie Spears conducting experiments here?

"Do you want to help Graham study drugs?" Julian Graham's eyes were cold.

There was only one possibility.

Natalie Spears pursed her lips, and in order not to reveal her identity, she could only follow Julian Graham's words.

"Hmm..." Natalie Spears had to admit.

Julian Graham sneered at the words in his eyes and then spoke impatiently, "Don't make trouble for me."

Natalie Spears may have been a bit out of control, really thinking that making drugs is so easy?

She thought she could make him look up to her just because she helped Graham Group?

However, Natalie Spears was an orphan and did not have much education. It was normal to not know the difficulty of pharmacy.

"What drug did you develop through experiments?"

"Have you studied biopharmaceuticals?"

"Do you know how to do an experiment?"

Julian Graham spoke out these questions coldly, with a tone of impatience.

Natalie Spears's stay here would obviously only bring trouble to Doctor Nancy, and may even anger him.

It was just typical of good intentions doing bad things.

The more ignorant people were, the better they were at doing bad things with kindness, as Julian Graham knew very well.

Upon hearing these questions, Natalie Spears clearly couldn't answer, only remained silent.

Speaking the truth will only expose one's identity, without any benefits.

Julian Graham gave Natalie Spears a cold look, frowned, and once again reached out to grab Natalie Spears's wrist, pulling her out of the laboratory.

Doctor Nancy must not be allowed to see Natalie Spears staying in the laboratory, otherwise it would anger Doctor Nancy and make it impossible for Graham Group to obtain authorization.

Natalie Spears didn't struggle this time.

"Don't overestimate yourself. This won't bring any help to Graham Group, and it may even put the company in a bigger predicament." Julian Graham's voice didn't reflect the anger just now.

After all, Natalie Spears was for the sake of the the Graham Group.

"Even if you bring help to Graham Group, I won't look at you differently, do you understand?"

Chapter 58 Natalie Spears proactively reveals the clue

"So you don't need to brag and come here for an experiment. It won't do you any good, nor will it do Graham Group any good."

Julian Graham's voice was faint, clearly reminding Natalie Spears and unconsciously drawing a line with her.

Natalie Spears raised her eyes and smiled stiffly.

She was too lazy to explain and there was no need to explain. Julian Graham's misunderstanding of her now happens not to expose her identity, and she has nothing to lose. Why not?

In Julian Graham's eyes, the slightly stiff smile of the woman in front of her was clearly sour and at a loss, making her look pitiful.

However, Julian Graham clearly did not show any emotion.

“Get out of here now.”

These words did not carry any temperature

Natalie Spears pursed her lips, and what came to her mind was that her experiment had not been completed yet, but looking at the current situation.

Before Natalie Spears could react, Julian Graham had already reached out and pulled her wrist, with a cold expression as she walked down the stairs

There was no room for Natalie Spears to choose at all, and obviously he didn't want her to stay in this experimental building for a moment

Since Natalie Spears had just admitted that he came here to help the the Graham family, it was obvious that Julian Graham could no longer have doubts.

Natalie Spears did not resist. She followed the man silently, and the two walked back and forth to the side door.

Natalie Spears lowered her head and glanced at the palm of Julian Graham's wrist.

Still not letting go?

Julian Graham noticed Natalie Spears's gaze, and he suddenly let go of her wrist with a hint of impatience in his eyes.

It's not she wanted him to pull her wrist! What's the matter with this calm expression?

Julian Graham strode towards the door, his eyes scanning the bodyguard at the side door.

The bodyguard saw the visitor and immediately opened the door, not noticing that there was another person beside Julian Graham.

Natalie Spears narrowed her eyes, no wonder Julian Graham could enter the laboratory so smoothly. So, he was going through the side door?!

She was still wondering why Julian Graham could easily enter the experimental building, even though she had already tightened her defense and specifically instructed the bodyguard in front of the gate?

She even had her bodyguard carefully check the surveillance video of the gate and didn't see Julian Graham at all.

So Julian Graham walked directly through the side door?!

The side door of the experimental building was extremely secret, precisely because the vast majority of people cannot find it, and Philip Johnson did not add more personnel, only sent a bodyguard at the side door.

It seemed that this bodyguard had obviously been bribed by Julian Graham and must not be left behind.

Julian Graham walked out of the door and looked back at Natalie Spears, who was standing in the same place with a complex expression.

She must be regret.

His face was cold and he glanced at the woman before getting into the car.

He pulled Natalie Spears out of the laboratory because he was afraid that she would make mistakes and offend Doctor Nancy. Now that Natalie Spears had come out, he didn't need to have any further contact with her.

With Natalie Spears's temperament, every contact made her daydream.

He won't give Natalie Spears any hope.

Gave her a thought, and when faced with reality afterwards, she would only be more hurt.

The assistant saw the CEO sitting in the car, started the engine, and saw Natalie Spears again in the rearview mirror. He silently glanced at Natalie Spears standing at the door.

This scene seemed a bit familiar.

At the the Graham family banquet, Natalie Spears seemed to be standing at the entrance of Graham's house like this, silently watching the CEO?

He don't know why, but there was a hint of pity and sympathy in the assistant's eyes.

In love, the pain felt by the person who was not loved was very heartbreaking.

Miss Spears loved the CEO too much, but unfortunately, the CEO loved Miss Linch. Miss Spears was infatuated with the wrong person.

“Leave or not?” Julian Graham’s voice was cold.

The assistant regained consciousness and said, “Sorry, let’s go now.”

Although he was already standing on Miss Linch’s side, seeing Natalie Spears with a complex face standing at the door, he still felt a bit pitiful for her.

The assistant quietly glanced at the gloomy CEO, and carefully asked “CEO, why is Miss Spears here?”

He was wondering if he could bring Miss Spears into the car as well?

Julian Graham sat in the car, his face complex, pondering why he hadn’t seen Doctor Nancy twice in a row.

What’s wrong?

Upon hearing the assistant’s question, he suddenly had a question in his mind.

How did Natalie Spears enter the laboratory in front of him? How did an orphan get into the laboratory?

She had neither connections nor family background, so it was impossible for her to master the methods of entering the laboratory like him.

Did Natalie Spears have any secrets?

Julian Graham’s eyes narrowed.

The assistant saw that Julian Graham not only didn’t answer, but his face became even more gloomy. He couldn’t help but tremble and swallow the following words into his throat.

The next day, inside the villa.

Natalie Spears had just woken up when she received a message from Ryan Swan.

She casually ordered it while eating breakfast.

Doctor, the authorization letter we sent to Graham Group has been rejected. What should we do?

Natalie Spears was surprised to see the content of the news.

Had Julian Graham rejected the authorization letter delivered to him? What? He didn't even want a power of attorney?

Didn't he come to the laboratory several times in a row just for the authorization letter? Julian Graham was foolish, right?

How could it be rejected?

Natalie Spears posted the doubts in her mind..

Julian Graham should not be so foolish, it was highly likely that there were other reasons?

Not long after, Ryan Swan's message was sent again.

I just inquired and the sender told me that Graham Group does not accept anonymous packages.

Natalie Spears's eyes narrowed. Since when has Graham stopped accepting anonymous packages? She remembered that Graham Group used to collect it.

Doctor, do we still need to resend one?

She pursed her lips, without any hesitation in her mind, and then returned the information.

Re-mailing

Just fill in Natalie Spears's name.

Since she had already weighed in her mind and decided to give the authorization letter to Julian Graham, she would not change it now.

Despite everything Julian Graham did the day before yesterday and yesterday, she felt very offended.

But this was for Henry Graham, and compared to Henry Graham, she could completely ignore everything

Julian Graham did.

As for risking from Julian Graham by filling in her name on the mailed package. So easily revealing clues, she had her own plan in mind.

Ryan Swan saw a strange name sent by the doctor – Natalie Spears.

He paused with a puzzled look in his eyes, wanting to ask who Natalie Spears was Before he could speak, the doctor's message was sent over. Natalie Spears is my name.

It seemed that she had fully understood his thoughts.

Natalie Spears? Ryan Swan silently recited the name once in his heart.

So the doctor's name is Natalie Spears.

Okay. Ryan Swan replied.

He thought for a moment and added. If you don't mail the anonymous package, it will be delivered to Graham.

Group soon.

I should send it today and arrive tomorrow. He remembered the doctor said it would be better as soon as possible.

Natalie Spears replied with a "good" gesture

She just wanted to send it away early and got it over with.

Chapter 59 The authorization letter was obtained by Niki Lynch

Julian Graham sat in the car, his eyebrows furrowed and his face gloomy, as if he had countless melancholy. The cold face was even more intimidating due to its gloomy expression.

It was obvious that not finding Dr. Nancy twice in a row had made his mood exceptionally poor.

The assistant drove the car cautiously, fearing that a careless move would anger the CEO.

The phone bell suddenly rang, appearing unusually abrupt in the thick and gloomy atmosphere of the car.

The assistant suddenly heard his phone ring in such a quiet environment, and his heart trembled. He couldn't help but silently “mourn” for the caller.

Julian Graham answered the phone and said, “Julian, where are you? Hassan hasn’t seen you for several days.”

Niki Linch’s sweet voice came.

The assistant was relieved that it was Niki Linch on the phone, that’s good!

He had never seen the CEO get angry with Niki Linch before. Niki Linch might even make the CEO feel better, so he wouldn’t suffer.

Julian Graham’s voice did not fluctuate. “Outside, the company is very busy.”

“Hassan goes to help you! Hassan hasn’t seen Julian for several days, I really miss you.”

“I’m not available,.” Julian Graham said in short words, indicating the man’s extremely bad mood as he twisted his brow.

The matter of authorization left him feeling extremely anxious.

Niki Linch heard Julian Graham’s clearly unhappy tone on the other end of the phone. From Julian Graham’s performance, she already understood that the crisis Graham had encountered this time was very serious.

Last time Niki Linch came to Graham Group, she leaned over and listened outside the door, roughly understanding what difficulties Graham was facing this time.

If she rashly ask Julián Graham about the company, he obviously wouldn’t say these things to her, just to reassure her.

She needed an opportunity.

The opportunity to help Graham overcome the crisis.

She had abandoned everything abroad, and if she missed him again, she would have nothing, and she absolutely cannot accept it!

She can't even watch Natalie Spears take over the position of President Graham's wife as a substitute!

Niki Lynch continued in a coquettish voice, "Julian, Hassan knows that you are busy with work, and I also want to help you."

Helping Graham overcome this crisis could help Linda Mills not focus on her past affairs, otherwise she might not be able to marry into the the Graham family.

When Niki Lynch came to the the Graham family before, she deliberately pretended to open the door unintentionally, just to let the the Graham family know of her existence. The more the Graham family members know, the better.

She wanted the Graham family to be disrupted by this, at least letting them know her existence, so that she could win some chances for herself.

If the the Graham family members were unaware of her existence, she would never be able to marry into the the Graham family.

She can't be so foolish as to wait for Julian Graham to take her to Graharn's house, she couldn't wait! She wanted to fight for herself at all costs, not just sit idly by!

"You can't help it." Julian Graham's voice was cold, as if he suddenly felt that his tone was a bit off. Then he added, "There's nothing big about the company, you don't have to worry."

Upon hearing this answer, Niki Lynch's lips lit up with a smile.

Julian Graham was indeed as she thought! He clearly had her in his heart.

"I can help." Niki Lynch smiled lightly, her tone warm and gentle, but inexplicably made Julian Graham feel a hint of firmness.

"How can you help?" Julian Graham said in a somewhat gentle tone.

Niki Lynch's heart was filled with joy, and her tone was cheerful. "I have something for you that can be of great help to Graham Group. Julian, please wait."

From the time she clearly saw that Rudy Graham had found her, but the Graham family did not make any movement. She was inexplicably flustered, afraid that she would not be able to marry into the the Graham family, so she began to prepare this thing.

She put in a lot of effort to get this thing! Graham Group had definitely contributed to Niki Lynch's success in overcoming this crisis!

Thinking in this way, Niki Lynch seemed to be able to see the grand scene of marrying into the the Graham family.

Upon hearing this, Julian Graham turned his gaze to the night outside the car window, and his expression remained unchanged. "Then come to the company tomorrow," he said.

"It's too late today."

Niki Lynch just came to send him some cakes and to relax his mood.

He didn't expect Niki Lynch to bring him any surprises to help Graham Group, but after all, she was also trying to give him some comfort.

Furthermore, he promised his grandfather not to divorce Natalie Spears for the time being in order to secure

Chanter 59

let fly"

the position of President Graham. He also felt guilty and didn't want to let Niki down.

Niki Lynch pondered for a moment, then agreed with a worried tone, "Okay, Julian, don't be too tired. Hassan will be very worried about you."

"Hmm." The man's voice was faint, and then he hung up the phone.

Seeing the CEO hang up, the assistant looked at him from the mirror. Although Julian Graham's expression was not as gloomy as it had just been, it still carried an indescribable emotion..

When the assistant saw Julian Graham's current appearance, he suddenly felt that the rich must have some difficulties he didn't know.

Even for magnates, they were hierarchical.

In the class of Los Angeles, the Graham family was undoubtedly the most top-notch, especially Julian Graham.

He was undoubtedly at the top of the food chain, standing in a position that ordinary people would never reach in their lifetime, but there were also inevitable costs, right?

The next morning, downstairs of Graham Group.

A man in a courier suit walked into Graham Group and delivered a package to the front desk. "Hello, this is a package sent to President Graham. Could you please sign for it?"

The receptionist raised her eyes in response, and she looked at the unattractive package with a nonchalant tone. "Who sent it?"

At the same time, Niki Linch was wearing a white dress with long hair flowing down her shoulders and appeared at the entrance of Graham Group.

Upon closer inspection, there was a hint of pride in her eyes.

"Let me take a look, it's a package sent by Miss Natalie Spears." The man picked up the package and glanced at it, then gave the name of the sender.

The man's voice was not loud, but the words Natalie Spears he uttered fell straight into Niki Linch's ear.

Niki Linch's eyes almost instantly deepened. Her eyebrows furrowed slightly, and she turned to look at the package on the front stage with a hint of disgust.

How could Natalie Spears be so shameless and even give something to Julian Graham?!

Why did she always expect things she shouldn't have? Shouldn't she think about whether she's entitled to something before she gave it away?

She was just a stand-in!

Niki Lynch's originally bright face suddenly changed, and she walked towards the front desk with a gloomy face.

90 125

The man who was mailing the package was handing it to the front desk when Niki Lynch's delicate figure suddenly appeared in front of him and snatched the package away.

The package suddenly appeared in Niki Lynch's hand.

The man's face was stunned, his eyes full of surprise.

How could someone be so blatantly robbing things? Or a woman with such a pure appearance? It was really the first time.

This package was specially instructed by the customer at a high price that it must be undamaged and delivered to Graham Group without any accidents. He cannot afford to make mistakes.

The man's expression turned serious. Miss, could you please return the package to me."

Niki Lynch ignored, her eyes were all on the package, full of disgust.

The front desk was suddenly taken away with the package, and she also raised her eyes in response, clearly seeing a familiar face.

wasn't this Mr. Graham's girlfriend? Should be surnamed Lynch?

She almost offended her last time. She must not offend her again this time.

The front desk hurriedly put on a very familiar smile, and her face was attentive, "Miss Linch, why are you here?"

Chapter 60 What secrets does she have?

When Niki Linch heard the flattering voice from the front desk, she looked up impatiently. Her usual clear eyes were now full of pride.

She just glanced impatiently, didn't pay any attention to the front desk, and then played with the package with anger, her eyes dark.

Completely lacking the purity and sweetness of the past.

The receptionist stood awkwardly aside.

The man in charge of the delivery wanted to say something more, "Miss..." but was interrupted by the receptionist.

"This is Mr. Graham's girlfriend, just give her the package." The receptionist tone was urgent, and she looked at the man with a voice that couldn't be ignored, as if inviting credit.

The man looked up carefully at Niki Linch, as if unsure.

"The things inside are very valuable. Are you sure she's Mr. Graham's girlfriend? What should we do if something goes wrong?" The man spoke with suspicion and clearly didn't believe it.

When Niki Linch heard the man's words, Natalie Spears sent a very valuable item?

Niki Linch's face became complex.

She didn't originally want to open it, but now she has changed her mind.

She wanted to see what valuable thing it was!

She reached out to the package with a fair hand and said to the front desk, "Give me a knife."

The front desk just listened to the person's words and became somewhat hesitant. If it was really a very valuable package that was opened without the permission of the president, she would not be responsible for anything that happened.

If the CEO blamed her, she wouldn't be able to keep the job she barely managed to keep.

Seeing that there was no action at the receptionists, Niki Linch's eyes were cold and her tone was not kind.

"Can't you hear me? I need a knife now. Don't you want to stay at Graham's anymore."

The receptionist's gaze flickered slightly, hesitating for a while before finally feeling overwhelmed and handed the knife to Niki Linch, with a tone full of flattery. "Please pay attention to your hands, may I help you?"

Better please Mr. Graham's girlfriend first!

To provoke Mr. Graham's girlfriend, she also had no good result.

Niki Linch snorted coldly, took the knife and was about to open the package. The man was in a hurry and ran forward to snatch the package.

"What are you doing?"

Niki Linch's voice was a bit loud, causing the bodyguard at the door to look at her. The bodyguard's hand had already touched the walkie talkie at her waist, as if to report to her superiors.

"I'm not sure of your identity. You better not take this package." The man's expression was hesitant.

Niki Linch noticed the eyes and movements of the bodyguard at the door. She didn't want to cause trouble to Julian Graham, as she had just lost control of her emotions. When it came to Julian Graham's ears, it would shatter her image that she had worked hard to maintain.

She suppressed her anger and on second thought, what valuable things could an orphan have?

But it was just something worthless.

She didn't need to set up her own hard maintained persona for something worthless.

Niki Linch didn't choose to ask for a package from the man thinking of this. Natalie Spears couldn't even give anything worth.

Just as she was about to give up, she heard Julian Graham's helpful voice, "Miss Linch, why didn't you tell me in advance when you came? I'll come and pick you up."

The assistant came out of the elevator, his face full of laughter.

The CEO asked himself to wait for Miss Linch downstairs in advance. Unexpectedly, as soon as he opened the door, he saw that Miss Linch was already standing at the reception. He was afraid that if Niki Linch was in a hurry, he would be scolded.

When he walked up to Niki Linch, he realized that the atmosphere was a bit out of place, and Niki Linch still had the lingering anger on her face.

The assistant looked reproachfully at the front desk and said, "What's going on?"

Miss Linch wants to open Mr. Graham's package." The receptionist truthfully informed him.

"Then dismantle it, Miss Linch can dismantle whatever she wants!" The assistant spoke with a tone of hatred, as if warning the front desk not to provoke the woman in front of her.

The assistant took the package directly from the man's hand.

The man recognized the assistant in front of him and knew he was the assistant of President Graham, who had come several times to pick up the package.

It seemed that the person who snatched the package was really President Graham's girlfriend.

Niki Linch didn't answer. Her eyebrows were disdainful, and she said with some arrogance, "No need."

The assistant's hand reached out in mid air and upon hearing this, he collected the package again.

"No need?"

Miss Linch was angry?

Niki Linch didn't speak, she took a step and entered the elevator. The assistant didn't have time to put down the package and quickly followed up.

Quickly arriving at Julian Graham's office, Niki Linch pushed the door and entered, followed by his assistant.

However, he placed the package behind Julian Graham's desk and carefully exited the door.

Niki Linch was clearly a bit angry, he didn't dare to stay inside and mix in.

Julian Graham raised his eyes when he heard the sound. He glanced faintly at Niki Linch and then lowered.

his head to review the document.

After Niki Linch entered the room, she just sat on the sofa across from her desk, her face cold and silent.

After a while, Julian Graham realized something was wrong.

In the past, when Hassan came to the company, her face was cheerful and full of vitality, as if she had endless words to say to him. Why haven't she spoken for half a day today?

"Didn't you say you wanted to surprise me?" Julian Graham looked up and spoke first.

Niki Linch's face was bulging, and she slightly pouted her mouth. "I unilaterally cancelled your surprise."

Julian Graham raised his eyebrows, perhaps amused. "Why?"

Niki Linch looked aggrieved and said, "It's just cancelled, there's no reason."

Julian Graham didn't speak, his gaze turned to the package on the desk, which was Natalie Spears?

Niki Linch stole a glance at Julian Graham and saw that he had already seen the package. She spoke jealously, "Natalie is getting divorced with you and still thinking about you. She must love you very much."

"I don't know how many times Natalie has sent things. Julian must have received them all, right?"

"Is Hassan not supposed to exist? I really bothers you." Lin Niki's voice was sad and aggrieved, as if the vinegar jar had been knocked over.

She would never let Julian Graham take anything from Natalie Spears!

Natalie Spears's things were extremely dirty.

Niki Linch felt aggrieved on her face, but she thought so in her heart.

Julian Graham recognized Niki Linch's meaning and spoke calmly, "This is Natalie Spears's first time sending. something."

"There is no relationship between us."

Upon hearing Julian Graham's steadfast words, Niki Linch blinked her clear eyes and decisively took it easy.

"Well, Niki believes in Julian."

"But can I take a look at what's in this package?" Niki Linch lowered her tone with sincerity.

Julian Graham opened the package.

Chapter 60

secrets does she have?.

The package was carefully sealed, and Julian Graham opened it layer by layer, with a paper material inside.

Julian Graham's eyebrows furrowed slightly, how could it be made of paper material? He had already taken the divorce agreement from Natalie Spears, so what's this?

He took out the paper material and his eyes probably scanned the paper. Was this the authorization letter from Glory Group?!

Julian Graham's face was surprised, with an incredulous expression on his face. It was actually sent by Natalie Spears?!

What secret was there in Natalie Spears?

How could she have an authorization letter? Did she have any other identity?

Niki Linch saw the shocked expression on Julian Graham's face, and she quickly stepped forward, her gaze also fixed on the paper material.

Authorization letter?!

It was still sent by Natalie Spears!