

Chapter 10

When Olivia saw Lindsay confront her head-on, she couldn't help but feel a thrill. It was great that Lindsay was getting easier to provoke.

With a hurt expression, Olivia said to Lindsay, "I'm sorry, I didn't know you disliked these living conditions. I thought you would go along with the show's arrangements and stay with us."

This implied that Lindsay couldn't handle hardship and was complaining about the accommodations.

Alex frowned at Lindsay and said, "If you don't want to stay, just say so. There's no need to talk to Via like that."

Lindsay's jealousy was too strong; she couldn't stand Olivia and didn't even care about the setting.

Alex continued, "The show said from the start that we'd be filming in the countryside. If you aren't comfortable with the conditions, you shouldn't have come."

Why did she even bother causing a fuss with the family to get this spot?

Lindsay raised an eyebrow at Olivia. "When did I say I disliked the living conditions, refused to follow the show's arrangements, or didn't want to stay?"

Then she looked coldly at Alex. "I only expressed my own wish for your sister not to speak for me. Is that wrong? You want to protect your sister, that's your business. But don't twist others' words and take sides unfairly.

"Also, your opinion isn't law here. This isn't your home, and no one has to cater to you two."

Elric, enjoying the drama, whistled. "Well said. No one here is obligated to pamper you."

Alex glared at Elric for stirring things up, then unhappily turned to Lindsay. "What do you mean, then?"

Lindsay pointed to the beds in the room. "These beds only have wooden planks. There are no mattresses or bedding. How are we supposed to sleep?"

"You siblings can endure hardship and sleep on bare wooden beds for a week. But I can't. I can't sleep on that for a week. That's why I asked your sister not to speak for me.

"What I originally meant was for us to discuss with the production team about providing mattresses and bedding."

This left Alex and Olivia at a loss for words, especially Olivia, who felt embarrassed by Lindsay's sarcasm.

She had only wanted to show that she could endure hardship and follow the arrangements, without noticing that the beds lacked essentials and were impossible to sleep on.

Lindsay had seized this oversight to criticize her.

Elric laughed. "I couldn't even tolerate sleeping on bare wooden planks for a day, let alone a week."

Wendy added, "Sorry, I couldn't do it either."

They couldn't possibly sleep on these bare wooden beds for a week.

Chapter 10

Despite it being summer, the weather wasn't all that warm there, and it would cool down at night. So, they'd need something to keep warm and prevent catching a cold.

Plus, sleeping directly on the wooden planks would surely leave them feeling sore in the morning.

Olivia really didn't think it through before speaking up.

Leslie also spoke up, "I can't do it either. After a few days, our bodies won't be able to take it."

She hadn't intended to intervene, but if they didn't talk to the production team and let Olivia make the decision to sleep like this for a week, who could endure it?

This wasn't about being delicate or able to endure hardship; it was about practicality.

Olivia didn't expect her words to upset everyone. She silently cursed Lindsay, blaming her for stirring things up.

With her eyes slightly red, Olivia bit her lip and said, "Sorry, I didn't think about the bedding."

She added, "I meant that even if there are no wardrobes or tables, if the male guests can stay here, so can we female guests. All of you had misunderstood me."

Growing up as a pampered heiress in the Harper family, Olivia had her beds made and changed by maids, so she never considered the need for bedding.

Chapter 10

Seeing Olivia like this, Alex, looking pained, comforted her. "You were raised in luxury, so it's normal not to think of these things."

Lindsay looked at Olivia and said, "I didn't say much just now, yet you're already tearing up. You're making it look like I bullied you. I was simply speaking the truth, so please don't blame me unfairly."

When Lindsay was in the Harper family, Olivia often acted this way. A few words would make her eyes red, making it seem like Lindsay had bullied her, even though she hadn't done anything.

Despite the Harper family's presence, they would still blame Lindsay indiscriminately, thinking she couldn't tolerate or was bullying their precious Olivia.

Seeing Olivia pull the same stunt again, Lindsay decided to call her out on it.

Once the truth about their relationship comes out, Olivia's habit of repeatedly playing the victim will definitely be exposed by keen-eyed netizens.

Lindsay had planned from the start how to dig pits for Alex and Olivia. Of course, this was also because the two of them were relentless and kept picking on her. If they quietly participated in the show, they wouldn't fall into these traps.

As for the criticisms, she didn't care. Alex and Olivia's fans had always disliked her anyway. The harsher the criticism now, the more dramatic the turnaround would be later.

Indeed, at this moment, Alex and Olivia's fans were attacking Lindsay in the live comments.

"How could Lindsay be so over the top, constantly bullying our angel?"

"Exactly, she's almost made our angel cry."

"Our angel was raised in luxury, it's normal for her not to notice these things. Does Lindsay have to be so relentless?"

"Lindsay is so arrogant. Who says she doesn't have to cater to the siblings? She isn't qualified to cater to Lex and our angel."

"It feels like she's deliberately targeting Lex and our angel. It's really annoying."

"She must have tried to flirt with Lex and got rejected, so now she's jealous and picking on our angel."

"Seeing our angel about to cry makes me feel so heartbroken."

"Yeah, Lindsay is so mean."

Lindsay's fans were speechless as they watched Alex and Olivia's fans rant.

"Why should your angel represent all the guests?"

"Exactly, you guys are the arrogant ones."

"Lindsay was just telling the truth. How is that bullying your angel?"

"There's nothing on the wooden beds, they are impossible to sleep on. How is that finding fault?"

However, Lindsay had far fewer fans than the two of them, and soon her supporters' comments were drowned out by the criticism.

Chapter 10

Elric's fans, seeing this, couldn't stand it any longer.

"You think your angel isn't the real schemer?"

"I think that so-called angel is just pretending to be innocent. She hinted that Lindsay couldn't handle hardship and then played the victim when she was called out."

"Being raised in luxury isn't an excuse to shirk responsibility."

"Who isn't raised in comfort these days?"

"Lindsay was just telling the truth without being harsh. How is that bullying?"

"In contrast, Olivia has been putting on an act since the live stream started."

"The Harper siblings' fans are just like them—pretentious and hypocritical."

"Lindsay is right. This so-called innocent girl is just playing the victim, and she even tried to do the same with EL."

"And they call her an angel. That persona is ridiculous."

"I prefer Lindsay. She's straightforward and not pretentious, unlike this so-called angel."

Elric's fans outnumbered those of the Harper siblings combined and were much more blunt and sharp-tongued, quickly overwhelming the other side.

While the comment section was a battlefield, the atmosphere in the
