

Chapter 30

Eddy watched anxiously as the two celebrities swam closer to the boys. Though tense, he no longer impulsively attempted to jump in.

He realized that it was too late for him to make any difference and could only hope that the two celebrities could bring the boys back safely.

It dawned on him why Lindsay had jumped into the water as soon as she reached the reservoir. She had predicted that the boys would be in danger soon.

Others also began to understand why Lindsay had seemingly jumped into the water for no reason when the boys appeared to be fine.

Charles, though not at the reservoir, had been closely monitoring the live stream. When he saw Lindsay suddenly jump into the water, he knew something serious was up.

Lindsay was not only skilled in face reading but also proficient in other mystical arts. His wife had once been saved during an accident because of a talisman Lindsay had given her.

Realizing the gravity of the situation, he immediately called the head of the medical team to prepare for a rescue operation.

When he saw Elric also jump into the water, his expression changed. "What's he doing in there too?"

If anything happened to him, it would be disastrous for the show and for everyone involved.

Meanwhile, Lindsay and Elric managed to swim quickly towards the boys before the situation worsened.

As the boys were being swept away by the current, Lindsay reached one of them just in time and grabbed hold of him.

Elric, although a bit slower, also managed to grab the other boy.

With the boys in tow, they quickly swam back toward the shore. Everyone on the bank held their breath, watching them anxiously.

Following the director's orders, the crew quickly broke off a long branch to help pull them in.

Lindsay swam steadily toward the shore, expertly navigating the waves that threatened to sweep them away. With her strength and skill, she managed to reach the edge of the reservoir.

She pushed the child onto the bank and grabbed the branch extended by the crew, ready to pull herself up.

Suddenly, a shout rang out, "Ah, Elric!"

Lindsay turned to see Elric, who had just pushed the other child onto the shore.

The current was even stronger now, and before he could grab the branch offered by the crew, a large wave swept him away.

Without hesitation, Lindsay let go of the branch and swam towards Elric.

Seeing Lindsay abandon her own safety to save Elric, most people on the shore thought she was crazy.

This scene was also witnessed by Alex and the others who had just arrived. They had spent the entire morning looking for a family that needed help picking fruit and had finally found one.

So, they followed her to the orchard and saw Lindsay running in a specific direction.

Then they noticed Elric and the others chasing after her one by one. Thinking something was wrong, they also ran after them.

When they arrived, they saw Lindsay and Elric pulling two kids out of the reservoir.

But before they could fully process what was happening, Lindsay abandoned her chance to get out and swam back to save Elric.

"Lindsay/Linds!"

Alex and Justin's expressions changed, and they instinctively ran towards the shore.

Olivia noticed their urgent reactions and her eyes darkened. She felt increasingly irritated.

Watching Elric being swept away, then disappearing under the water, and seeing Lindsay dive in after him, she thought Lindsay was foolish for risking her life.

With the reservoir's gates open, the water was turbulent and fierce. In her mind, there was no way Lindsay and Elric could survive being swept away by the current. 1
