Chapter 1111 | Almost Strangled Him to Death

“What was I doing? I almost strangled him to death. What’s even more shocking is that Gilbert didn’t put up a fight the entire time. If I was holding a knife instead of strangling him with my hands, wouldn’t he have died in my hands? Kisa thought.

Kisa quickly let go of Gilbert, and she fell onto the bed in distress. Then, she hugged her head in agony. She felt tormented and condemned by the hate and confrontation coming from the baby and Jensen.

‘I don’t know what to do anymore,’ thought Kisa.

Kisa was conflicted and in agony.

I thought of getting revenge for them and for myself. It’s not like I’m being soft-hearted toward this man on purpose. I also didn’t forget about my hatred on purpose. Gilbert’s just way too nice to me. He’s so nice that I’m a little lost, and I started to doubt the “truth” that’s right in front of me. I really don’t know what to do anymore,’ she thought again.

Gilbert coughed for a while before sitting up on the bed.

She snorted sardonically, "How thoughtful of you. You figured that Kisa would call me and ask, so you drugged my drink. You got some nerve!"

"I had no choice because it was my last resort. You're always soft-hearted when it comes to Kisa," Shaun said. He turned to Jensen and said, "Sir, I know she's the woman you care about the most, so don't worry. I only made her put on a show in front of Gilbert with me. I didn't do anything to her."

Jensen sat on the couch and smoked a cigarette. His once elegant face now looked cold and ruthless.

"I'm angry because you didn't even discuss your plan with me before you executed it," he said casually.

Mia immediately froze and turned to him.

'Shaun did something like that to Kisa, yet Jensen's angrier about Shaun not discussing the plan with him and not because Kisa almost got "molested" by Shaun? Jensen, oh, Jensen. Are you really this cruel and heartless now?' Mia wondered.

Jensen exhaled a smoke ring and casually glanced at the injury on the man's face. "What was the outcome of your plan last night?"

After a long time, Jensen stood up and said, "Enough. Don't take such actions by yourself next time." Then, he went out of the room.

In dismay, Shaun stared at Kisa, who looked like she was fine on screen. If she really isn't pregnant, then what I did last night was just unnecessary!

"I worked so hard to let you in GK and go undercover, but you managed to ruin it. You're doing us more harm than good, Shaun," Mia walked up to him and sneered.

"Shut up!" he violently yelled at her. 'Not only was everything I did last night in vain, but the injury I suffered was also in vain?!' Shaun gritted his teeth and stared fiercely at the screen. 'F*ck! I won't be happy if I don't avenge myself.'

Reporters gathered at the entrance of the set, asking Kisa question after question. "Mrs. Kooper, although Mr. Kooper told us not to be here, we're still curious. When is the expected date of your baby's birth?"

Kisa watched out for Sharon throughout the day. She even asked Jolina and Ariella to keep an eye on her. 'I must get back at her this time,' she thought. Otherwise, she would never be afraid of me. However, Sharon was very well-behaved the whole day. She did not even approach Kisa once. During their lunch break, Jolina went to Kisa and said in a low voice, "I just took some pictures of Sharon."

“What kind of pictures?” Kisa hurriedly asked as her eyes lit up. Jolina glanced at Sharon and saw that she was far away from them, so she took out her phone and showed it to Kisa. Jolina had taken a picture of Sharon talking to one of the cleaners behind a bush. She even successfully took a video of them. In the video, Sharon handed a black bucket to the cleaner. They did not know what was inside the bucket, but it was clear that Sharon was trying to pull a stunt.

“Great job, Jolina. Do you have any more scenes later?” Kisa smiled at her and asked.

“Not today,” Jolina replied.

After Kisa finished speaking, Sharon’s face turned dark. Kisa smirked coldly as she made the woman in front of her jealous. ‘Let’s see if that will piss her off,’ she thought. Sharon stared at her stomach fiercely. Her gaze was so vicious that it looked like she would rush up at any moment and try to hurt her. However, she just sneered, “Don’t be too proud, Kisa. We still don’t know if you could deliver that baby smoothly.”

“Oh no, are you saying that because you want to harm my unborn child?” Kisa decided to test the waters by pretending to be afraid.

“I didn’t say that,” Sharon pursed her lips and replied. “Accidents happen, my dear sister. If your child is gone, it would just be another accident in this world.”

“Okay, it’s getting late. I should go back,” she chuckled as she glanced at Kisa’s tummy in disdain. After that, she walked toward the dressing room. The dressing rooms on set were connected in a row. The main actors had their own cubicles while the supporting actors had to share one cubicle.

Chapter 1116 An Unexpected Misfortune

“What are you guys doing just standing around?! Quick! Call 911!” The director yelled as he took out his phone to call an ambulance. At that moment, Sharon went into the room carefully on her tiptoes, as she was afraid of falling. “Oh no, Kisa. Are you okay? What will happen to Mr. Kooper’s child? Will they be okay?”

“Shut your filthy mouth!” The director yelled at Sharon immediately. He was panicking because Gilbert had told him to keep an eye on Kisa. Now that something serious had happened to her, he did not know how he should face him. ‘What an unexpected misfortune!’

Soon, an ambulance arrived and took Kisa to the nearest hospital. It was as if she was not satisfied. Sharon tagged along and pretended to comfort Kisa on the way to the hospital, wanting to ensure that her baby was gone. “Don’t worry, sis. Everything will be okay.” Seeing that Kisa was bleeding profusely, Sharon. was elated.

“Hurry! Take the patient to the emergency room!” At that moment, a deep voice sounded, and Sharon’s brows furrowed at the familiar voice. She looked out of the ambulance to take a look and saw that it was Kelvin. “Huh? What are you doing here, Kelvin?” She could not help but ask with a frown.

"There's no need to act so guilty if it really wasn't you, Ms. Case," George said.

"I... I'm not. I'm just curious about the evidence she has on me since I'm not the one who did it," Sharon replied with a stiff look on her face. "It better not be you, or else you're dead," Madalyn snorted at her coldly.

After she finished speaking, she took Jolina's phone and looked at the proof she had. All the pictures and videos were taken very clearly. As Madalyn looked at the evidence, her face distorted with anger. She glared at Sharon fiercely and said, "You b*tch. What else do you have to say for yourself? If anything happens to my precious great-grandchild, I'll kill you myself."

Sharon turned pale. "Grandma, those pieces of evidence are fake. They're trying to slander me. Please. They're fake!" At that moment, the door to the emergency room opened. Madalyn hurried over and realized that it was Kelvin.

Christopher's expression changed. Before he could say anything, a few police officers were already coming their way.

Sharon panicked and tugged on Carolyn's arm. "Mom, I don't want to go to jail. Help me, Mom. Help me."

Carolyn held Sharon back and said to Madalyn, "What proof do you have that my daughter is responsible for that bitch's miscarriage?"

"I have the proof," Madalyn said with a straight face and glanced toward the phone in George's hand.

Carolyn had a brainstorm and quickly said, "What evidence? Show me and don't fabricate evidence to frame my daughter."

Madalyn had just called out once and George immediately got the hint and handed Jolina a sum of cash." You use this money to buy yourself a new phone," Madalyn said to Jolina.

"It's okay. It's okay." Jolina quickly waved her hand. "I'll just wait for the police to return the phone to me." But, George had shoved a stack of money into her hand. It was enough for her to buy not one but several high-end phones.

After Madalyn and George had left, Jolina looked at Kisa. Although Kisa was faking her miscarriage, none of the people who came were genuinely concerned about her. All of them only cared about the 'baby'. And now, they all left without even asking about her condition. So, Jolina was a little upset, feeling sorry for Kisa. She walked over and held Kisa's hand. "What do we do now? Should we go home or stay in the hospital?"

"Of course, staying in the hospital-we need to give a full performance."

Kelvin stood by with his arms folded in front of his chest. "Then, Sharon is in deep sh*t. She is going to jail for sure as long as grandma won't let up."

Chapter 1120 If It's Gone, It's Gone

Gilbert was burying his head in documents when a cry of grief came, startling him. He looked up, only to see Madalyn walk briskly in with George's help.

Davian rushed over to help Madalyn. "What happened, Mrs. Kooper Sr.?"

"Gilbert, the baby is no more. My precious great-grandchild is no more," Madalyn said with sorrow.

Davian's expression abruptly changed." What do you mean? You mean Andrew and Ada-

Madalyn hurriedly pushed Davian away in disgust and shouted angrily, "Shut the hell up! Stop cursing my precious great-grandchildren here." She shot a glare at Davian for good measure.

Davian had an innocent look on his face. What have I said wrong? It was she who said that her precious great-grandchild was no more, for God's sake."

Gilbert got up and walked over to help Madalyn sit down on the couch. "If it's gone, it's gone. The pregnancy was just an accident, anyway. It is enough that we have Andrew and Ada."
