Chapter 1291 Who Dares Hit My Woman?

“Who dares hit my woman?” The voice was calm and unhurried, containing a trace of intimidation. Everyone looked at the entrance and saw Gilbert walking in with his back against the light.

Kisa looked dumbfounded, not expecting Gilbert to be here. She wondered if he had guessed she was here or if it was just a coincidence

Gilbert’s voice was intimidating, his presence even more so. Jane’s hand stopped in mid-air as Gilbert approached. He stood behind Kisa like an immovable mountain, narrowing his cold eyes at Jane shuddered involuntarily Gilbert had stayed in the Mullen residence for a few days and was humble and polite. But at this moment, that grim look in his eyes really frightened her She hurriedly withdrew her hand and took a couple of steps back.

Gilbert stared at her and said slowly, “Who did you just try to hit? My wife?”

Jane had just come out when she heard what the bouncer said. She trembled with fear thinking that by suddenly asking her and Anthony to go home, her husband must have heard about what had happened today.

This is not good. He must be furious now and may even kick me and Anthony out of the Mullen family

“Let’s go, Madam, Mr Mullen.”

Anthony did not move but stared morosely at Kisa.

Kisa was shocked and frowned at Gilbert "What are you doing? Put me down," she said, hurriedly looking around. It was embarrassing to be carried by a man like this.

Gilbert said nothing, silently carrying her to the car He then walked around the front of the car and got behind the wheel.

Kisa glared at him. "What the hell do you want? I told you I'm going to the hospital."

"I know I'll drive you there." Gilbert said with an expressionless face.

Chapter 1294 Overly Calm

Kisa’s heart sank. “So, how is she? Does she have any unusual symptoms?”

“No. She only kept asking how her baby was and was a bit emotional when she woke up. I called the doctor, and the doctor told her that the baby was gone. Then she became quiet instead and didn’t cry. You should go in and see her She must be very strong. Her child is gone, but she didn’t cry.”

Kisa’s heart stopped when she heard what the caregiver said. She cares so much about the baby in her womb. The baby is gone, and the culprits are Anthony and Karen. She couldn’t possibly have no reaction. The quieter Lea was, the more Kisa felt uneasy.

When Kisa opened the door, she saw Lea sitting on the bed with her eyes looking out the window It was dark outside now, and there was nothing to see. She did not notice and had no reaction when Kisa walked in.

“Lea... Kisa went over and called out to her. As if Lea had not heard, she remained motionless Kisa pursed her lips and walked around the bed to stand in front of her Lea’s face looked pale, so much so that the red and swollen slap mark became even more apparent. There was no expression on Lea’s face, and she was still looking out the window with vacant eyes. Kisa looked at her and felt a lump in her throat She sat on the edge of the bed, gently stroked the corner of Lea’s forehead, and whispered, “Lea.”

Kisa looked sideways and saw that it was Gilbert.

“What do you guys want to eat? I will go downstairs and get it,” Gilbert said.

Kisa frowned and wondered if he had been outside eavesdropping. She shook Lea’s hand and asked her, “What do you want to eat? Gilbert will go get it But Lea just shook her head. So Kisa decided on her own. “Get some light food up here, please

Gilbert, looking as patronizingly indifferent as ever, turned around and went out Once again, Kisa mentally scoffed at his unlikable personality

Kisa shook her head in disbelief. “I don’t know. I have irregular periods. I had bled like this the other day, but it cleared up a day after I got a jab and took some medication. It has only been ten days. Why is it bleeding again?” Kisa mumbled in confusion. “Could it be that my menstrual disorder has worsened?”

The doctor asked suspiciously, “Do you feel unwell anywhere?”

"I just got into an argument with someone and hit my back against the table. Then my kept hurting, and now the pain is getting stronger."

Chapter 1297 Who to Blame

Countless questions hovered in her mind. When Kisa saw the words 'signs of miscarriage,' her doubts were instantly gone. She tucked the ultrasound report away and hurried to get her blood test report.

When she returned to the doctor's office, the doctor saw her anxious face and said confidently, "So, I was right—you are pregnant, aren't you?"

Kisa quickly showed the doctor the two reports. "Take a look. I'm showing signs of miscarriage. What should I do?"

The doctor took the reports and looked at them carefully. Her eyes narrowed, and her expression serious. Kisa was on pins and needles, feeling like an invisible hand was strangling her and that she could not breathe. After a while, the doctor said, "Your condition is not serious. Take some medicines to stabilize your pregnancy. The hCG level in your blood is good. The bleeding should be caused by you hitting the table today, which is not a big problem. Just be careful from now on.

Kisa felt much more at ease upon hearing what the doctor said. However, while her baby was fine, Lea's was gone. She felt heavy as she thought about Lea's condition, and the joy of learning her pregnancy vanished. She looked at the time; two hours had passed since she left Lea's ward, and Gilbert should be back from buying food by now.

Before Kisa could turn around, Gilbert had already stridden over and grabbed her arm, looking anxious. "Why are there bloodstains on your pants? Are you feeling unwell somewhere? Does your belly hurt?"

Kisa looked at him with all seriousness. From the worry on his face, she could surely tell that he knew that she was pregnant. She tilted her head and smiled at him absently. "It is just my time of the month. Why are you so worried?"

"Time of the month?"

"Yeah, didn't you have Kelvin examine me last time? It is just my period. It is irregular; so after ten days or so, it came back again."

Gilbert stared at her sullenly. "Come with me to see the doctor."

"No need." Kisa pulled her arm back and smiled faintly. "Hasn't Kelvin already examined me? I'm having irregular menstruation. Kelvin is a genius physician; he won't misdiagnose it."

It was a bag, and it was opened. Gilbert looked down and saw the contents of the bag. There are several packs of medication, one of which had the word 'anti abortifacient' clearly written on it. He was about to bend down to pick it up when Kisa got to it first.

"So... You have already seen a doctor." He spoke in a low voice, sounding like he was relieved.

"Hmm," Kisa answered sullenly, not saying anything more. Gilbert also said nothing else, just staring at her expressionlessly. 'Psycho!' She cursed in her mind and then ignored him.

"Where is Lea?" Kisa's heart skipped a beat as she arrived at Lea's ward and saw it was vacant.

Gilbert frowned. "She was still here when I came back with the food."

A takeaway was sitting on the bedside table, but it had not been touched. Kisa was worried, so she quickly took out her cell phone and called Lea. To her surprise, the call was answered quickly. Lea seemed to be smiling calmly on the other end of the phone.

Gilbert dragged Kisa back in one motion. "Where do you think you're going? Just stay inside, sit back, and relax!" The man's tone was strong and aggressive.

Kisa broke away from his hand and said, "I'm going to have a look."

"It's nothing interesting. Why do you like being so nosy?"

"I'm not being nosy; I just want to know what Anthony will do to her. Lea is my friend. I'm worried, okay?!" Kisa said while she stared at him, a serious look on her face.

“This so-called friend of yours once betrayed you. How could she be even more important than the child in your womb?” Gilbert suddenly snorted coldly.

Kisa did not understand why he was being so salty about it. She took a deep breath and said, Okay. You’ve hurt me before. That means I shouldn’t be talking to you, let alone conceive this child based on what you’ve said.”

“You...” Gilbert was so angry that he wanted to strangle the woman to death. After a long time of trying to hold himself back, he said in a muffled voice, “Whatever. If you want to meddle in other people’s business, then go.”
