

Chapter 101 - Reborn: Another Chance To Leave Up

Chapter 101 Marry Her if You Want

“Come on. Have a glass of milk. It can refresh you and get you big boobs.”

Listening to Aracely’s nonsense, Anaya didn’t know whether to laugh or cry. “These don’t seem to be the benefits of milk.”

“Who cares? Just drink it.”

Anaya took the milk and took a sip.

The doorbell rang.

Aracely volunteered. “Sit. I’ll get the door!”

With that, Aracely hustled to open the door.

When the door opened, a bodyguard suddenly pushed Aracely to the ground.

Cecilia came in with two bodyguards. She was ferocious, like a tiger that was about to eat people. Her elegant clothes could not hide her rage.

“Anaya! Did you bribe the driver to hit Joshua?”

This afternoon, Cecilia met the truck driver who hit Joshua.

The driver’s attitude was weird. He did not defend himself after turning himself in. It was as if he already knew he would be in jail.

Cecilia suspected someone was behind the driver and asked Alex to investigate. She found clues.

Last night, the driver's sister's account received an international transfer of 80 thousand dollars. According to the driver, it was his father's savings for decades.

Cecilia did not believe his words and wanted to have further investigation.

However, the outside world was not as peaceful as that at home. It was hard to track the source of the money transfer.

Without solid evidence, Cecilia had to turn to suspect the people around Joshua.

Among her suspicions, the most suspicious was her son's ex-wife, Anaya.

Anaya thought it was funny and laughed. "I'm waiting."

Cecilia and Joshua were indeed mother and son, and they had the same habit of getting even with Anaya without any reason.

Cecilia was furious, but she was worried that things would not end well and left angrily.

Aracely walked over and gave Anaya a thumbs-up. "Anaya, you're awesome!"

"Time to sleep," said Anaya as she slapped Aracely's hand away.

"Okay!"

Cecilia left Anaya's apartment and asked Alex to continue investigating who had paid the driver. She then went to the hospital.

On the way, Cecilia received a call from the doctor that Joshua had woken up.

Cecilia ordered the driver to speed up and rushed to the hospital as fast as possible.

Lexie was sitting next to the hospital bed in the ward, feeding Joshua fluids.

There were bandages and cannulas from the facilities covering Joshua's body. Seeing Cecilia enter the door, Joshua opened his mouth and said, "Mom."

His voice was as hoarse and dry as coarse sandpaper,

"Joshua, do your wounds still hurt?" Cecilia asked as her eyes turned red.

"No."

Although he denied it, Cecilia knew Joshua must be in pain.

The anesthetic effect was over, and the wounds were still bloody. Joshua must be in the most pain now.

After Lexie finished feeding Joshua, she stood up and said, "I'll deal with the bowl and spoon."

Her eyes were red and swollen. It seemed she had cried, and she looked vulnerable.

Joshua responded to her.

After Lexie left, Joshua asked Cecilia, “Has Lexie been taking care of me today?”

“Yes. You had done the operation when I came. Lexie has been here with you.” Cecilia looked down on Lexie’s family background, but Lexie had helped Joshua, and Cecilia hesitated. “She told me she gave you a blood transfusion.

“Joshua, when you get better, marry her if you want. I won’t object to you anymore.”

Chapter 102 Don’t You Want to See Him?

Joshua had told Cecilia more than once that he would marry Lexie.

When he said this, he vowed that Lexie would be his destiny.

But now that Cecilia had agreed, Joshua hesitated.

He imagined the wedding between himself and Lexie.

Somehow, the face of the bride had turned into Anaya’s face, and the scene was exactly the same as the grand wedding of a year ago.

The vast green lawn was full of guests. Anaya was dressed in a flawless white wedding dress, holding flowers in her hands as she slowly walked toward him...

Perhaps it was because he had not responded for a long time. Cecilia called out to him, “Joshua?”

Joshua regained his senses.

Cecilia asked, “Why are you suddenly silent? Are you feeling unwell?”

Joshua shook his head. “No, I was lost in thought for a while.”

Cecilia was relieved and she said, “If you feel unwell, you have to tell me in time.”

As she spoke, she recalled the car accident. “Anaya is really vicious and actually so ruthless to you! After you return to the company, you can’t let her off easily!”

“About the car accident, was it arranged by Anaya?”

“Who else could it be other than her? I went to find her today, but she refused to admit it. She is really stubborn!”

“She would not do such a thing.”

Although he said this, Joshua couldn't help but suspect Anaya in his heart.

He didn't have many enemies. The only enemy who hated him so much should be Anaya. She would probably want him to go die.

She had reason and the ability to do so.

With the wealth of the Dutt family, it was not difficult for her to bribe a driver...

Cecilia sighed, “I knew you wouldn't believe me. Forget it. Take good care of yourself. I will let Alex continue to investigate this matter.”

The news of Joshua getting into a car accident quickly spread throughout the circle of the upper class.

Anaya answered decisively, "I'm not going."

It was already a great mercy for her to donate her blood to Joshua.

She didn't want to pay attention to other matters, and she couldn't.

The company matter occupied all her free time. How could she have the mood to pay attention to someone else?

Seeing that she was not as stupid as before, Kelton was very pleased and drank more because of that.

Before he finished eating, he rushed into the toilet and vomited.

Anaya helped him to the door and waited for him at the door of the washroom.

A young woman came out of the female washroom.

She was wearing a white floral dress. Her long black hair was slightly curled, and her big eyes were lovely. Her figure was curvy, showing a kind of girlish beauty and mature charm at the same time.

The woman looked around and walked to Anaya's side. She leaned close to Anaya's ear and asked in a low voice, "Do you have a sanitary pad?"

Anaya happened to be in the middle of her period these two days, so she brought a few with her. "Yes, I'll give you in the washroom."

"Thank you!" the woman said with a grateful expression.

Anaya followed the woman into the washroom. After giving her the sanitary pad, she came out again and waited for Kelton in the corridor.

Before Kelton came out, the woman came out first.

She saw Anaya and came over to thank her. "Madam, thank you so much just now."

"It was just a small matter."

The woman expressed her gratitude and prepared to leave.

When she saw someone behind Anaya, she smiled and called out, "Hearst! I'm here!"

Anaya suddenly remembered Hearst.

She remembered that Samuel often called Hearst like that.

She looked back

Hearst walked out of the elevator with a shopping bag.

As their eyes met, Hearst paused for a moment, but he still walked over.

After he approached, he gave the bag he was carrying to the woman beside Anaya. "Here it is."

"I have already changed that." The woman took the bag with a smile. "It was this lady who kindly helped me."
