Chapter 489 | Accidentally Stabbed Him

“What happened, Jensen? How did Gilbert get hurt?” Sharon asked, but Jensen kept quiet.

Sharon got angry and impatient, “Well? Say something. How did he get hurt?”

“I—I accidentally stabbed him.”

“There’s no way it was you,” Madalyn looked at him with her clouded eyes and said. “You would never do anything to hurt Gilbert, let alone take his life.”

Madalyn’s trust in Jensen formed a lump in his throat. He felt a little sad and self-deprecating. Then, he snickered, turned his gaze out the window, and remained silent.

“It must be that woman. Kisa’s the one who stabbed Gilbert, right?” Sharon rolled her eyes and said angrily. Jensen did not reply, which then made Sharon even more sure of her suspicion. “That woman is vicious. She messed with GK Pictures, and now she’s trying to take Gilbert’s life? I’ll call her now and ask her why she did that. I’ll call the police and have her arrested. This is murder we’re talking about!” Sharon said as she took out her phone to call Kisa.

However, just when she was about to dial her number, Jensen snatched her phone away in an instant.

CRACK!

Her phone shattered as Jensen smashed it to the ground. Sharon was stunned.

“Jensen, you... You...” “I’ll buy you a new phone later, but don’t you dare call Kisa or the police on her. If not, I’ll smash every single phone you have.”

Although Jensen had always been the gentle one, he was even more terrifying than Gilbert when he was mad. Sharon resentfully took two steps back and said, “Jensen, that woman almost killed Gilbert. How can you still stand up for her? Don’t tell me she’s more important to you than your own brother.”

Jensen looked at her and chuckled, “Kisa’s your sister, your biological sister. Don’t tell me that a man is more important than your own sister.”

“I...” Sharon was at a loss for words. She was dissatisfied but did not dare say anything else to Jensen. She had always been afraid of him. Even though he had the best temper among them, Sharon was still scared of him for no apparent reason.

“How can those two things be the same? My sister is a vicious person. Even if I care about her, I can never protect her against my own morals, can I?” Sharon gritted her teeth and unwillingly said.

sneered in disgust when he heard that. Sharon felt embarrassed. Seeing that Jensen would not be moved by her words, she decided to go to Madalyn.

“Grandma, this is the second time Kisa has stabbed Gilbert. She almost killed him the last time to save herself. You must not spare her this time. Otherwise, Gilbert would be dead...”

“Enough!” Madalyn shouted. “You don’t have to remind me. I will take care of this matter.”

Sharon looked at her with a resentful look on her face.

She did not dare make a sound, but her heart was full of rage. ‘When I become the wife of GK Pictures’s CEO and a part of the Kooper family, I'll teach this old woman a lesson,' she thought.

The four of them waited quietly outside the emergency room. After some time, the doors to the emergency room opened.

Chapter 490 He Is Not in Fatal Danger

Madalyn hurriedly rose to her feet to meet him. Due to her impatient movements in addition to her older age, Madalyn almost fell from her stumbling footsteps. Fortunately, Jensen quickly held onto her.

Madalyn anxiously asked the doctor, "How is my grandson?"

"The patient's wounds are deep, and the new wound is right on the position of the old injuries with major blood loss. Thankfully, we were able to save him in time. He won't be in any life-threatening danger, but his body will be frail. He would need to recuperate for a while." Upon hearing the first half of the sentence, Madalyn almost fainted from all the panic.

After hearing the final half of the statement, she finally let out a deep sigh of relief. Jensen's strained nerves also slowly relaxed. Gilbert was immediately pushed out of the sick ward. His face was pale as paper and seemed to have no hint of vigor.

Madalyn sat at the side of the sick bed, caressing the back of Gilbert's hand repeatedly. Her aging eyes were filled with distress.

Jensen leaned by the window, watching quietly. His heart had a strange feeling, a little bit of jealousy and a little bit of envy. The only time that he could receive that warmth from Madalyn was when he was sick. Hence, during his childhood, he would frequently wish to get sick. Sometimes, he would crouch in cold water just to get ill.

Thinking about it now, he felt that he was indeed pitifully petty then.

George the butler glanced at Gilbert and spoke to Madalyn, "Madam Kooper Sr., the master is fine. You can finally be at peace. In a moment, I will be handling the discharge procedures to allow him to recuperate at home."

me. Besides that, I have informed Kelvin to let him check up on the young master again more thoroughly.”

Madalyn nodded her hair while stroking Gilbert’s forehead, “Fortunately, Gilbert is fine. Otherwise, I wouldn’t know how to bear it when I’m at such an old age.”

Seeing the few people deliberately not mentioning Kisa, Sharon was afraid Kisa would be free of blame. She quickly complained to Madalyn, “Honestly ! Gilbert just walked through Hades’ gates, but Kisa wouldn’t even show her face

here. From what I see, she intentionally wants to take Gilbert’s life. If it was not for Jensen sending Gilbert to the hospital in time, I’m afraid he would have died by Kisa’s hand this time.”

“That’s enough, Ms. Case. The madam knows what she’s doing regarding this issue. You should instead refrain from talking too much.”

“I just feel that Gilbert didn’t deserve this. He had always protected that woman, but what did he get instead? Madam Kooper Sr...,” Sharon held onto Madalyn’s arm and spoke angrily, “This time, you have to punish Kisa heavily. You should not show her mercy so lightly this time.”

“That’s enough. I’ve already known,” Madalyn softly replied to her soundly but surprisingly was not cross. George the butler also felt puzzled since Madam Kooper Sr. had always deeply resent Kisa. Kisa had hurt the young master badly. She was supposed to be very angry. However, Madam Kooper Sr. was unusually calm. Seeing Gilbert not being in any life-threatening danger, Jensen stayed in the sick ward for a while and soon left. He did not look for Kisa but merely sent Kisa short messages – He was not in life-threatening danger.

Kisa sat by the bed like a puppet. She quietly looked at the contents of the message, her face without a trace of emotion. The curtains in the room were pulled tightly shut, and the room was pitch black. The dim light from the cell phone on her face made her seem eerily frightened.

She stared at the phone for a long time, then only she replied with a message. She only asked Jensen to fetch the three kids after school on time. She also requested Jensen to look after the three kids appropriately for the next two days. She turned off her phone and lay on the bed after sending the messages. She covered her whole body under the sheets as if this act would make her feel safe.

Gilbert was in a coma for a day and night before waking up.
