

Chapter 23

Unknown POV

"Master" I bowed.

"Rise" I did as told.

"State your achievements"

"I have been keeping track of the target. She seems to be falling apart slowly. She'll be weak by the time of the next blood moon. Your plan is going just fine" he nodded his head. I could see his smirk even though his face was covered.

"Perfect. My bride is almost ready" I kept my head down.

"You are dismissed" I looked at him with pleading eyes.

"Please let me see her" he sighed frustrated.

"Go. You may see her" I thanked him and walked out my sword trailing along the concrete floor. I made my way to the dungeons were they kept all the missing girls.

"Hannah" I breathed looking at her sight of my mate.

"Shawn" she whispered weakly trying to come close to me but the bars stopped her.

"Babe I'm here. It's okay I'm here. They won't hurt you" I cooed holding her fragile hand close to my face breathing in my face.

"I need to tell you something" she whispered. I nodded moving a stray hair out of her beauty face.

"They.....I'm....I'm sorry I couldn't stop them" she then broke down crying.

"Hey. Hey its okay what happened?" I had a feeling I wasn't going to like it.

"I'm.....pregnant" she whispered barely audible. My jaw dropped and my eyes were set a blaze with anger.

"Who did it?" I growled. She didn't answer.

"Who did it-" I was cut of by the guards telling me it was time to leave. I knew if I didn't they would kill her.

"I will find out" I whispered to her kissing her hand. I then le her there in the silver jail cell. My mate. I sighed wondering what have I gotten myself into.

Amanda's POV

I impaled him with my sword seeing he wouldn't talk. I was already stressed about the fact Tyler was upset with my but now it's worst seeing I can't get the information I need.

Once his body hit the floor. I searched through his bag and found a golden coin with an emblem that I knew all to well. I place it I'm my bag then looked around a er hearing the sound of hoofs hitting the hard concrete.

Climbing on top of the near by building I was able to get a better veiw of the scene below me. I learned to work alone now seeing Sam was busy and Nova can't be here all the time.

"Servus potentes" the said at the same time. Servant of the powerful. Who are they talking about.

"Where is it?" The first man asked.

"Here. The leader has trusted you wih this do not let him down" the first one said to the second who nodded then parted ways. I followed the second who appeared to have something in his hands. He walked until he stopped in front of an old building.

"Who is it?" A deep voice rang from inside.

"Azul" the second man I mean Azul said. He door opened up and he walked in from there I knew I could not get in so I proceeded to follow the first man who seemed to be heading home but he said something that made me on high alert.

"Yes my lord. Of course it is under control. Tyler Kingsley will be yours and the girl will be history" I made the wrong step and caused a creaking sound that gave away my location.

I fled but silently cursed my self for making such a foolish mistake.

"What does it mean?" I asked my self. I have been searching for the meaning to this emblem all day it was a Saturday so I didn't worry about anything related to work.

I threw the book onto the floor and yelled out of pure frustrating. I was assigned to kill a number of people and then gather information on them but it got personal when they mentioned the name of my mate.

Studying the coin further I hen noticed the faint outline of a date on it. I quickly rushed over to the desk which held all some important items. I searched and smiled once I found he magnifying glass.

Holding it up to the coin I then made out what it said.

19:8:1867

The day it was made. But what does it mean. Holding up the coin to the light I realized it reflected on a book that seemed untouched. It was at the very back of the pack library. The whole atmosphere around it screamed don't touch but I didn't listen.

I tugged on the book but I wouldn't budge instead a the book self moved to reveal a hidden fleet of steps. I was reluctantly to go in but once I heard the guards getting closer I did.

The place was dark but luckily I had my phone which helped me walk down the steps which lead to a small room. I slowly turned the know preparing for the worst but nothing. Instead of was greeted by an old bookcase which held only one large book.

I tried to reach it but I was too short. Placing the phone in my mouth then tip toed and successfully took down the book. I then used the light from the phone to shine unto the book the gasped. It was the same emblem as the one on the coin.

"This is perfect" I cheered lowly stepping out of the room and silently closed the door. I then sneaked back upstairs happy with my discovery. Point one for me.

*

"It was said that long ago there live a powerful being called the Reaper. This being could take souls, kill and talk to them but most importantly it was the only being able to go I to the underworld and come back alive" I read from he book. I was I'm my room at Tyler's pack.

"These beings were known to be ruthless and cunning. The males were swi and the females were temptresses that would lure there next victim and the killer them" I knew all this already.

"Down to the very moon goddess feared the creatures knowing what the could do. Rosalie Parkais the first ever female reaper was said to have had magnificent powers over the elements. These powers were how ever to be passed down to the chosen one who would then be destined to defeat the king of Death and save all reapers from sudden extinction" I didn't know this.

"She is said to be cold hearted ruthless but still broken. She will only be able to unlock her powers by..." There was nothing else the rest of the page was blank.

I skipped it but was greeted by a family tree. My family tree. I saw my grand mother who had a black line surrounding her picture all the ones dead had that same line except for me and my brothers who had a light blue line. How is this possible.

I wanted to read more but something brought me back to reality.

"Luna the alpha requests your presence for dinner" and just when I got a lead.

"I'll be down in a minute" I quickly hid the book under the bed then placed my suitcase to cover the book.

"Luna he alpha has ordered me to come in if you refuse to come down" I growled and walked out slamming the door in the process.

I charged my way downstairs in a very pissed of mood. I already knew some of it was from Tyler a er all I did ditch my bodyguards to go on my mission but I can't tell him that.

I sat down at right beside the far end of the table while Tyler sat at the top we were dinning alone.

"Your dinner Luna" I nodded telling her to leave I was beyond pissed. It's like he knew what I was doing before it even happened.

"You look nice" he said knowing I could hear.

"Bull" was my response.

"Are you going to tell me who it was"

"I can't" I stated eating my steak. I wish I could but I can't and worst he's being targeted by my target and enemy it's just confusing.

"And why not" he was calm when saying it.

"Because I said so could you not talk about this now I'll tell you when I can" he hu ed.

"How can I be sure Amanda if that's even your real name. You don't even trust me and I'm your mate" I turned away.

"I can't tell you.....I'm sorry" I excused my self from the room and attempted to leave but he stopped me. I tried to ignore the sparks but I couldn't.

Hello there!

That's it for this post is hope you enjoyed it really hope you did cause it was very hard to write this one since I'm also doing an assignment as well. This chaper is not edited sorry but if you liked please let me know by leaving a comment, vote and follow.

I love you guys 🍷🍷🍷🍷🍷🍷

Bye Angels 🍷🍷🍷🍷🍷🍷🍷

Continue to next part