

Rejecting Your Rejection More Traitors

"No wise man ever thought that a traitor should be trusted." -Marcus Tullius Cicero-

When rogues attack, the two territories of the Crimson Pack was ready for them. Even though it was a last-minute call since his Mate was able to get the message through their mind links to him and Daniella wasn't sure which pack the Alpha was from.

Dante knew he couldn't call any Alpha for help rather defend themselves on their own. So he visits Alexis alone in the cell. He opens it to see her sitting there in the middle meditating.

"You finally came Dante" she gazes up at him not moving.

"Don't think I'll just do the loving Alpha to you. So you better answer my question when I ask you to." Alexis remains quiet she knew not to push his buttons.

"Tell me who and which pack?" she lower her gaze "sorry Alpha but I cannot say his names out loud or his pack's name. The moment I do he'll know" he looks at her with confusion "I am already branded as his."

She sat there and Dante for a moment pity her for not having a happy life. "But I can identify some of his traitors in this pack" she smile.

"How do I know you're not lying"

"don't trust me Dante but hear their name and you'll know it's the truth."

So she began to name them, Dante finds it hard that 10 of his pack members are traitors and 4 of them are his well-trained warriors. She also told him to watch out for their northern border.

"If you're telling the truth after the war I may grant your freedom but lie to me and I'll always come back from my grave to haunt you."

He left afterward summoning Jem, Cameron, Lawrence, and Kyle changing their plans last minute. The traitors were not led into the plan where they won't be attacked in full force but will be divided into two forces.

Kyle and Lawrence their Gamma will lead the other team with the 600 of them in numbers altogether taking on the original plan. Jem, him, and Cameron will take the last team consist of 1000 warriors while the other 500 were left behind to guard the women and children all locked up in the safe house.

Dante informed all of his team on the traitors in order to watch out and never to slip anything up. After discussing their plans, he turns to Jem's brother "Kyle may I have a word with you" Dante excuses Cameron, Jem, and Lawrence from his office leaving only the two of them alone.

"I know you're my sister's mate and I know you love Clara but I ask of you to break up the bond completely with Zoe as much as I hate it but I can't let my sister suffer like that while you love another."

Kyle didn't speak he just listens in

"Zoe"

"sorry Alpha but can't do that" Dante threw his desk aside "damn you Kyle" he growls "you can't do that to her."

Kyle got down on his knees in front of him "I'm sorry but please give me time" he begged him. Dante slams his fist on the wall "for the sake of Jem and our friendship I'll grant you time but you better not parade Clara around her."

The door slams open Jem saw his brother on his knees he ignores it immediately "Alpha they are on the move now" he looks at Kyle 'time to move.'

Lawrence saunter beside Kyle towards their team his eyes never leaving the pack traitors he gestures to others then to Kyle who nodded in return. When the siren was up informing the intruders they attack first. Once they went deep into the woods Kyle whistle loudly and with that they surrounded the traitors.

"Ahh Kalios you shouldn't turn your back on your brotherhood" Lawrence sneer at one of the traitors

"too bad the Alpha is on his way there" he smiles.

The rogues emerged from the darkness surrounding their group Kalios and his followers' smirk "what were you saying Delta?"

There were quite a lot of them, cornering Kyle's and Lawrence's team. Kaios growls at the rogues "Kill them" and they all shifted moving in for the kill.

The rogues were coming off strong yet Kyle and Lawrence with the rest of the team remain in their stance. They fought back with their might until fewer were left. Kyle moves in to kill off Kaios, he jumps up in the air thrashing him with his claws ending the traitors' life.

Then he saw her fighting, his eyes couldn't believe she was fighting along with them. Kyle wonders how she got here but looking at her dresses in male clothes he then gets it. She must have masked her scent and sneak her way into their Team.

Watching her fight makes him and his wolf proud yet she wasn't his anymore as he has taken another she-wolf as his mate. Zoe kills off the rogues then she slumps against a tree sweat dripping from her forehead while she took a break. She looks up finding him watching her, he never took off his gaze he then gave her a smile.

Yet she never returns his smile not when a rogue lying on the ground crept on her from the back and plunge a knife at her. Kyle screams moving towards her in speed, she fell on her knees. The rogue raises his claws to finish her when Lawrence got on time killing the rogue the last of them.

Kyle crouch on the ground taking her body into his arms

"Zoe, look at me" he cries "please Zoe, don't die on me" she coughs up blood gazing up into his eyes her lips turning into a smile. The brightest smile he ever saw.

"Zoe" he cries holding her close, he minds link for a Doctor "damn it Zoe" he rocks her back and forth while crying.

He took her face in his hands "Zoe, don't you dare die on me" he sob. There were so many things he wanted to tell her. So many regrets that he needs to let her know yet here she was dying in his arm. Dante warns him not to hurt her but he just kills her today.

"Zoe" he sob "do you remember the first time we met?" she smiles as if recalling those memories in her head.

Her eyes flutter a little she shook her head weakly then her eye lids slowly closing, her chest slowly rising she was going to die in his arms.

"Zoe" Kyle scream as his hold on her tighten his tears never stops from falling.