

Resume 26

Ex-Husband Wants Badly to Resume Their Marriage Chapter 26

She Never Gets Pregnant Again

Jameson closed his eyes and interrupted him, "That's enough."

He had guessed from what Josh said when he came to ask for money. Seeing his expression, Jacob stopped talking.

"Why didn't you tell me earlier?"

Jacob said, "The day after you asked me to investigate, you divorced Ms. Allyson. I told you that afternoon ... But you said you were divorced, and she had nothing to do with you."

At that time, Jameson was enraged.

He felt annoyed when he heard Sharon's name.

Who knew what Jacob was going to say? After a while, Jameson said slowly, "Inform Lumiere Jewelry that those who perform well on this show will be supported by the Proctor Group. No profession limited."

He owed Sharon three years ago, and now he was making up for her.

But no matter what, she forced him to marry her with a false pregnancy test.

This fact was undeniable.

In less than two days after the gift gossip, another breaking news spread in the Lumiere Jewelry.

"My goodness! Mr. Proctor loves Sheila so much. He even did such things for her!"

"He is too generous. The support from the Proctor Group means you can choose any top resource. Mr. Proctor openly wants to bring Sheila to the highest position. I'm jealous of their love."

Someone opposed, "There is no restriction on professions. It might not be Sheila. Anyone in this show has the opportunity, right?"

"Who believes that? Obviously, it is an excuse those big shots use to fool the public. Mr. Proctor has given our magazine a lot of benefits for Sheila these days. Anyone knows that."

When the chief editor Lance heard the news, he kept silent for a long time.

He didn't like Sheila so much after meeting her for a few times. He did not know why Jameson was obsessed with her.

How could he spend so much money for her? It seemed that Sheila might really enter the Lumiere Jewelry in the near future.

Tiffany also heard about this after finishing filming.

She gritted her teeth with anger. She thought they were really shameless.

Thinking that Sheila would be the final winner, she did not tell Sharon about this.

Ever since Jameson asked Sharon to pay back two million within a month, she was trying to find solutions these few days.

For her dignity, Sharon agreed straightforwardly.

But the reality was cruel.

Two million was a large number for her.

She could not raise so much money in a short period of time.

Lumiere Jewelry signed a full contract with her.

She could earn 0.6 million a year but she could not take part-time jobs outside.

And she couldn't either to advance a few years' salary since she just signed the contract not long ago.

Sharon thought calmly for a long time and then she finally made a decision.

However, before she could make it done, she received a friend request.

Looking at the familiar and simple portrait in cold tone, Sharon was still sober.

Jameson blacklisted her for so long, and now he must add her back to ask for money.

Sharon was actually a little annoyed.

Ever since they divorced, she didn't want to have anything to do with Jameson.

Although she still needed to pay back the money, she always felt that she had no secret in front of him if they kept the contact information.

But if she didn't accept the friend request, it seemed that she wouldn't pay back the money.

After more than half an hour, Sharon accepted his request and then set his friend privilege to chat only.

She was prepared to blacklist him as soon as she paid off the money.

On the other side, Jameson was sitting in the dining room of the Proctor's when he saw Sharon accepted his friend request.

"Recently, you are not so busy with the company. Go home more often if you have time. Don't let me urge you every time."

Jameson stared at his phone and thought that he should send something to remind her that she could come and beg him.

Seeing that Jameson wasn't listening at all, Albert said in a serious voice, "Jameson, I'm talking to you. Do you hear me?"

Jameson put his phone back on the table and took up the cup in front of him.

Then he said indifferently, "Yes."

Albert was even angrier for Jameson's indifferent attitude.

However, because of the power of Jameson, he couldn't talk tough.

He could only change the topic.

"Think carefully about what I told you before. You are about 30. You are not young anymore. It is time to think about your future. It's good that you got divorced from Sharon. She is not deserved to give a child to the Proctor family. You should choose your wife from a good family this time..."

"I don't want a child."

Albert was surprised and said angrily, "What did you say?"

Jameson continued to say in a calm voice, "No matter whom I marry, I don't want a child"

"What nonsense are you talking about! What do you want?"

"Child is not an accessory to me, nor a must. If you want it so much, you can have another of your own."

After Jameson finished speaking, he didn't look at Albert and just stood up to leave.

Albert gasped and almost died of anger.

Evie Rowland sat beside in silence all this while.

After Jameson walked out of the door, she put down her cutlery and wiped her mouth elegantly.

She smiled mockingly.

"It seems that your wish will not come true."

Ever since Jameson took over the Proctor Group in the past few years, he went out of control.

So Albert wanted to nurture the next successor.

However, as Albert was too afraid of Jameson, he didn't dare to let him marry for business.

He was afraid that his influence will be expanded and he would become even more difficult to control.

So when Sharon appeared with the pregnancy test, Albert saw the hope.

That was why the Proctors did not investigate whether Sharon was really pregnant or not.

This was not important.

In other words, if she was not pregnant, Albert could even hide it for her until she was really pregnant.

Since they were married, they would have children sooner or later.

But he didn't expect that something like that would happen later, and she could never be pregnant again.

After Evie went upstairs, Albert frowned and pondered.

He suddenly realized that bringing Jameson back was a wrong choice.

Once Jameson got out of control, his entire plan would head towards an unpredictable direction.

On the way back, Jacob asked, "Mr.Proctor, are you going back to the Star Lake Mansion?"

Jameson closed his eyes and replied yes.

Seeing he was tired, Jacob asked tentatively, "Do you need to ask Ms.Allyson where she bought the headache medicine before?"