

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 1886

Chapter 1886

“Father, I have an idea! As omnipotent as Leon seems to be, he’s all by himself and does not have much influence here in the Southern region. In my opinion, we should send out a few of our men to kidnap him and keep him hostage until he tells us the secret recipe! What do you think of this idea?” this was what Joel came up with after some contemplation.

The last time he sent Seth to buy out Elegante Group, he could already tell that Elegante Group’s defenses were poor, to the point where it did not take them long to overcome the security and barge into its premises!

This was undoubtedly Elegante Group—and Leon’s—biggest weakness!

The Hiltons, on the other hand, had a strong foundation and plenty of master martial artists at their disposal. They could easily send a few men to capture Leon and get their hands on the secret recipe that way!

“No! Leon has the Thompsons on his side, and if we were to capture him like that, they could easily figure out that it was us, even if we leave no evidence behind! This would not work out well in our favor, especially if the Thompsons were to seek revenge!” Sebastian shook his head and rejected Joel’s idea without a moment’s hesitation.

“What should we do then?” Joel furrowed his brows.

“Although your idea won’t work, we can modify it a little! I’m sure that Leon isn’t the only person in the Elegante Group who knows the secret recipe. Surely some of his higher management or perhaps the people closest to him will possess knowledge of the secret recipe as well! With this in mind, we can set our sights on these people!

“As close as he is to the Thompsons, there’s no way the Thompsons will be able to protect everyone around him, and as long as we clean up our tracks, they would never be able to reprimand us for this!” Sebastian sneered.

“Yes, that sounds like a great idea! Leon always has two women following him around. They appear to be close to him, and I think they’d be perfect targets for our plan,” Joel’s face lit up as he recalled Iris and Snow. The past two times he crossed paths with Leon, these two women were always by his side, and he could easily tell that they were both members of Elegante Group’s higher management as well!

Iris was not only the president of Elegante Group, but he could also tell that she was likely Leon’s girlfriend!

Knowing their relationship, he was certain that Iris would know of the secret recipe! If they shifted their attention to Iris and Snow, this would be an even easier way of getting through to Leon than attacking him directly!

Besides that, since the Hiltons did not give much thought to Cynthion Group’s sales drive and only sent one of the collateral descendants to attend it, Joel, like Seth, did not know that Iris was one of the Twin Beauties!

Even if he knew, however, it would not have affected his judgment. After all, she was just a distant cousin of the Scammells and not anyone important at all!

The Hiltons were not even afraid of the Thompsons, not the mention a smaller and less powerful family like the Scammells!
