

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 1917

Chapter 1917

Leon was prepared for the ambush and immediately tossed Seth into the air at the other Golans.

"Watch out! We mustn't hurt Mister Seth by accident!"

One of the martial artists shouted and the others immediately ceased their attack to catch Seth.

Instantly, there was an opening to their line of defense and Leon took the opportunity to run outside with Iris in his arms. 'Mister Thompson, please stall them for me! I will take off now!'

He originally planned on using the remaining strike in the Cuff of Doom against the Golans, but was unsure if it was sufficient to defeat such a large group.

Thankfully, Roanne and John arrived in time and there was no need for Leon to waste the power of the Cuff of Doom.

His priority at the moment was to rescue Snow and had no time to waste on the Golans.

"Where do you think you're going? Prepare to die!" Eliam sneered as he stood back to prevent Leon from running.

As soon as Leon darted out of the crowd that surrounded him, Eliam did not hesitate to lung himself at Leon.

The Golans were one of the oldest lineages of martial artists in the southern region with a training method in the Advanced Power class, so one could reach the Semi-Almighty State at best.

As the leader, Eliam reached the Semi-Almighty State two years ago and he did not doubt that he would be able to kill Leon with a single blow.

"Damn it!" Leon's expression darkened as he knew that he could not rival Eliam and he immediately started considering if he should use the remaining blow in the Cuff of Doom.

Before he could act, John leaped into the air. "Eliam, how could you bully a youngster? Let's see what you are made of!" John scoffed and released his true energy at Eliam.

"Baam!"

The attacks launched by John and Eliam clashed.

Though they were both in the Semi-Almighty State, John studied a far more powerful training method as a member of the Thompsons and reached the level long before Eliam did, so he was close to reaching the Almighty State.

John remained as still as a mountain under the impact, but Eliam could not help but back from the clash of sheer forces.

With their brief exchange, it became clear that John was slightly stronger than Eliam.

Seeing how Eliam was stopped by John, Leon did not hesitate to dart out of the yard with Iris in his arms.

"What are you lot doing, standing there? Go after him!" Eliam roared at the other Golans.

"Yes!" The others snapped out of it and hurried after Leon. However, before they could get any closer to Leon, John sent his energy at them to stop them from moving.

By the time they managed to dodge the attack, Leon was nowhere to be seen.