

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 2291

Chapter 2291

In the Thompson Mansion, Arthur and August returned home.

The two had to suppress their sorrows to start planning for Yonas's funeral.

Since they were not capable of punishing the murderer, Leon, they arranged for the funeral to take place three days later.

When the deadline was over, Leon and Angus ended up finding nothing at all. The two were prepared to kill Leon and avenge Yonas.

After some time passed, under the command of Arthur and August, the house where the second in line of the Thompsons lived was decorated into a temporary mourning hall.

Instantly, a shadow loomed over the Thompsons. The looming air suffocated every member that attended.

Just then, footsteps sounded from a distance and a family member hurried into the main hall, alerting Arthur and August.

"Mister Arthur, Mister August, there are three Dragon Guards at our door..." He said respectfully.

"What?"

"Why would the Dragon Guards be here?"

Both Arthur and August were stunned and exchanged confused looks.

"I'm not sure. All they said was that they wanted a word with you..." The man said honestly.

"I see... Take them to the guest room and keep them entertained. I will head over when possible..." Arthur said.

Since the house was made into a venue for the funeral, Arthur knew better than to receive his guest in the main hall. He instructed the man to lead the Dragon Guards to the guest room instead.

The two arrived at the guest room and formally greeted the three Dragon Guards. Amongst the three guards were Oliver and Abraham, who were standing by each side of the third unknown stranger.

Apart from the two of them, at the center stood a young man. A silver lock of hair cascaded down his forehead, and he wore a golden mask that concealed half of his face.

Though his appearance remained hidden, his remarkable bearing revealed that he was far from ordinary.

Clearly, this young man was none other than Leon.

In order to investigate Yonas's cause of death thoroughly, Leon had come up with a clever plan.

He intended to utilize his affiliation with the Dragon Corps and pay a visit to Arthur, the elder of the Thompsons, biding his time for the right moment to act.

As such, while Arthur and August mistakenly believed that Leon was the culprit behind Yonas' demise, and since his identity as a member of the Dragon Corps was not to be revealed casually, he took care to wear the golden mask that Alfred had given him.

Additionally, he made slight changes to his hairstyle and attire, ensuring that his true identity would not be easily recognizable by anyone that knew him.

"Oh, it's the esteemed Gold Dragon Guards!"

"Mister Scottson, Mister Jelphs, who might this be?"

Upon their meeting, Arthur immediately recognized Oliver and Abraham.

Simultaneously, he could not help but cast a curious glance at Leon, who donned the half-golden mask. His expression betrayed bewilderment as he was unable to fathom why this unknown member of the Dragon Corps was here and why he intentionally concealed his appearance.
