Chapter 2375

Chapter 2375

"Southern Boss, it's time for you to die!" Leon threw a powerful punch at the Southern Boss.

"Leon, you brat! You might have won this time, but I won't spare you the next time around!" The Southern Boss gritted out fiercely.

He wished to lead his subordinates to join the Hiltons, before forging a path out of the mansion. However, with most Spears surrendering, his last hope was destroyed.

On top of that, he knew that he was no match for Loen, who seemed to have endless tricks up his sleeve, and if he insisted on staying, he would eventually be captured and killed.

He was only a man, and he feared death just like anyone else.

With that thought in mind, he leaped and started running away from the battlefield, knowing that Leon and Arthur could not stop him.

As for the Spears who were yet to surrender and his allies, he simply could not spare the time to think about them now that his very own life was in danger.

"Southern Boss, why you!" Devon's expression darkened when he spotted the Southern Boss running.

Following the surrender of the Spears, the Hiltons were already struggling to fend off the Thompsons. To his bewilderment, the Southern Boss took the opportunity to run.

The Southern Boss's despicable actions enraged him, but at the moment, Arthur was attacking with all his might and Devon could only focus on fighting back.

"You won't get away that easily!" Leon huffed and executed the Phantom Steps to run after the Southern Boss.

However, the Southern Boss was still a formidable martial artist and managed to get a head start ahead of him, so he struggled to catch up.

Seeing as he could not close the distance between him and the Southern Boss, Leon started to panic and so he sent three poisonous daggers flying at the Southern Boss to stop him.

"Brat, the same thing won't work on me twice! You are too naive if you think this can stop me!" The Southern Boss sneered.

He knew about the poisonous daggers before this and Leon used them on him earlier, so he was prepared. He swung his arm, releasing a wave of powerful true energy to strike the daggers down.

Without stopping on his track, he charged toward the entrance of the mansion.

Once he managed to get out of the mansion, he would be able to take advantage of the surroundings, making it even harder for Loen to catch up to him.
