The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky Chapter 259

"I'll pay by card!" Leon did not care and gave the waitress his card.

There was still more than ten million in that account, so five hundred was nothing to him.

Looking at the card in Leon's hand, the waitress was shocked.

Anyone who could eat at a high-end restaurant like this was usually someone rich. Quite a few of those rich heirs would use cards from Rivercity Bank.

Even though she could not recognize the Supreme Card, she still knew the significance of Rivercity Bank!

Suddenly, she was incredibly shocked. She could not stop herself from being thankful that she maintained a polite attitude. If she said anything offensive, she would probably lose her job!

"Leon, you're not in that great of a financial position. You'll need your money for many things in the future. Let me pay for this!" Janice hurriedly took the card back and passed it to Leon. After that, she took out the phone and asked to transfer the money.

"No need, I'm treating you this time. How could I make you pay? Honestly, I don't really need money at the moment..." Leon passed the card back to the waitress.

"You don't need money? Don't joke around! I know of your situation. You still need to get a house, a car, and a new girlfriend. All of those need money. Surely your salary can't afford it!" Iris rolled her eyes at Leon.

She knew that Leon was just a regular salaryman. His salary must not be that high. Leon did not have any parents either, so he would need to rely on himself for any expenses. She did not want Leon to go broke.

Hearing that, the waitress had a strange look on her face.

Even though she did not know who Leon was, the fact that Leon had a Rivercity Bank card meant that Leon at least had millions in his account!

How could someone like that not be able to afford a house and a car?

Instead, Janice, who felt like five hundred was expensive, tried to pay for the meal. She could not understand what Janice thought!

Was she just stupid?!

"Miss, I feel like we should just like him pay!" The waitress could not bear the sight any longer. She swiped the card before returning it to Leon.

Outside the restaurant, Janice smiled apologetically, "Leon, you must have really broken the bank this time. If I knew this restaurant was so expensive, I'd have asked to eat somewhere cheaper instead."

"It's fine," Leon smiled, not explaining things. He changed the topic, "Janice, it's still quite early. What are you planning to do?"

"I have some time today, I could keep you company."

"That's great, I feel like going shopping for some clothes and cosmetics," Janice smiled and said.

"Let's go, then. I'll bring you there in my bike," Leon pointed at his bike not far away.

Janice looked at where Leon pointed, and she had a strange look on her face, "That's yours?"

"Isn't it too girly? Why didn't you buy something manlier?"

"Oh, I didn't buy this. Someone gave it to me. Even though the color is a bit strange, it's quite good in other way..." Leon explained.

every

"Oh," Janice had a look of realization, lamenting inside that Leon really was in a bad state financially. Otherwise, a man like Leon wouldn't be willing to ride a bike like that.
