

The Ex Husbands Revenge Chapter 2680

The Ex Husbands Revenge Chapter 2680-You just won't behave unless you are beaten! What an idiot!" Leon scoffed and withdrew his foot.

"What exactly do you want, kid?" Diego asked darkly.

He felt slightly nervous as he did not know what Leon intended to do with them.

"It's simple. I have a question for you. If your answers satisfy me, I may consider letting you go," Leon said thoughtfully.

"What is it?" The three of them perked up and felt a hint of hope.

"Where is the Southern Boss? Is the Western Boss hiding him?" Leon stared intently at the three of them.

He already guessed that the Southern Boss was in the western region and this was likely connected to the Western Boss.

Now that Leon captured Diego and the other two, he took the opportunity to confront them in the hope of obtaining some information about the Southern Boss.

"The Southern Boss?"

"What?"

"We don't know what you're talking about."

Diego and the other two exchanged confused looks.

Though the Southern Boss was recovering under the Farmers' wings, his situation was unique and his presence was better kept a secret.

Hence, he remained in his room and rarely appeared before others.

On top of that, he was from the southern region, and not many people in the western region knew him.

Even if he showed himself, the Farmers may not recognize him.

Hence, no one except for the Western Boss and Felton knew that the Southern Boss was seeking refuge with the Farmers.

Naturally, Diego, Enzo, and Milo were oblivious to it as well.

“What? Do you don’t know where the Southern Boss is?” Leon frowned and stared intently at them to check if they were telling the truth.

Unfortunately, the confusion in their eyes seemed genuine and he was disappointed.

He initially planned to obtain information about the Southern Boss from Diego and the others.

It seemed like he was too naive.

The Southern Boss was too careful and hid his tracks well.

These three were merely the Western Boss’s subordinates. They hardly held any power in the Farmers and it was normal that they did not know anything about the Southern Boss.

It was pointless for him to ask such a question.

“We don’t know! Kid, you said that you’d consider letting US go so long as we answer your question. We’ve answered it now. Let US go,” Diego said.

Enzo and Milo were thinking the same and both turned to Leon gingerly, hoping to be set free.

“Sure, I did say that I can consider letting you go, but that’s only if your answers satisfy me. Now that I found out you know nothing, I’m not happy with your answers. Do you think I would let you go that easily?” Leon sneered.

He was always a man of his word. If Diego and the other two could provide useful information about the Southern Boss, he may consider letting them go.

However, they could not provide anything helpless.

Hence, there was no way that he would set them free.

