

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 289

Chapter 289

"Lewd, what do you think you are doing? Joseph is my new friend and we are talking about martial arts. Get out of the way!" Louisa roared in irritation and shoved at Leon, but could not manage to shove him aside.

"No way! Louisa, one look and anyone can tell that he's a bad person. Don't get fooled!" Leon said.

"Who are you calling a bad person?" Joseph was furious, but could tell that Leon was Louisa's acquaintance, so he calmed himself and asked, "Louisa, who is this? Who is he to you?"

"Oh, he's just a servant at my cousin's. Not worthy of our time..." Louisa snorted in contempt.

"Just a servant, huh?" Joseph sneered and waved his fist. "Brat, I'm warning you. Go away, or I'm going to beat your ass!"

"As if you can!" Leon chuckled. As a person surpassing the Initial Innate State, he had no fear for the likes of Joseph.

"How dare you?!" Enraged, Joseph raised his arm, eager to teach Leon a lesson while showcasing his strength in front of Louisa.

Louisa sat back with a smirk. She had always enjoyed chaos and since she did not like Leon, she too was desperate for Joseph to beat Leon up.

Just then, a group of young men in mohawk came to the bar.

"Ricky, look! That chick looks so hot!" One of the men spotted Louisa.

The man who was called Ricky turned and was instantly stunned. He immediately walked over and scanned Louisa up and down. "Hi, babe. Let me buy you a drink and let's get to know one another.

"Yeah. You two, too. Let's be friends..." The other men targeted Annie and Lacey.

It was obvious that they were thugs and both Annie and Lacey backed away in fear.

"Scram!" Louisa roared in a cold expression.

She was willing to talk to Joseph simply because he was the young master of a martial art school, but the thugs before her clearly meant nothing good, so she did not bother with being nice.

"Wench, you should be honored that Ricky wants to befriend you!"

"Know your place..."

Enraged, the thugs roared viciously in an attempt to intimidate the three.

Leon's expression darkened at the things they said and was about to leap into action, when Joseph beat him to it.

"Who do you think you are? How dare you talk to Louisa that way? Do you have a death wish?!" Joseph roared proudly.

All damsels in distress loved a hero and since the three women were in danger, Joseph was not about to let go of the chance to rescue them.

Apart from Louisa, Lacey was also a beauty and Annie had a great figure. If he performed well in front of the three beautiful, young women, he might manage to capture all of their hearts and make all of them his.
