

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 333

Chapter 333

Leanne did not look very happy. She immediately thought of Leon as a thug who only knew how to fight.

Janice felt like her mother might have misunderstood things, and hurriedly said, "Mom, it's not like you think..."

"It's not like Leon doesn't have any money either. He has some savings. He was the one who bought those high-end clothes for me from the mall. He spent a few thousand in one go.." Janice told Leanne about the clothes, wanting her mother to approve of Leon.

"Oh, is that so?"

"Where did he get the money?" Leanne was shocked. Her expression softened a little. With Leon's situation, the fact that he was willing to spend so much on her daughter at least meant that he was sincere toward Janice.

"He made some money gambling..." Janice answered in reflex. She quickly realized that she should not have said that, and hurriedly shut her mouth. Yet, it was already too late.

"What?"

"He gambles?!" Leanne's expression darkened.

"A man who only likes to fight and gamble. He's not a good man!"

"Janice, you have to draw the line with him in the future! Keep your distance! Now, from now on, you have to cut ties with him. Don't get misled by him!" Leanne said angrily. Her impression of Leon was already at its worst.

Janice never expected that she would end up making Leon sound worse. She almost cried in her panic, " Mom, it's not like that. Leon isn't as bad as you think..."

"That's enough, you don't have to say anything anymore. Our household won't welcome someone so despicable! Go out and talk to him right now. Find a reason to chase him away! I don't want to see him anymore!" Leanne cut off Janice and said with disgust.

Janice was shocked, "How can I do that?!"

"Mom, he's still a guest. It's already noon. We should at least let him have lunch with us first!"

"Lunch? He doesn't deserve it! Cut all ties with him right now. If you don't, then I'll do it!" Leanne said firmly.

"No, I'll just do it myself..." Janice felt very helpless as she reluctantly returned to the living room with her mother.

In the living room, Leon saw that Janice and her mother both walked out of the bedroom. They had unhappy looks on their faces, which confused Leon.

Leanne was quite friendly to him earlier, but her expression suddenly changed. She seemed to look at him with disgust, and he did not know how he offended her at all.

However, he was an orphan, so he was already used to cold looks of disgust.

Since Leanne did not welcome him, he had no reason to stay behind.

"Janice, I'm quite busy. I won't trouble you anymore. I'll take my leave," Leon was very self-aware and got up to say goodbye.

"No! Leon, it's already noon. You should leave after you have lunch," Janice pulled at Leon's arm sincerely.

Leanne never expected her daughter to do that. She said with a huff, "I didn't manage to buy any groceries today. We can't cook anything!"

"It's fine, I can eat outside with Leon," Janice said firmly.

"You..."

Leanne was exasperated, but there was nothing she could do, seeing as her daughter was already determined. "Janice, it's fine. I'm busy..."
