His gaze was immediately clouded by another layer of hatred toward Leon.

Harvey, on the other hand, was oblivious to the newfound tension in the room. He broke the silence by saying curtly, "Jacob, Anson, it's now the three of us against the two of you. What do you have to say about that?"

"I..." the color drained from Jacob's face.

Even though Iris was not a martial artist herself, the people she brought with her were undoubtedly the best of the best. If they were to get into a fight head-on, he and Anson would surely lose in this situation!

"Are you sure you want to help this scumbag, Iris?" Anson asked in anticipation. He was hoping that Iris would reconsider her decision and choose him over Leon!

"That's right! Leon is my friend, and any enemy of his is an enemy of the Youngs!" Iris replied coldly, her attitude adamant.

Even though she was still a little jealous over the lipstick mark, she was still willing to stand on Leon's side without hesitation, out of consideration of everything he did for her in the past.

She was very clear about drawing boundaries.

"Fine!" Anson burst into laughter. He wanted nothing more than to skin Leon alive, right seeing that he had Iris behind his back, he had no choice but to give this up.

"Consider yourself lucky, you punk! I will show you mercy this one time for Iris's sake, but there's no telling what will happen the next time we meet!" he declared, then turned around and swiftly retreated.

Jacob felt even more powerless at this.

"Leon Wolf, eh? I will remember your name for the rest of my life, and you'd better hope we don't cross paths again in the future!" Jacob snarled.

He could not possibly take on three people on his own and thus had no choice but to suppress his anger and choose to surrender.

"Please don't do this, Mister Lowe! You have to help me! You can't leave me here for dead..." Xander wailed. He knew full well that if Jacob left, Leon would be free to do whatever he wanted with him.

"Bear the consequences of your actions, scumbag!" Jacob scoffed and left without a second glance.

Xander watched helplessly as Jacob's silhouette disappeared from view.

Brody felt no better; he and Xander were hopeful that Anson would be able to help them, but Iris's appearance diminished all ounce of hope.

At this moment, they were weeping with despair and regret. If they knew how powerful Leon was, they would never have dared to cross him, but it was too late!

"It's time you pay the price for your actions, Xander Long!" Leon snarled with a malicious glint in his eyes. With that, he lifted his leg and gave Xander a sharp kick in his energy center, thereby effectively diminishing his power level.

"Ah—"Xander let out a bloodcurdling scream and slumped onto the ground in a heap.
