Chapter 136 Take Her to School

Valerie tightly held Galen's weathered hand.

He restrained himself from crying there.

Derek grabbed their held hands with one hand, and with the other hand, he reached forward to comfortingly pat Valerie's arm, urging her to calm down.

"Grandfather! Valerie!"

There came Mica's excited voice from the entrance.

He opened the door and saw Valerie crying, holding Galen's hand.

His heart skipped a beat.

No way! No way!!

Did grandpa not make it through?

Mica felt a chill all over her body and quickly approached Galen to see how he was doing.

The result was that the old man smiled gently and looked at Valerie.

"Grandfather, are you okay?"

Mica glanced at the sad Valerie who was crying, and quietly asked Galen.

"I was fine, Mica. I am doing well now! You don't need to worry anymore.”

What Galen said, only Mica can understand.

He was stunned for a moment, but quickly regained his composure and hurriedly drew blood from Galen, conducting a series of examinations.

“Valerie, are you okay?”

After Mica drew blood and collected it, she approached Valerie who was still sobbing.

Looking at Valerie with red, teary eyes, he didn't feel too good either.

Kicked Derek's leg with my foot, looking at him disapprovingly.

“Be good and coax.”

“Knew.”

Derek also calmed down, and the nasal congestion gradually subsided.

“Mica, I'm fine, just too excited.”

Calm down Valerie, looked at Mica and everyone in the ward with a nasal voice, feeling embarrassed.

After Mica regained her gentle smile, she asked Valerie a few questions, and he nodded.

“I got it, now Grandpa and Valerie are in a relatively stable condition. Let's stay a few more days conservatively and observe.”

“Okay, thank you Mica. You worked hard.”

Calvin approached and patted Mica's shoulder, gratitude evident in his eyes.

During the discussion, Valerie’s eyelids slowly closed.

She felt a surge of energy quietly fading away inside her body, but she remained calm.

Because she knew what the lost thing was.

On the side, Derek watched Valerie fall asleep.

“Shh, lower your voice a little.”

Derek lowered his voice and asked them to speak more quietly.

Calvin spoke to Galen, and his voice immediately lowered.

“Grandpa, you should also take a good rest. The recovery after just waking up is not fast.”

Galen shook his head.

“I am still very sober now. While Valerie is asleep, I want to tell you both something...”

Chapter 137 Choose the Dowry

Raymond suddenly understood why Derek wanted to see the dowry list...

“Derek, don’t worry, only more, not less.”

Is this kid afraid of giving too little?

Derek nodded his head.

“I knew, but I wanted to see if there was anything else that could be added.”

Wow, I didn’t take it in.

Raymond reluctantly sent the dowry list to Derek.

“See for yourself.”

“Okay, thank you, Dad!”

Derek opened his phone with a smile and looked at what Raymond had on his dowry list for him.

After the conversation was over, Tucker silently approached Valerie.

Sitting beside her.

Recalling the first time I met her and the experiences we had together.

I never expected that she would actually come to my house now.

“Ah...”

“What are you doing? Why are you sighing?”

Calvin came up behind him and gave Tucker a strange look.

“What? Am I not allowed to sigh?”

“Hmm, what’s going on? I care about you, you know. Sigh, old age catches up quickly. You’re a movie star now, do you want to age so fast?”

Tucker chuckled casually.

“What happened to the leading actor? On the day when my grandfather and Valerie fell into a coma, I knew nothing, I was only scared. Is being the leading actor of any use?”

Calvin didn't speak anymore. He stood behind Tucker, looking at Valerie who was still asleep, and suddenly let out a gentle sigh.

“Hey, why did you sigh? Sighing ages you quickly. Don't you still have a bunch of soldiers to manage?”

Tucker seized the opportunity and jokingly teased Calvin with a smile.

The two of them smiled at each other and watched their family members in the hospital room, talking and laughing.

Now both Grandpa and Valerie have awakened, and Grandpa's condition has also improved.

The most important thing is that the family is healthy and happy together.

“You went to rest.”

Since the day Calvin's grandfather was hospitalized, he practically stayed at the hospital and didn't go anywhere.

Everyone was also able to go out and handle various matters with peace of mind because he was there.

I came over and spent a few days with you after the announcement ended.

But after a few days, I was extremely exhausted.

Not to mention Calvin, who had been taking care of us all along.

His eyes were almost bloodshot, and his overall condition was not so good.

The stubble on the beard became a disaster.

Chapter 138 A Visit for Marriage Proposal

Mica gave Derek a disdainful look and ignored him.

He turned around and went straight to Galen's side.

"Grandpa, let me check you again."

"Okay, thank you for your hard work, Mica."

Mica smiled brightly, and her hand movements were very gentle.

"Grandpa, Derek is now preparing the dowry for Valerie. Is there anything I can help with?"

However, there were some things inside that he was indeed worried if Derek could get his hands on. If he couldn't, as his brother, he would step forward and lend a hand.

"Hahaha, it's alright Mica. Derek is independent and resourceful. If he can't get something now, he will find a way to get it in the future. You're worrying too much."

Galen reached out and placed his hand on Mica's hand, giving it a gentle pat.

Only Mica knew Galen's condition at that time in the entire ward.

Galen may have felt guilty, so his tone toward Mica was also much gentler.

He didn't feel comfortable letting such a child bear so much.

Mica listened to

Galen's words and nodded to indicate that she understood. She checked both sides once again before going out once more to respond to her long-vibrating phone.

The people at home were about to explode his phone.

Derek glanced at the dowry list again and looked up at the ward.

Only Calvin and Tucker were waiting here for Valerie to wake up.

“Calvin, Tucker, you guys go rest. I’ll take care of Valerie with grandpa.”

Calvin waved his hand.

“No need, I’ll wait for Valerie to wake up before going to rest.”

Calvin held onto the last thread of obsession, waiting for Valerie to wake up.

Derek looked at Tucker, thinking of asking him to persuade.

After all, Calvin always listened to Tucker.

But Tucker could only shrug helplessly.

“Let him wait. Once he sets his mind on something, he will keep going.”

Derek watched as Calvin sat on the couch, squinting his eyes and rubbing his temples.

He came silently behind Calvin.

He extended his finger, replacing Calvin’s finger on his temple.

“Huh? You gave me a massage?”

“What? Not willing?”

Calvin was a little surprised.

Derek raised an eyebrow, exerting a little more force with his hand.

“Hey hey hey! Take it easy, I was just kidding.”

Derek’s hand lightened slightly, and he bent down, leaning closer to Calvin’s ear.

“Calvin, I needed your help with something.”

“Puff...”

As soon as Derek finished saying this, Tucker laughed out loud without any courtesy.

Sure enough, nothing Derek does for Calvin comes for free.

“Hey, kid, what’s up? Did something bother you that you even gave me a massage?”

“It wasn’t really a big deal.”

After saying this, both Tucker and Calvin were shaken.

Generally, Derek would say, “It seems like the situation was a bit troublesome.”

“Tucker, would you come over and listen too?”

“What? Am I also listed among them?”

Tucker smiled and, unlike Calvin, he came forward with a smile on his face, waiting for Calvin to speak about the plan.

Derek lowered his voice, closed the distance between the two of them, and began to reveal his plan.

Tucker's expression brightened as he heard Derek say these words, but Calvin started to feel a bit uneasy.

"Derek, for Tucker, it's fine, but for me, it might be a bit troublesome."

"So, did I ask you, Calvin, to please give it a try? We always have to give it a shot, right?"

This sentence was the most frequently spoken by Calvin when Derek and Valerie were still young.

Chapter 139 Are You Feeling Unwell?

Galen stopped talking, and Valerie didn't ask anything further.

After she regained consciousness, this matter was finally considered truly over.

Grandfather and she both recovered.

The atmosphere of the Fisher family also returned to normal.

Valerie and Galen lay for two days, and there was nothing wrong with their bodies. Only then did Mica let them go back.

"Alright, everything that needed to be checked has been checked. You all go back and pay attention to having light meals and rest well."

Smiling, Mica felt much relieved as she watched the two people's complexion return to a healthy red.

"I could go back tomorrow morning.

“Okay, got it. Thank you, Mica. I have been bothering you these past few days.”

Calvin came up behind Mica and patted his shoulder.

“Calvin, what are you saying? This is what I should have done.”

The scene of Galen having a conversation with him alone that day was vivid in his mind.

He now shudders at the mere thought of it.

How could I dare to sleep?

I was almost always rushing around every day.

This time in the hospital, apart from Calvin, the most exhausted one was Mica.

The members of the Fisher family didn’t talk much, but this feeling was truly and genuinely recorded.

“Derry, Grandpa, I went out for a walk.”

“Okay, I’ll accompany you.”

Derek naturally stood up and intended to accompany Valerie outside.

“Derek, you came back.”

Galen glanced at Valerie’s expression and immediately called out to Derek, who was about to go out together.

“Ah? Grandpa, do you have something to tell me?”

Derek’s hand was still gripping Valerie’s arm and he had no intention of letting go.

Valerie also looked at Galen, her face filled with curiosity.

“Val, Derek is going to serve in the military next, are you interested in staying to listen?”

Galen smiled at Valerie and said, but as soon as he finished speaking, Valerie shook her head.

“Oh, I see. Well, I won’t bother you then. I’ll just go out for a walk by myself.”

“Val...”

Derek felt the warmth leaving his hand, he glanced at Galen with a curious look, and then watched Valerie leave the ward, heading outside to breathe in the fresh air.

“Grandpa, you could have come home to tell me instead of speaking in the hospital room.”

“Hmph! From now on, you have to get used to being apart from Valerie for a long time. Don’t be fooled by Valerie’s appearance, she is much stronger than you, and it’s very likely that you will be the one unable to resist.”

Chapter 140 Mockery

After taking a deep breath to calm herself, Zoe finally took the medicine.

Valerie saw that she was feeling much better and immediately let go.

“Thank you, thank you.”

Zoe whispered a thank you and then kept her head down, afraid to look up at Valerie again.

“I left, you can wait for the person by yourself.”

“Ah... okay.”

Zoe looked up again and glanced at Valerie, wanting to take another careful look at this almost invisible “sister”.

“Valerie Horton?”

Just as I had walked a short distance, Tristan arrived as scheduled.

Valerie’s brows furrowed without any politeness.

“I was not surnamed Horton.”

Responding coldly to Tristan’s words.

Valerie didn’t want to stay here for a moment.

Tristan looked Valerie up and down, wanting to say something sarcastic, but then decided against it.

“What? Is the outside life so bad? Bad enough to be hospitalized?”

Valerie squinted her eyes and looked at Tristan with an extremely cold expression.

“Mr. Tristan, watch your language. If I were hospitalized due to poor living conditions, does that mean Ms. Horton also came to seek medical treatment for the same reason?”

Tristan’s playful expression vanished in an instant, his gaze became sharp as he looked into Valerie’s eyes, filled with danger.

He did not reply angrily, but stood still and watched silently as the two of them confronted each other coldly.

“Hmph, as expected, you went out and lost all your manners. What? Just because you’re not surnamed Horton, you think you can challenge mé?”

“How could I dare? It’s just that what Mr. Tristan said was really hard for me to respect. As they say, people speak human words, and ghosts speak ghostly words. Mr. Tristan’s words don’t seem very normal to ordinary people.”

The atmosphere between the two people had become so tense that even their breathing could be heard.

Tristan faced Valerie, whom he hadn’t seen for a long time, and his temper wasn’t any better.

“Is there anything else, Mr. Tristan? If there’s nothing, I’ll first.”

back

Valerie didn’t want to waste any more time here, and Tristan suddenly chuckled.

“Ms.

Bowman, shouldn’t you be grateful to me? If it weren’t for me letting you off the hook at the amusement park, do you think you could have escaped? Would you have the life you have today?”

Valerie took a deep breath in place, forcing herself not to get angry, it’s not worth it, not worth it.
