Hope You Live a Long Life

Valerie and Galen were discharged from the hospital.

The day after being discharged from the hospital, Valerie arrived at Jayvion's house carrying bags of goodies.

Since Galen suddenly collapsed, Valerie's first thought was her own Jayvion.

He was also her grandfather according to her household registration.

Galen knew that she was going to see Jayvion, without hesitation, she went straight to the garden and found a well-maintained succulent plant to give to Valerie.

"Grandfather, is this, perhaps too valuable..."

"Take it, Valerie, and, have a good chat with Jayvion."

It was also a thank-you gift for him.

In his dream, he saw Jayvion do many things behind Valerie's back more than once.

To be honest, if it weren't for Jayvion taking care of Valerie, the Horton family wouldn't have made it.

Perhaps Valerie doesn't even have the mentality of a normal person now.

It was all worries.

I must thank myself for this effort.

After all, he was, helping his own granddaughter-in-law.

Seeing Galen's determination, Valerie couldn't refuse either.

Excitedly thanking Galen, I then got into Tucker's car and drove toward Jayvion's house.

"Valerie, were there any other parts of your body that felt uncomfortable?"

"I was fine, Tucker."

Just as Tucker got in the car, he handed the pre-brewed fruit tea in his hand to Valerie.

The fruit tea was still a bit hot, so I put it in a thermos.

All the materials inside are Valerie's favorites.

This was specially brewed by Tucker for Valerie, and the whole family knew that Valerie liked to drink this kind of fruit tea.

"It's still a bit hot, you can blow on it and drink it later."

"Good!"

Little mouth obediently came to the thermos and blew on it, one mouthful at a time.

But the sweet smell rushed straight into Valerie's nostrils.

She blew on the surface a few times and finally sucked in a little with her small mouth.

Then, a satisfied exclamation was uttered.

Tucker burst into laughter.

“Why do you look like an old man?”

“Would you like to drink it, but it was too hot.”

Valerie smiled apologetically and continued blowing.

Tucker’s smile also gradually faded.

Just leave a gentle smile.

“Valerie, brother, mind your own business. Did you meet the Horton family at the hospital the day before yesterday?”

Valerie froze and stopped blowing.

She turned her head to look at Tucker, who still had a smile on his face and showed no sign of probing.

Chapter 142 Sarah? (1)

Valerie got engaged to Derek.

Derek pulled Calvin and requested five military vehicles, which were filled with dowry.

This action amazed all the passers-by.

Tucker also congratulated Derek on his engagement online

The result caused his fans to laugh at him.

“Your younger brother is already engaged, and you don’t even have a single rumor.”.

However, the engagement of the young master of the Fisher family also attracted attention from the industry.

Who on earth could have taken down the Fisher family?

But none of this mattered to Valerie anymore. She had made an agreement with Galen to attend a public high school.

Over the past few years, at home with Derek, Valerie has received a lot of education and training. Now, she is more than capable of attending high school and even going straight to college.

Originally, Galen had such a development, but it was rejected by Valerie.

Out of selfishness, she wanted to experience high school life.

Having said that, Galen must have met Valerie’s requirements first.

The noble's prestigious school, Galen did not want to send there again.

Because Valerie said she wanted something more ordinary.

Then find a good public high school and let her experience it.

Originally, Galen had plans to continue his studies when Valerie was moving out of the Fisher family.

But Valerie at that time only wanted to do everything possible to get Kieran's attention, so Galen could only arrange some work for her to give her free time.

Now everything is fine, all the troubles have been resolved, and now I can finally watch my beloved granddaughter go to school peacefully!

'Grandpa, I'm back!'

The corners of Galen's mouth curved into a smile of admiration at the thought of Valerie wearing her school uniform and calling out to him as she returned home.

"Grandpa, I'm going back first."

"Ah?"

Galen, who had just finished laughing in his dream, suddenly returned to reality.

"Valerie, don't you live at home?"

Galen, as if struck by lightning, didn't even sit down, but stood up directly, looking at Valerie with an uncertain expression on his face.

"Grandpa, that school is very close to the house over there. It only takes ten minutes to walk there."

It turns out that Galen originally bought the house for the school district.

At that time, I thought Valerie would have a convenient commute to school and could even come back to take a nap at noon.

Chapter 143 Cause and Effect (1)

After these three words entered Valerie's mind.

She became a little more cunning.

When the traffic light turned green, Valerie watched as Sarah leisurely walked on the road.

There were not many expressions on the face, but it revealed exhaustion and resistance.

I didn't want to go to school.

Do you remember what kind of department store her family used to run?

Can't afford to attend a prestigious school anymore?

This school uniform, should be from the same school. If fate allows, could it be from the same class?

But now Valerie doesn't have the extra mind to pay attention to other people's affairs.

She just wants to peacefully finish high school now.

“What happened, Valerie?”

Ramona saw Valerie looking slightly serious out of the car window.

She curiously asked softly.

“Oh, it’s nothing, Auntie Ramona. I was just surprised to see students still outside at this hour.”

Hmm?

Ramona’s curiosity surged, and she looked into the rearview mirror. Sure enough, there was a girl walking outside in a school uniform.

“Hey, right, how come there were students still outside at nine o’clock?”

Ramona looked puzzled, but now that the green light had already turned on, the two of them didn’t say anything more and drove away directly.

Ramona didn’t mind, but Valerie became more cautious.

She looked at Sarah’s receding figure in the rearview mirror.

It seems that in the future, I will encounter it more or less at school. It is still useful to pay attention.

With such thoughts in mind, Valerie came to school the next day, ready to start her campus life.

The principal over here, Galen, had already greeted in advance, and only the principal himself knew Valerie’s true identity.

He assured Galen that he would never leak any information.

“Don’t worry, General Fisher. I promise not to let anyone know that Ms. Bowman is your granddaughter-in-law.”

But the rest is uncertain.

The video of Valerie rescuing the child, which was previously agile, was revealed to be Ms. Horton, who had been missing for ten years, by the Horton family.

The popularity has remained until now.

Other students at the school might have thought she was a member of the Horton family.

Valerie’s brow furrowed slightly.

But it quickly dissipated, there was no way, even though they claimed they would not return to live with the Horton family.

However, for the general public, they did not know the whole story and definitely thought that they would accept the Horton family and return to the Horton family.

So how everyone saw themselves at that time was another headache for Valerie.

Chapter 144 Visit Valerie (1)

Valerie's gaze shifted toward Sarah in the back seat.

Sure enough, she also realized that the person was Valerie. Immediately, she lowered her head, avoiding making eye contact with her.

A head of black hair, under the sunlight shining through the window, revealed a glossy sheen. It appeared that this hair was regularly well- maintained.

But now her actions are completely different from when she was in elementary school.

The other classmates in the class saw Valerie and stared at her with wide eyes.

"She seemed to be the missing Miss from the Horton family!"

"So, she was from a wealthy family, huh?"

"Wow, a wealthy family has actually joined our class."

There was a lot of discussion below, and it was unclear whether it was mockery or welcome.

Facing these children and their various expressions, Valerie took a deep breath and kept herself composed.

"Hello everyone, my name is Valerie Bowman and I was 17 years old this year. Nice to meet you all."

An overly concise self-introduction and that half-smiling expression made the class quiet down a bit.

After all, she was from a wealthy family. If someone made her unhappy, who knew what kind of treatment they would receive.

Peggy also awkwardly smiled.

“Then please have our new classmate take a seat, the row of seats at the back of the classroom is still empty, you can sit there first. If you can’t see, I will re-arrange your seat for you later.”

“Okay, thank you.”

Valerie smiled and replied, her eyes fixed on Sarah, whose head was already lowered as low as possible.

She sat down beside her.

The classmates in the class kept turning their heads back frequently, but Valerie just smiled slightly without showing much reaction.

She was a little curious now, why Sarah had become like this.

The members of the Fisher family were still in the principal’s office, chatting with the principal, but they were also getting ready to leave.

“Well, Principal, we will take our leave first.”

Galen’s authority was immediately displayed, and the principal respectfully shook hands with Galen to bid farewell.

“General Fisher, rest assured, we took good care of Valerie.”

Finally, the principal let out a long sigh of relief as the last car was finally sent away at the school gate.

The cold sweat behind had already soaked through his shirt.

The security guard at the entrance poked his head out of the security booth.

“Oh my, Principal, who are these people? They all seem quite impressive.”

The principal shook his hand helplessly.

Chapter 145 What's the Use of You? (2)

By the time Sarah reached middle school, she suddenly erupted and refused to study or attend any more gatherings.

The house was in chaos with chickens flying and dogs jumping.

In the end, her father, in a fit of anger, sent her to this public school and said he would no longer take care of her future life.

Living expenses were cut in half.

Sarah didn't care, but her mother had already started going crazy.

It doesn't matter where the daughter studied!

But the living expenses cannot be reduced!

I mentioned it to my husband, but I didn't expect him to say that.

“Hmph! Unless her grades are among the top in this public school, everything else is off the table.”

Sarah’s mother frowned in anger.

I blamed myself for being talkative and mentioned it to her.

She became worse and worse now.

The number of students decreased.

Parents were also becoming fewer and fewer, and Kieran and Bruce were hiding further and further away.

Their eyes were fixed on the school gate, and fortune favored the prepared.

Finally, Valerie came out, followed closely by Sarah.

Nowadays, parents are almost gone, and Sarah’s mother couldn’t bear it either.

He went straight past Valerie and approached Sarah.

Roughly pulling her arm, he almost dragged her toward the car.

Sarah was startled and forcefully shook off the punishment from her mother.

“What are you doing? Are you rebelling? You’re not happy to come and pick you up anymore? Come over here!”

“I, I could walk by myself!”

Sarah still resisted her mother’s attempt to reach out with a soft voice.

The middle-aged woman suddenly slapped Sarah hard on the body, not on the face.

After all, her daughter looked pretty good, so she took her to attend more parties to meet more high-quality men.

The crisp sound made Valerie, who was standing not far away, stop in her tracks.

Looked toward this side.

After watching for a while, she understood why Sarah had become like this.

It was all thanks to her mother.

Once upon a time, Reese and the gentlemen of the Horton family used to listen to their mother.

It was beyond compare with the current scene.

Valerie did not intend to step forward and help.

She just watched quietly, not moving from the road.

Watching Sarah being criticized by her mother, she thought about the way the Horton family used to be.
