

The Revived Me Surrounded by Adoration as a Supporting Role by Dedaul Chapter 154 -

Chapter 154 Mother

Sarah became a “regular” at Phil’s place.

Valerie was impressed by the frequent movements.

“It’s good that you went to Phil’s during the day, there’s some security, but it’s not okay for you to freeload off him like that, you should bring something over.”

“I know Valerie, but the last time I brought fruits, Phil not only didn’t want them, but also said that if I bring them again, he will become unfamiliar.”

Sarah blew her hair and applied hair oil before blow–drying it.

The hair, which was already shiny, became even more glossy.

Valerie pondered for a moment.

“Since Phil has already said so, I have nothing more to say. When you are ab out to leave, you can come over and bring something.”

“Uh–huh, I knew.”

Ending the conversation, Sarah continued to blow dry her hair, planning to go to bed early as she had to go to Phil’s place tomorrow to help look after Beatri ce.

It has been over a week since the appearance of the man in black.

These days, Sarah’s anxiety and worry gradually dissipated.

As Valerie said, there was indeed no major harm in it.

Her fearful heart slowly let go.

Now she had a big task.

It was about accompanying Beatrice and making her accustomed to her presence.

When Phil used to go grocery shopping during the day, he would buy groceries in bulk for several days at a time because he was worried that something might happen to Beatrice while she was home alone.

But now with Sarah around, he felt much more at ease.

You could go once a day.

After all, vegetables are only delicious when they are fresh on the same day.

The next day, Sarah arrived at Phil's house as promised.

I happened to see Phil pushing Beatrice into the living room.

I arrived at the old place and looked around.

"Sally is here. What do you want to eat for lunch today? Phil will go and buy it!"

"Phil, I could do anything for you!"

"Is there anything specific you want to eat? Take your time and think about it. I will be going out for a while, so there's no rush."

Sarah really thought about it.

Later, she somewhat embarrassedly said to Phil.

"Could Phil cook roast chicken?"

Now it was Phil's turn to freeze.

"Roast chicken, Phil knew a shop that sells really good roast chicken. I'll go buy it later, I haven't had it in a long time. You thought of this dish very well."

Without making Sarah too embarrassed, Phil continued to smile and straighten his own clothes.

I was getting ready to go out and buy groceries.

The weather outside was not so good.

The sky was gloomy, and it was about to rain.

Sarah took an umbrella for Phil.

"Be careful on the road, Phil."

"Okay! Phil would pay attention!"

With a smile on his face, Phil said goodbye to Sarah and turned to walk down the stairs.

At the moment he stepped out of the floor, his right eyelid twitched.

He furrowed his brows in a strange manner and touched his twitching right eyelid.

The left eye twitching indicates wealth, while the right eye twitching indicates disaster.

I don't think so...

Shaking his head, Phil muttered a few curses to himself.

When did I become so fussy and nagging?

Indeed, as I grew older, I began to believe in these things.

He walked briskly toward the entrance of the residential area.

Just as he left, the old yellowed van arrived outside the residential area.

There were not many people passing by that old road.

There was no surveillance here.

It was a good place to park.

The man sat silently, taking out a bag from his hand, just the right size for a child.

Looking at the community, waiting for someone to appear.
